THE DAY AFTER.

Henry James.
There, little boy, don't cry.
They have burnt your nose, I know,
And your hair is burned and your legs son learned.
The hospital records show.

There, little boy, don't cry.
You have taken your eye I know,
And your face is marrred and your hand is scarred.

There, little boy, don't cry.
Your family is sad, I know;
Though sorely bereft, the part of you left.

Next Fourth will likely go slow.

There, little boy, don't cry.
Your playmate is dead, I know,
But a mother's moan as she weeps alone.

It is part of the annual show.

WHAT THE GIRL DID.

The man in the big easy-chair looked across the table at his wife.
"I am repeating what Richardson said. He told me this morning that the boy had braced up in quite a wonderful way. He is punctual and energetic and works as he meant to climb. Richardson says he has stopped drinking."

The woman breathed more quickly.
"What will you do, Robert?"
"Do?" the man answered. "Nothing. This isn't the first time the boy has tried to brace up. You know how long it lasted."

"But perhaps a word from you will help him, dear."

"No."

"You are his father."

"See here, Emily, this won't do. I'm the boy's father, and I've been a bad father. Where I meant to please him I proved his worst enemy. He spent the money I gave him in wasteful living. But why speak of it? Before these doors are opened to him again he's got to prove that he's fit to enter them."

"You are very hard, Robert."

"I've been softer than wax. I'm as hard as nails now. But, there, we've had enough of that for to-night. I told Richardson not to report me until a week from today. Then we can tell, perhaps, whether this spasm of reform has any foundation."

"It will be hard to wait, Robert."

The man looked across at the woman. His stern face relaxed.
"Let us hope for the best, my dear," he said softly.

It was a week later, and the woman had patiently waited for the man to unfold his news of the erring son.

"Richardson reported again to-day, he said as he sank back in the easy-chair.

"Well, dear."

"The boy continues to do himself credit. Richardson says he is grasping his duties with a firmer grip. The other day he came to Graham—he's the head of the department—and told him he must have more pay. He said he knew he was worth more, and that he could get a job at any time with the Ajax people. Graham will double his pay next week. He told Richardson the boy was well worth the raise. It seems that Richardson noticed the change in Edgar two months ago, but wouldn't mention it because he was afraid it might not last." He paused. "Sounds good, doesn't it?"

The woman's head was bowed. She looked up slowly.
"I know what's brought about this change," she said half hysterically. "It's a girl."

The man stared at her.
"Thank God for the girl!" he said in his quick and earnest fashion.

"I did so want him to marry Alice Landon," said the woman.

Two nights later they were in the accustomed places beside the big library table.

The man suddenly smiled as he looked across at the woman.

"There is a girl," he said.
"Yes," said the woman. "I have seen her."

The man stared at her.
"I hope you did nothing rash," he said, and his voice was almost harsh.

"No," she answered; "I was very careful. What do you know about her?"

"Very little. She is a stenographer in the factory office. She earns a fair salary, and bears an excellent reputation. Edgar has been seen in her company a number of times. That's the extent of my knowledge. You say you've seen her. How did that happen?"

"I was in the little antique shop across the way, and he didn't see me—and, oh, Robert, our boy looks ten years older."

She paused with a little catch in her voice.
"Go on," said the man. "Let's hope he has grown ten years the wiser."

"He held himself straight Robert, and I think there is a new look in his eyes."

"Go on, you foolish mother."

The man softly laughed.
"The mother loves showing itself through maternal jealousy. Go on my dear."

"Edgar crossed the street quickly and fell into step beside the girl. They walked slowly, the girl looking up into his face now and then. There's no doubt that she loves him, Robert."

"And did your eyes tell you all this?"

"My eyes and my heart Robert. When Edgar and the girl turned the corner I hurried out and found Michael—he had the car on a little side street—and I followed them."

"In the car?"

"Yes, Robert."

"Rather an obtrusive way to trail our prey. But go on."

"They were standing still when we turned the corner, but Edgar did not look around. Michael ran ahead slowly, and as we passed them Edgar left the girl—she gave him her hand as he turned

COURTESIES EXCHANGED.

Capt. Capaert of the battleship Michigan accompanied by Ensign Foss paid an official visit to Mayor Stone at City Hall Thursday. After greeting Capt. Capaert and extending the keys of the city H. Hon. presented the members of the reception committee.

Capt. Capaert was given a brief outline of the plans for the Fourth and expressed his pleasure as well as his willingness to co-operate in every way to make the celebration a success.

The captain was also informed of the arrangements that had been made for the entertainment of the officers and crew and expressed himself as very much pleased.

The reception committee present were Maj. F. E. Jones, Capt. George A. Wardwell, Capt. George E. Adams, James H. Eelock, George T. Magee, William H. Teasdale and Arthur W. Stetson.

Capt. Capaert said that there were several Quincy men in his crew but he could not recall their names.

Mayor Stone and the reception committee paid a return visit to Capt. Capaert on the Michigan that afternoon.

WILLIAMS—FRANCIS.

A pretty little wedding took place Tuesday evening June 24th, when Miss Annie Josephine Francis became the bride of the Rev. Peter Williams, both of Wollaston. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Isaiah W. Sleath, Ph. D., at the home of Mrs. George P. Smith, sister of the groom.

The decorations consisted of cat brier, daisies, roses and honeysuckles. A wedding bell of lilies was suspended from a floral arch.

The bride was becomingly attired in white chameuse and silk lace, with a veil of tulle fastened with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid Miss Cherry L. Newell of Wollaston was attired in a gown of pink crepe manteo and carried pink carnations. The best man was Bryan M. Bean of Malden.

After a brief honeymoon the bridal couple will reside at 92 Brook street, Wollaston where they will be at home to their friends after September the first.

RICHARD'S MEDALS AWARDED

The winner of the L. S. Richards medal this year at the Marshfield High school graduation was Miss Grace Leonard of Marshfield Hills and the grammar school Herman Kent of Marshfield. The winner of the medal for the best original essay on total abstinence was given to Miss Dorris Jenne of North Marshfield who is only about twelve years of age and a grammar school graduate. Her essay was read at the High school graduation.

Mr. Richards has given the high and grammar schools medals for scholarships for ten years and the temperance medal for three years. A large audience filled the town hall for the exercises. There is a great struggle every year for the medals. The judges are the superintendent of schools and the school committee.

NARROW ESCAPE.

Rosie Baldassari tried to board the 6:14 A. M. Boston train at the West Quincy station Tuesday morning, missed her step and swung in between the two last cars where she rode 75 feet before the train was stopped. She retained her grip on the handle and kept her feet from touching the road bed and escaped with a cut on the head. Her sister Agnes successfully boarded the moving train.

Michael Kiley and John Stanton, both of West Quincy were on the platform as the train passed. They noticed the unusual position of the girl and their prompt action succeeded in having the train stopped.

After a half hour rest both walked to their homes on Common street, where Rosie was treated by Dr. J. T. Reynolds.

BRIEFS

The Paul R. Blackmurs of Elm street are at East Dennis on the Cape.

Miss Clara Thompson is to spend the summer in Normandy and Brittany, sailing on Tuesday, July first.

Miss Anna Leonard of Pleasant street, Stoughton, is the guest of relatives in this city.

Walter M. Packard and family of Chestnut street are moving into the old Packard homestead on Hancock street.

Miss Mildred and Master William Martin left Monday for a two months' stay at Nantasket beach.

Mrs. Alvin Brown of this city is the guest of Mrs. Burton Cutting of Morton street, Stoughton for a few days.

Mrs. Effie Rhines of Miller Stile road is much worried over an accident to her little grandson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Rich nee Ayer Rhines of Gloucester. He was coasting down hill on his bicycle and lost control, the fall resulting in a broken lower jaw, loss of several teeth and other bad wounds and bruises.

The many friends of Rev. H. Douglass Schumacher of Lynn City, Ia., will be pleased to learn that he is to occupy the pulpit of the First Parish in Milton Sunday morning, August 17.

Mr. and Mrs. Schumacher are to spend the summer in New England, visiting friends in Quincy and Wollaston.

William Weston of Wollaston organist and musical director at First church and the church quartet, are to go to the Unitarian meetings next week at the Isles of Shoals.

Two grand officers of the Knights and Ladies of Honor visited Maple Lodge in Protection hall Wednesday evening. Deputy Mrs. Bertha McGee and d'Grand Chaplain Mrs. L. A. Hardwick were among those present. The attendance was large and following the meeting a social hour was enjoyed. Refreshments were served.

Albert Tanberg of East Weymouth a conductor in the employ of the Bay State street railway was prostrated by the heat while he was on the running board of his car in City Square Wednesday evening. Fellow employees ran to his assistance and Dr. Garey was summoned. He was removed to his home and is doing well.

President Whiton of the City Council has appointed the following as the special committee authorized under the resolution of Councilman Cunningham for a special committee of five to act with a committee of five to be appointed by the Mayor to act with the Mayor and Dock Commissioner to further consider the matter of a public dock. The City Council committee are Councilmen Richards, Griffin, Sandberg, Gilliat and Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Marsh and daughter Marion and sons Stuart and Howard of Elm street left Saturday with Hyde Park friends for Kingston, New York for a two weeks stay in the Adirondacks, making the trip in their auto.

Mr. Luce of Somerville of the firm of Luce & Co. of Waltham has bought out Fowle & Co. in City square, the old stand for many years of C. S. Hubbard who was succeeded a few years ago by George Wheeler.

The Republican conventions will be much smaller this year. The State convention will be entitled to 1245 instead of 1672 as in 1912, and North Atlantic convention will have but 76 in stead of 111.

Capt. Capaert was given a brief outline of the plans for the Fourth and expressed his pleasure as well as his willingness to co-operate in every way to make the celebration a success.

The captain was also informed of the arrangements that had been made for the entertainment of the officers and crew and expressed himself as very much pleased.

The reception committee present were Maj. F. E. Jones, Capt. George A. Wardwell, Capt. George E. Adams, James H. Eelock, George T. Magee, William H. Teasdale and Arthur W. Stetson.

BRIEFS

The George Wheelers who have occupied apartments over the store of Fowle & Co., have moved to Bridgewater.

Walter M. Packard and family of Chestnut street are moving into the old Packard homestead on Hancock street.

The J. T. Hills of Dorchester are occupying half of the new double house of George E. Thomas on Stanislaw street.

Mrs. Chander W. Smith of Grandview avenue goes to the Isles of Shoals today to attend the Unitarian summer meetings.

Word has been received from Mr. and Mrs. Willard A. Rogers that they are spending a very delightful honeymoon in New Hampshire visiting the mountains and other places of interest.

Mrs. George W. Glover of Highland avenue is entertaining her mother and sister, Mrs. John Blake and Miss Dorothy Blake who arrived on Wednesday from Tampa, Florida.

The G. T. Hills of Dorchester are occupying half of the new double house of George E. Thomas on Stanislaw street.

A picnic will be held this Saturday at Merrymount park by the Finnish Congregational church and Sunday school. Special car service has been secured.

During June over 100 young people from Finland have settled in Quincy. Rev. J. E. Lillback is confident that they will make desirable citizens.

Rev. J. E. Lillback is having great success with his Wednesday evening outdoor meetings on Nelson street, having a large attendance each week.

He has been invited to hold services at South Quincy. More clergymen of the city should be interested in these outdoor meetings.

Sixteen Finnish residents of Quincy were successful in securing naturalization papers on Tuesday. The city was given to Schenectady, New York, where Mr. Goddard will teach during the summer. In the fall, they go to Lincoln, Neb. where he will be unsuccessful in the government test, but will try again.

Mrs. George C. Gorham of Old Colony avenue and Miss Jean I. Gorham of Stanislaw avenue are pleasantly located on Beale street near Farnsworth street where they have rented an apartment.

Miss Frances Hammond of Worcester and Miss Ella Granger of Auburn, Mass. are guests of the Gorhams.

Miss Helen King of Clay street left Wednesday for Northfield to attend the Fourth of July. A buffet lunch will be served during the entire evening by the house committee.

Master Cutler Bowker has returned to his home in New Jersey, after a long visit with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Newcomb of Winter street.

Charles C. Hellikson, the mason who fell from the roof of a building on Chickatabut street, Adams shore and broke his neck, passed away Tuesday night at the City Hospital. But little hopes were entertained for his recovery from the very first, and the physicians were somewhat surprised that he lived as long as he did. Hellikson was about 39 years of age, and it is said that he has a family. He lived on Watson road, Quincy Point.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Little Rogers of Red Rock street, Lynn gave a tea Tuesday afternoon in honor of Miss Ruth Peniman of Hancock street, Wollaston and her son Stephen Carleton Rogers whose engagement was announced last week. It was a pleasurable affair and included people from Quincy and Brookline. The decorations were pink roses and pink sweet peas.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kneland Ellis, Jr., and children Roger, Gwendolyn and Myrtle; Mr. and Mrs. James Willard Hallett and children Marion and Dorothy, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry James Landry all of Warwick street and Miss Georgia Barton making a party of twelve left Friday in two cars to motor to Western New York state. They will first visit relatives at Welland, Ontario, after which they will enjoy sightseeing at Niagara Falls and other interesting places. The three sisters were the misses Boyles and they will be present at the Boyle Family reunion at Buffalo and attend service at the little Episcopal St. James church where they were all baptized, confirmed and married.

While your wife is at the summer resort you can enjoy the comfort and satisfaction of having everything in the wrong place.

How much simpler it was in the good old times, when all the Congressmen walked up to the corporation office every Saturday night and drew their pay envelopes.

Gen. Wood does not seem well satisfied with the army, although the lawns are kept well mowed at all the posts.

Archdeacon Stock climbed Mt. McKinley as a summer outing while most people kick if the summer hotel has no elevator to the second floor.

It seems quite possible that the handsomest man, for whom Uncle Joe Cannon says the women will vote, will be beaten by the one who can quote the most poetry.

Hugh taxes still continue, although it was always possible to postpone payment of many bills until another year.

Brahm's new town house is a very dignified looking structure, in keeping with its surroundings and an Old New England town.

BACK TO GETTYSBURG.

To the average man the great Gettysburg reunion is mostly a big picnic. The occasion observed is something he studied about in school, more or less musty with the dust of libraries.

The writer, reading the other day the life of Gen. Robert E. Lee, found the pages dealing with Gettysburg scribbled over with pencil foot notes expressing the controversial convictions of some veterans. To him and his comrades these pages are evidently still thrilling with live human problems.

No two veterans will ever quite agree just what turned the day at Gettysburg. On one side Lee, audacious, a superb tactician, worshipped by his matchless army, whose force nearly equalled its opponents, when he had repeatedly whipped. He looked like a winner.

On the other Meade, cold, business like, efficient, arousing confidence but no enthusiasm, with an army equally tenacious and heroic.

Did Lee's audacity carry him too far in sanctioning that glorious but suicidal charge of Pickett's? Or was it Longstreet's fatal sloth in making his attacks of the second and third day? Hear the veterans thump the table while they argue it out.

Although the majority of students probably blame Longstreet, Lee's fine magnanimity appeared when he said, "Never mind, all this has been my fault, it is I that have lost this fight."

What a contrast between the reeking surgeons and barns filled with the wailing and dying 50 years ago, and present scene of summer and agricultural peace, between the hate of canes and the friendly handshake.

May this happy reunion of old heroes do much to soften such misunderstandings as may still exist, to help each of the various sections of our country to see things from the other man's point of view.

THE WOODWARD SCHOOL.

It is good news to those interested in the Woodward school to know that the board of managers are contemplating taking over again the active management of the school and conduct its affairs for the best good of the school and as nearly as possible the lines desired by Dr. Woodward as is consistent with the present generation and its requirements.

We are not criticising the management of Mr. Barbour or Mr. Parlin his predecessor but it does seem to us that the superintendent of the public schools should not have charge of private schools like the Woodward or Adams academy as the natural tendency would be to make them a part of the public school system.

Then again the school although not large could be better expended on teachers and equipment. What a howl would go up in Braintree if it was proposed to hand Thayer Academy over to the superintendent of schools. The board of trustees are more widely scattered than those of the Woodward as most of them do not reside in the town. Yet it would be hard to find a better school than Thayer Academy with its efficient head master, competent corps of teachers and well grounded pupils.

With the ministers who are educated men giving their time to the management and a competent, all round master who is given power to select teachers and run the school intelligently it should not be a great task as there are less than 200 pupils. There is no reason why the Woodward school should be a side show of the public schools.

A TRIBUTE.

The death of Miss Bumpus brings forcibly to mind her indefatigable services in the pioneer work of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Her name and devotion are inseparably connected with the history of the Library, and her works follow after her, for the present healthy condition of the Library is in no small measure the result of her wise planning and the faithful performance of the duties of her position.

Her portrait in the Library will introduce to the generations to come the face of one whom not having seen in the flesh they know through her invaluable services.

As reluctantly as the Trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library accepted the resignation of Miss Bumpus with an appreciative resolution of gratitude, so now as her earthly career is ended, they desire to put on record the "Well done good and faithful servant."

Surely such a woman, who developed her talents to the utmost for the benefit of others, has entered upon her eternal reward.

MISS BUMPUS.

Miss Amelia L. Bumpus who has been ill for several weeks, falling gradually since the death of her sister Mary and the breaking up of their home on Spear street, passed away early Saturday evening at her late home on High school avenue.

She was a sister of Judge Everett C. Bumpus of Presidents hill of the Panama Canal and other commissions, and a son of Lieut. Edward A. Bumpus, Co. C, 9th U. S. Infantry, who was massacred on the Island of Samar in the Philippines, about ten years ago.

For thirty years Miss Bumpus was librarian of the Thomas Crane Public Library, tendering her resignation about four years ago to the trustees which was accepted with regret.

From a small beginning she has seen the library grow into one of the largest and best in the state. Hers was a personal interest and real love for the work. Nothing to aid patrons was too much trouble for her and literary clubs and those using the reference library found her intelligent and willing assistance of invaluable help. In appreciation of her kindness the Friday club, one of the oldest literary clubs in the city, made her an honorary member of the club and it was a real pleasure to the members when she could be present at a meeting.

Under her administration the library grew and kept up with the city's growth and no woman ever gave thirty years of better service or retired from public life with more real friends.

Retirement from public life only increased her activities in other ways for she loved to do for others, often at a sacrifice. She never considered herself and today there are many people and homes where she has been a friend in deed who will have pleasant memories of a "good woman" who has passed from this to her heavenly rest.

Although never married Miss Bumpus mothered every one, young and old; at the bedside of the sick, by gifts, and many thoughtful acts and her doing was not confined to her church which she dearly loved but every one needing help was her brother or sister.

In Bethany church she was interested in every part of it, always attending the services and for many years singing in the choir, in the Ladies Circle she was a great worker and as a member of Unity Circle King's Daughters her activities were unceasing. As senior deaconess of Bethany church she assisted at the christenings. The Hospital Aid association found her a willing worker. She would have to find a woman doing life's work more nobly yet, unconsciously for she little realized what a big place she occupied in many hearts.

The prizes for the several divisions are as follows: In the military division a prize will be given to every organization. The prizes in the other divisions are as follows:

First prize, silver cup; second prize $10 in cash, third price $5 in cash, fourth prize $4 in cash, fifth prize $5 in cash, sixth prize $3 in cash.

He serves his country best Who joins the tide that lifts her noly on; For speech has myriad tongue for every day; And song for one; and law within the breast Is stronger than the graven law on stone; There is a better way; He serves his country best Who lives pure life, and doeth righteously; And walks straight paths, however others stray; And leaves his sons as utmostest bequest; A stainless record which all men may read; This is the better way. —Susan Collidge.

Notes and Comments.

The young Prince of Wales is no mollycoddle, whatever else may be said of him. Ordered out of the famous Bullingdon club at Oxford by his mother for taking part in a "Bullingdon blind," he recently attracted attention by being "captured" in maneuvers at Aldershot, and now it is announced that he marched twenty miles in the broiling sun, carrying rifle, knapsack and water bottle, sleeping in a barn with his fellow cadets and finishing in good condition. Some prince, that, as they put it in the vernacular.

All states in time will probably adopt the five-day rule in the granting of marriage licenses to outsiders. It is a good rule, as it tends to prevent hasty marriages which are likely to be repented at leisure, according to the old saying. Most of the New England states now have the law and in Connecticut it will become effective August 1. Until then eloping couples will make the matrimonial business good in the Nutmeg state.—Lowell Courier-Citizen.

Forty thousand white voters who never read a newspaper are said to live in South Carolina. We do not know that they are any more unfortunate than the forty thousand or more voters in Massachusetts who never profit by what they read in the newspapers.—New Bedford Standard.

That it must puzzle the student of civil history not a little to learn who makes Massachusetts laws with some signed by the Governor, others passed over the Governor's veto, and still others effective by non-executive interference, positive or negative. Lynn Item.

Advice for hot weather includes "Don't wear many clothes." Many ladies have been obeying this tip all winter, and will find it hard to be much more obedient along this line in public.—Brooklyn Enterprise.

Professor Monroe of a Montclair school has gone abroad with a large collection of the seeds of New Jersey wild flowers which he will scatter along his pathway in Europe, and upon returning will bring back seeds of the flora of Europe which will plant at home. A brilliant scheme, almost as notable as the exploit of the enthusiast who gave us the Russian thistle and the brown-tail moth.—Taunton Herald.

Only six months to Christmas," says the Lowell Courier-Citizen. Our Lowell friend has "beaten us all to it." But let's stop and think a moment. Isn't it a wise warning? There's a good deal of money spent at Christmas that only six months intervene between now and disbursement time, and begin to stack up a little pile of money each month for Christmas use only? Why wait till just before the glad time and then, as in some cases each year, have to scrimp and save every cent for a few weeks before gift day, to make up all that's needed? There is nothing better for getting ready for Christmas than the "good old summer time." There's no time like the present at any time of year for saving a little something anyway.—Brooklyn Enterprise.

We are slowly coming to the place where we shall voluntary reduct the relations between the producers and the customers of products of every kind. The producers who are most concerned are those who put ideas into their work. Hitherto we have been willing to allow their claim to a monopoly of their processes and products, hence patents and assured profits for their contribution of new ideas to guide the efforts of those who earn a livelihood by manual labor. As in the medical profession, discoverers of the causes and cure of disease are bound in honor to give the public the benefit of their sagacity and learning, so some time a new sense of responsibility for the common good will lead men of genius and power to work more of mankind more tolerable. When that comes to pass, the absurd and mischievous delusion involved in the belief that to the workingman belongs all that passes through his hands will vanish. Without the organ-blower there might be no music, and without the handworker there might be no production, but the genius of the inventor and planner is the real producer, and some day this will be dedicated to the common weal.—Christian Register.

REDMEN—WANDERERS.

The Redmen A. C. of South Quincy beat the Neponset Wanderers Saturday afternoon, 6 to 0. The invincible must-tout pitcher of the Wanderers was hit hard and often. John Koen, the winning pitcher was well supported and had swell control. Martin, the regular first base man split his finger and retired. His place was filled by R. Koen. The winners at fast rounding into shape to take the measure of the Station Owing Club at about four on the holiday afternoon. The score: Redmen 0 0 0 1 0 1 0 2 6; Wanderers 8 0 0 0 1 0 2 0 0 3.

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL.

wood's Neck. (Telegraph) North Haven.

In response to a demand for old fashioned music, the services at the Wollaston Congregational Sunday were largely musical. By popular request a large number of well known hymns were sung by the congregation and were thoroughly enjoyed by all. The choir gave Shelley's "Hark! Hark! my soul," the "Sing Alleluia, Alleluia," of Buck, and Miss Ruth Hardy very sympathetically rendered "The Homecoming."

Dr. Sneath spoke briefly but very forcefully. The coming celebration of the field of Gettysburg brought to his mind the object of our civil strife, and "Freedom" gave him an opportunity of which he could hardly fail to take advantage. Physical slavery of any kind is abhorred, mental slavery more and often less excusable. We are ruled by our minds and the only real freedom is in the infinite freedom from sickness, doubt and every limitation. Don't be a slave in the midst of freedom, he urged. The last session for the summer of the Sunday school met at 12.5. Mr. Chas. A. Campbell, superintendent will give due notice of its opening in the Fall, and to that occasion he will bring a splendid fund of enthusiasm and new ideas.

Christian Endeavor Society met at 6 P. M. and was spiritedly led by Miss M. K. Morse, who chose for the subject "Our Nation's Glories and Perils." The Midweek service will take place in the vestry on Thursday at the usual time 7.45. Dr. Sneath will preside and will make it a service preparatory to the communion next Sunday. His subject will be "A Christian Nation." On next Sunday July 6th in the Congregational church will be a Union Communion service of this church and the Wollaston Baptist church. This will be the first of five union services the others being on July 13th, July 20th, July 27th and Aug. 3rd, in the Congregational church. These will be followed by union services in the Baptist church on Aug. 10th, Aug. 17th, Aug. 24th, Aug. 31st, and a union communion service in the Baptist church on Sept. 7th. Dr. Sneath will conduct and preach at the services in the Congregational church and the Rev. Mr. Walther will conduct and preach at the services in the Baptist church.

The midweek services in the Congregational church will continue through July, but will be omitted in August.

The Y. P. S. C. E. will hold union meetings on Sunday evenings in July in the Congregational church and during August in the Baptist church.

BETHANY CHURCH.

Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott's message from the pastor to the congregation of Bethany church Sunday morning was "Public spirit and the church: The Tapestry Weavers," which was most appropriate to the thought of the sermon.

The church will be closed during July and August, and the minister with his family will spend their vacation on his farm "The Nestledell" in Ossipee, N. H. Mr. Horst will gladly return at any time and render any ministerial service within his power if notified by telegram. Address: Rev. C. G. Horst, Ossipee, N. H. The church will reopen the Sunday after Labor Day.

GOOD ADVICE.

A mistake was made by the school authorities in not inviting Rev. B. A. Willmott of Bethany church to deliver the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of the Quincy High school, for his address on Sunday was one which all the class should have heard. The pastor's subject was "If I were graduating from High school in 1913."

The knights of King Arthur are holding a field day at the Riverside recreation grounds today.

The annual church and Sunday school picnic will be held at Ridge Hill Grove, Hingham on Tuesday July 8.

There will be games, sports, refreshments, etc. The price charged the beginners, primary, junior and intermediate departments of the school for tickets does not cover expenses, all other tickets are sold at cost.

Those who wish to help give the children a good time by contributing to the Picnic Fund will please use the special envelopes to be found in the pews.

First, said I, would cultivate appreciation of which made possible my education. Second, I would cultivate appreciation of my parents for sacrifices made that I might be educated.

Third, have an aim. Be ready to serve your city and your country.

Fourth, get into politics, but never accept or give a bribe. Be a Christian, with reverence for the church and the living God.

Mr. Willmott enlarged on all the points and was particularly emphatic in denouncing snobbishness and advocating democracy.

Among the High school graduates last week were fourteen young people of Bethany church. Many of the class attended the Sunday evening service.

SHACKLEY—HILL.

A very pretty home wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Hill, Walker street, Saturday afternoon at four o'clock, when their daughter Miss Florence May, was married to Mr. George Shackley of Roxbury by the bride's uncle, Rev. Frank L. Bristol of Northboro.

The bride was handsomely gowned in white satin and wore a veil which was caught up by a crown of sweet peas. She carried a showy bouquet of white sweet peas. Mrs. Robert Cook of Roslindale, sister of the bride was matron of honor. She was prettily gowned in pink and white and carried a bouquet of pink sweet peas.

A NATURE LOVER.

"How brisk the breezes blow to-day! They carry all my cares away.

"How soft," said I.

"Oh, yes, the wind is nice," said she; "but it does not move dreadfully."

"How pleasant is the summer sun! That glides the breezes every one!"

"How sweet!" I said.

"Oh, yes," she answered with a purr; "but then it brings my freckles out."

"Come, let us sit upon this bank. Where roses cluster tall and dark.

"We'll watch," said I.

"The stream goes by."

"She said, "But I must look a fright; and, oh, how the mosquitoes bite!"

"Then, let us ramble on the road between the fields with clover sown."

"Just see," said I.

"The waving rye."

"Alas," she said, "I can't enthuse, For see how dusty are my shoes."

"Well, face about; we'll homeward go. You said you loved nature. Nature so."

"I don't," I said.

"I do love Nature," she confessed.

"But love it at a distance best."

"Lippincott's Magazine."

A RIOT OF ROSES.

"I'll have this," said Susanne, with decision.

"Sure ye like it, Sue?" asked Silas, with the familiarity of long acquaintanceship.

"Sure," answered Susanne, briefly.

"An't too gay is it now?" pursued Silas, knocking the stem from his pipe, preparatory to refilling that perennial source of man.

"Gay?" repeated Susanne, "why no."

I'll have this," said Susanne, with decision.

"Sure ye like it, Sue?" asked Silas, with the familiarity of long acquaintanceship.

"Sure," answered Susanne, briefly.

"I'm glad you did not get any further with it," said the unsuspecting Susanne.

"But, Silas, you forget there's no time. Marcus Reeves is coming next Saturday, and this room must be in perfect order this evening. I don't know what to do."

"Roses, ye mean. I take it you'll find there's a pesky lot of 'em come to get a hull room papered with 'em. Ten rolls, that room takes, don't it, not counting borderin'?"

"Yes," absently. "It will be sweet—a little ecstatic squeak. 'Aower a poser, sure for sure. But look here,'" after a pause for deep reflection.

"There's some of Jim Blake's old stock of paper in the store, loft. I ain't sure now 'ould suit ye, but that's a chance. What d'ye say?"

"Let me look at it by all means," answered Susanne. "Can we go now?"

"Notin' to binder," said Silas.

"I'll run down to mother's room and see if she is comfortable, then get my sunshade and come over to the store if you will look up the paper meanin' of course."

"Does she like it?" queried Susanne, briskly.

"Pshaw!" she said, half aloud, as she came up the garden path. "I'll not look at that room again until I'm fit, for better or worse, and shall just put it out of my mind."

So it was twenty-five days later that Susanne and Molly, the strong-armed hired girl, approached the guest room door; the latter with a roll of cool green matting under either arm.

"But, Silas, you forget there's no time. Marcus Reeves is coming next Saturday, and this room must be in perfect order this evening. I don't know what to do."

DAMAGE BY STORM.

According to the Boston papers, Quincy was one of the places most hardly hit by the storm Thursday noon. As stated in the Daily Ledger of that day the storm broke shortly after 1 o'clock and for half an hour it blew a gale and the rain and half an hour in torrents flooding the streets.

The storm did a great amount of damage in Quincy but fortunately no one received any injuries. The most serious damage was at the granite plant of H. C. Smalley Granite Co. where the massive traveling crane was blown along the run and then dropped onto the siding from the main line of the railroad. As the crane fell an outward train was approaching and the engineer was thinking that the tracks might be blocked, brought his train to a stop. Fortunately, however, the crane fell as noted above on the siding and it was later hoisted into position again by the railroad wrecking crane which had been sent to Quincy Adams to clear up the wreck caused by the runaway freight car.

All along Franklin street trees were blown down taking telephone wires with them, and many telephones in the South Quincy district were put out of commission. A large tree in Franklin street was one of the big trees to be blown over. In addition to this tree, limbs were blown down all over the city and the ground was covered with broken branches.

One bolt of lightning struck the large chimney on the northerly end of the High school building sending the bricks flying in all directions. A bolt struck the chimney near the top, making a big hole in it. The heavy eaving however was not blown off. The bricks fell into Butler road and the grounds at that side of the building were cleared off as a warning to pedestrians to look out.

One of the freaks of the storm was seen in Sargent's land in the Fore River district. Here a large willow tree was uprooted which in falling struck the L of a small house occupied by Sigmund Antone, ripping off the roof and leaving the chimney exposed to the elements. The family were badly frightened but none of them were injured. It was a fine sight to see the kitchen stove dining table exposed to the elements.

Notes and Comments.

Jane Addams is to establish in Illinois schools in which women will be taught how to vote. It will pay some of the political bosses of that state to secure positions as teachers.—Tau-ton Herald.

It is backhanded tribute that a contemporary pays to newspaper men and legislators when it hints that the law to cut off free passes may have been framed after it was found that the free passes had not been doing the work for the railroads that might have been expected. If newspapers and lawmakers can be generally bought for a free ticket or two to ever print and vote what the railroads want printed or voted, the game was altogether too cheap, and reflected seriously on the men involved.—Brockton Enterprise

Married men have some compensation for their heavier responsibilities not included in the proposed reduction of the federal income tax in favor of fathers of families. New York State statistics show that the married men have a much lower death rate, especially during the years from twenty to sixty, than the unmarried. And while that is true of both sexes, it is much more marked among men than among women. With matrimony shown to result in a distinct gain in longevity, the benefits have the last laugh over the bachelors.

Alexander G. McAdie, at present head of the United States weather bureau in San Francisco, has been appointed director of the Blue Hill Observatory and Professor of Meteorology by Harvard University, to which the observatory was bequeathed by Professor Rotch. The new director will come to Blue Hill probably in September. L. A. Wells, who has been in charge at the observatory since Professor Rotch's death a little more than a year ago, is to retire.

—Canada's forest area is about 800,000,000 acres.

Mills in British Columbia are shiping considerable paper pulp to Japan.

—On the best German forests the annual expense is $15 an acre, but the gross returns are as much as $25; thus they yield a net return of $11 an acre each year.

—Four launches are used in patrol and transportation work on national forests in Alaska, which include many small islands and inlets.

Motion picture companies are making films of all the activities of the federal forest service, including planting, cutting timber, patrol and lookout work. Already at least two fire-fighting "movies" are being exhibited.

—Application has been received by the government for a summer home colony on the Shoshone national forest, Wyoming. The plan is to have a central assembly hall for community gatherings, and separate cottages for the several families of the communal recreation center.

NEPONSET BRIDGE OPEN.

Commissioner Tupper made a thorough examination on Saturday of the Neponset bridge, where the fire was early on the morning of the Fourth and found that the damage was not as bad as was stated. He found that it was confined largely to the planking of the sidewalk on the east side of the bridge. Preparations were made for immediate repairs to the sidewalk and Saturday he had a gang of men sawing up the planking used on the grand stand in City Square. No carpenters could be found Saturday, but a gang of men was put at work bright and early this morning replanking the sidewalk. The main bridge which had been temporarily closed to street car travel after the fire was in use all day Saturday.

In anticipation that a fire might start on the bridge on the Fourth, Chief Littlefield had the bridge thoroughly soaked with water the afternoon before, but the hot sun evidently soon absorbed the water.

GOOD SHOWING

The Executive Committee of the Fourth of July Celebration Association met Saturday night to go over accounts and settle up. All bills that had been presented were checked up and if found correct were approved and will be paid immediately. In checking up the cash account it was found quite a number who had promised to send checks had neglected to do so. As the association desires to settle up all accounts immediately all parties who have not forwarded their checks, as promised, are requested to do so immediately. If those checks come in the association will be able to square all accounts.

The Executive Committee voted to thank all who in any way contributed to make the day a success, especially to the local newspapers who did a great deal to make the celebration the success that it was.

TO HAVE MIDNIGHT TRAIN.

Chairman Teasdale of the Transportation committee of the Board of Trade who has been working hard to get the 12:05 midnight train for Quincy put on again commencing Monday, July 14. The train will be put on for a month and if it proves to pay it will probably be continued throughout the year.

The train will make all of the Quincy stops, that is at Atlantic, North Downs, Wollaston, Quincy and Quincy Adams.

The residents demanded this train and Mr. Teasdale says that is now up to them to see that the train pays.

QUINCY'S CELEBRATION.

The citizens of Quincy and especially Mayor Stone and the members of the executive committee of the Fourth of July Celebration Association have every reason to congratulate themselves on the success of the celebration in Quincy on the Fourth. It was an ideal day, although hot, and there was an absence as far as known of the loss of fingers and other injuries by the premature explosion of fireworks. The morning was delightful cool, and while some thought it might be a fore runner of a cool day, the wise guys shook their heads and said hot and it certainly was hot.

Things were doing in City Square from early morning, and about the time the first parade was to pass through City Square there were thousands of citizens astir. Every incoming street car also brought more many coming from Atlantic where they had been to see the parade which was held there earlier in the morning.

Mayor Stone's reception committee was on hand early and saw that the officers of the battleship, Michigan were looked after. Capt. Capehart and Mrs. Capehart were the first of the battleship to arrive, and they were registered at the Greenleaf chambers.

Automobiles went to Houghs Neck and brought others to City Square, so that there were a dozen or more of the ships' officers on the reviewing stand when the parades passed in review. Several of the officers of ship had their wives with them. The battleship left Quincy Bay at 5 o'clock Sunday morning for Mexican waters where they will remain all summer and it was natural that the wives of the officers should desire to see their better half before the long cruise. Some of the ladies came from Washington and New York, while still others came from Virginia and more distant states.

While waiting for the parade Mayor Stone introduced Fred Awd, a recent graduate of the High school, who read the Declaration of Independence.

The police detail about the reviewing stand was in charge of Chief Burrell and Inspector Goodine, but while that is true of both sexes, it is much more marked among men than among women. With matrimony shown to result in a distinct gain in longevity, the benefits have the last laugh over the bachelors.

—Married men have some compensation for their heavier responsibilities not included in the proposed reduction of the federal income tax in favor of fathers of families. ### HIS MOTHER'S SONG.

Beneath the hot midsummer sun
The men had marched all day;
And now beside a rippling stream
Upon the grass they lay.
Tiring of games and idle jest,
They cried, "We're tired, we're tired."
To one who mused apart,
"Come friend, give us a song."

"I fear I cannot please," he said
"The only song I know
Are those my mother used to sing
For me, long years ago."

"Sing one of those," a rough voice cried;

"The one none but true men here;
To every mother's son of us
A mother's songs are dear."

Then sweetly rose the singer's voice
"Auld unwanted care,"

"Am I soldier of the Cross,
A follower of the Lamb?"

And shall I fear to own his cause?"

The very stream was still,
And to the song that never throbbed with fear
With tender thoughts were filled.

Ended the song; the singer said,
"As to his feet he rose."

"Thanks to you all, my friends, good-night,

"God grant us sweet repose."

"Sing us one more," the captain
The soldier bent his head,
Then glancing round, with smiling lips,
"You'll join with me?" he said.

"We'll sing this old familiar air,
Sweet as the bugle call,

"All the half power of Jesus' name, Let angels prostrate fall."

And to the song's old tune, spell'd

"On the soldier sang,

Man after man fell into line,

And loud the voices rang.

The songs are done, the camp is still,
Naught but the stream is heard;

But ah! the depths of every soul

By those old hymns are stirred

And up from many a bearded lip,
Whispers come and low,

Rises the prayer that mother taught

Her boy long years ago.

Martha disengaged herself from the tangle and looked apprehensively over her shoulder. The angry cat stood on the floor, back high in indignation. Grandmother Bartlett, her weakness gone, was sitting up in bed. A long moment she looked at Jonathan's wife. No one moved. Then with one quick motion, she snatched the papers from the astonished lawyer's hand. The ink pen flew on to the painted floor. She tore the will across and across again.

"Clear out," she commanded at last, looking portentously in the feather bed.

"What are you up to? Folks are all talkin' about you an' me what it means, an' I don't know, an' I can't let tell."

Martha looked up from the dress she was folding.

"Mother," demanded Jonathan,

"What are you up to? Folks are all talkin' about you an' me what it means, an' I don't know, an' I can't tell."

Martha looked up from the dress she was folding.

"Bless your heart, don't let that bother you any more. Child's notion or woman's notion. Jonathan never will have a chance to buy the Peaslee place; he was only a child's notion. I'm sure he didn't mean anything. I don't know what started all this, of course, and I'm sure Jonathan didn't mean anything. I'm sure he was only a child's notion. I'm sure he didn't mean anything. I'm sure he was only a child's notion. I'm sure he was only a child's notion. I'm sure he was

HISTORICAL DAY.

At the annual meeting of the Quincy Historical society held some weeks ago it was voted to hold a historical day in Quincy in the near future and a committee was appointed to carry the plan into effect. This committee has been hard at work and it is announced that the date for the affair has been set for Sept. 17.

Invitations will be sent to seventeen historical societies in the state, each of which will be requested to send ten delegates to Quincy on that date. While the full plans have not as yet been completed it is expected that the program will include a trip about the city to inspect some of the historical places and later the delegates will be served tea at the house of the Historical society.

AN ENDORSEMENT.

Terming the petition for the widening of the Fore River as really meritorious the Boston Transcript comments as follows:

"Our Massachusetts delegation in Congress is faithfully reflecting the sentiment of the people of this State in actively supporting the movement to secure a preliminary survey for widening and deepening of the Fore River channel from Quincy to Boston. The case was strongly and impressively presented this week before the board of army engineers for rivers and harbors. The shipbuilding interests at that point make such an improvement not only desirable but necessary, and the relations of Fore River to Boston Harbor are so close and intimate, that the project may very appropriately be included in the scheme of waterway development for this section. The board has consented to give the proposition consideration and we trust that it will be favorable. Few more meritorious petitions of this character have been presented to the Federal authorities."

WHO FOR MAYOR?

The political situation in Quincy is commencing to take on an interesting aspect and although it is not known that any aspirants for the Mayor's chair have formally announced their candidacy it is generally understood that several will be in the field.

It seems to be expected that Mayor Stone will be a candidate for re-election and he will probably be opposed by Charles H. Johnson. Both will run on the Republican ticket.

Mr. Johnson, who was a former assessor, has been giving much time and study to the problem of taxation and claims to have worked out a well-defined equalization which will materially decrease the tax rate of the city and be to the advantage of the small as well as the large tax payer.

For a year or more he has been giving his views on this topic at the invitation of different clubs and his hearers seem to believe that the remedies proposed are worthy of more than passing attention.

Major Stone, if rumor is correct, will run up against opposition in different parts of the city. The movement at present centers in Houghs Neck and is based on the attitude of the Mayor toward the granting of licenses for public dance halls. The wide spread publicity given his position and the conditions under which he finally granted the licenses has, in the opinion of many Houghs Neck people had a marked effect on the population. It is absolutely known, according to residents of the Quincy summer resort that many prospective cottagers refused to consider the beach as a summer residence after the hostilities of early spring between two hostiles, one butting the other on the dance hall premises.

John L. Miller, who has formally announced that he will not again be a candidate for the School Committee, will be the Progressive candidate this fall. Shortly after the birth of the Progressive movement, Mr. Miller crystallized a sentiment which was favorable to himself and made a hard fight for election. Close friends say he intends to again be in the running.

Nothing definite has been ascertained regarding the attitude of William T. Shea, many people claiming to be in touch with the situation openly state that he will be a candidate for the office which he held for four years.

Other sources of information disclose the names of Joseph L. Whiston, president of the council, and ex-Mayor Charles M. Bryant as likely to enter the race. For the past five years at least one section of the city has been more than favorable to Joseph L. Whiston, and at one time it gave Mr. Bryant a flattering vote. Mr. Whiston, it is thought would willingly consider filling the mayors chair and from the time he entered public life he had had valiant supporters in at least four of the wards in the city.

If Mr. Bryant decides to jump into the fray a battle royal will probably ensue since there is no man better qualified to discuss the affairs of Quincy and the reputation of the Ward Five councilman is such that all agree that he is a man who carries out his policies in the face of the sternest opposition.

Dr. John H. Ash who was brought into the political field last year as the Democratic candidate has not openly stated his preferences this year and James H. Pennington who was the regular Democratic nominee said a short time ago that he would certainly be on the ballot.

Henry L. Kincaide, who made Congressman Gilmore step some in the last congressional campaign, has been mentioned as a candidate for every political office on the calendar. Several of the Bull Moose party commenced talking in his interest shortly after the votes were counted, and throughout the winter there was a movement afoot which connected him with the mayor's office. Col. Kincaide is at present conducting a Chamber of Commerce party on a business getting trip through South America and his successful business career is a strong argument in his behalf.

He has also been mentioned as the candidate for Senator to fill the position vacated so ingloriously by John J. McDevitt who accepted apologetic rather than publicly apologize after he had failed to prove charges of bribery made against Senator Buckley.

All in all the contest promises to be a merry one and although most of the attention will be given the state ticket in the coming two months there are several in the city who will continue the work of sounding sentiment for candidates favorable to them.

Mr. Rockefeller was a "rose-bush in the garden of the Lord," but nobody has called him an American beauty.

Mr. Wilson can't expect to make his mark on the history of his country until he learns to go around the golf course in less than 95.

Postmaster General Burleson gets up at 5 o'clock in the morning. No doubt the office seekers begin to ring his bell about then.

The Commoner is coming out only once a month now. Perhaps Mr. Bryan does not enjoy getting up a column article about the weekly meeting of the county committee as well as formerly.

Three city tax rates have been reported and all are high. Gloucester has a rate of $19.40, the same as in 1912. Medford is $19.00, an increase from $18.00, and Fitchburg is $20.00. The valuation of Gloucester is $25,612,223 against $24,880,707 in 1912.

The valuation of Medford is $31,374,950 against $29,864,900 in 1912.

The increase in real estate was $1,675,500, but personal property showed a loss of $316,200. The population is estimated at 26,415. The city has 4655 houses, a gain of 343. Polls ass

CONSCIENCE MONEY.

Have the American people suddenly become more or less conscientious? How account for the drop of the government conscience fund to $215? These figures for the year ending June 30 are the lowest voluntary contributions for 12 years.

A plausible explanation is that this fund has come largely from travellers who died at the custom house about dutiable goods. Recent prosecutions no doubt convinced them the game is not worth playing.

Conscience must be firmly handled to be a successful sinner. If you give a child candy before meals once or twice, soon he demands a daily allowance. If conscience is dealt with firmly and as a matter of principle, it soon comes to know its place. But if handled in a temporizing fashion, it becomes very unruly, and pokes its nose into everything.

Many successful Americans have felt, when it came to a matter of buying legislatures or city councils, that this was a realm in which questions of conscience could not enter. The mere fact that it was "business" placed it outside questions of morality or immorality.

Government conscience funds come from unsuccessful sinners. They wanted to play the game, but didn't quite dare to. They temporized with conscience. They would pass the winking officer with some plausible excuse. The law was mean, the goods sold at auction wouldn't bring a price. Given an inch, conscience took an ell, and finally forced restitu-

The fall of the conscience fund, therefore does not seem to have much significance. Let us slurs be cast at uneasy souls that returned illegitimate savings. The act is highly creditable. While fear is called a low down motive, the Good Book says the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom. Would that more people entertained it!

HALL PLACE M. E. CHURCH.

These arrangements have been made between the pastor of the Wollaston M. E. and the Hall Place M. E. churches for the vacation season: July 20 and 27, Rev. G. M. Bailey of Wollaston will preach at 10:30 A.M. Sunday school 11:30 to 12:30. There will be no further services during the day; Aug. 3, 10, 17 and 24, Rev. T. C. Martin will preach at West Quincy at 10:30 and at Wollaston at 11:30. Sunday school at 11:30 and there will be an evening service at 7:30. On the four Sundays, Aug. 31 and Sept. 7, Rev. G. M. Bailey will preach at West Quincy at 10:30 and at Wollaston at 11:30. Sunday school at 11:30; Aug. 31, there will be no service in the evening. On Sept. 7, the Epworth League will conduct their devotional service at 7 P.M. Each service will be limited to one hour. Each pastor will respond to any calls for pastoral services in both churches for the period in which he is the preacher.

ATLANTIC IMPROVEMENT.

The Atlantic Improvement Association had its last meeting of the season Wednesday evening at the rooms of the Ward Six Patriotic Association. Reports were given by the different committees. The float committee of the Fourth of July was especially commended for its work.

The street committee reported on the failure of the finance committee of the city to pass on the acceptance of Ocean street. This was a disappointment to the association as several of the men have homes on these new streets and find it very difficult to get the ordinary household goods delivered on account of the condition of the roads.

The association is composed of men from the ports of Atlantic and some of the old residents and former councilmen felt that the actions of the finance committee rather discouraged the development of this part of the city.

C. E. Carlson of Squantum outlined a plan that if the right men could be elected to carry it out would systematize the finances of the city and allow each section their proportion for improvements.

Ex-Councilman Cherrington gave a brief history of how the city had come to its high taxation and present indebtedness.

Attorney John Duggan answered several questions in regard to the business of the city, and by appearance the sentiment was that at the next election most of the members will drop party lines and concentrate on men of ability and action.

Messrs. Atlantic, Moses, and Miles were appointed a committee to meet with the other associations of Quincy and Boston in conference with Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston and protest against Spectacle Island nuisance.

SHOOTING OF GILRAINE.

Mayor Stone gave a hearing in his office Thursday evening on the shooting of Frank Gilraine by Officer John J. Avery. Gilraine was shot in the hip as he was running away on the evening of June 25 and is still in the hospital. James E. O'Connell, attorney for Gilraine, was present and subjected those who appeared to some cross examination. John W. McNamee, city solicitor, was present only in an advisory capacity.

Officer Avery gave his version of the affair as follows. This happened on Wednesday night, June 25, about 8:45. I was in the High school, to see a sister graduate. A boy stepped in and Officer Canavan who was on duty that night at the school, that two men were in a fight outside. We ran out and saw a crowd of men and boys, about 15 or 18 or more watching a disturbance at Bridge and Hancock streets.

"We saw a car, a team and an auto stop there. On running around the car, the end along Bridge and Hancock streets on being told that there was one man killing another on the sidewalk, I saw some of the crowd standing around a man lying on the ground. I then went to the prostrate form. When we were about 10 or 15 feet from the form some said 'there is the man you want to get running away.' Officer Canavan went for the man on his back while I started for the fleeing man. He had a start of about 20 feet, and was headed toward Butler road. I called on him to stop or I would shoot, three or four times. He continued running, and as he was in the middle of the road, and as I had reason to believe from the condition I saw the man in that a murder had been committed, I kept on running. As he started for the rear of the High school where he would soon disappear from sight, I pulled out my revolver and fired toward the lawn to the right of him.

"As soon as I fired he ran three or four steps, fell near the gutter and said his leg was broken. I summoned the auto patrol, went with him to the City Hospital and did what I could to make him comfortable."

"I chased him from where his apparent victim was, to a point about 150 feet."

Major Stone asked: "Had you reason to believe the man was dead?"

A Yes sir.

Further questioning brought out that Patrick Connolly had told him where to go and that someone was killing another. Officer Avery said that he glanced at the man on the ground and thought a murder had been committed, that the man was dead since there was no move in him. In his opinion Gilraine could not have been drinking because of the speed with which he ran.

Major Stone—Why did you shoot at the man?

"I was led to believe a serious assault had taken place. The man was apparently dead and I saw Gilraine getting away. While on my way down Butler road some one in the rear said, 'fire on him Joe, you will lose him.' I commenced to wonder what kind of a man I was chasing."

Major Stone—Did you know who he was then?

A No sir.

Major Stone—Did Gilraine give you any explanation why he did not stop?

A I went to the hospital with him and he said I had no right to shoot.

I don't remember, I think it was the chief, that told me he had said to me that I would shoot he would have stopped.

Major Stone—When you shot did you shoot at the man?

A I shot at the ground, at the sidewalk, at the lawn near the sidewalk to scare or stop him.

Major Stone—It was not your intention to shoot him?

A No.

In answer to Attorney O'Connell he said he had been connected with the force since July 1908; and had been a regular officer about a year, and possessed a Colt automatic revolver holding nine cartridges which the chief had given him. He said he had practiced some in the woods and had fired it about 15 or 20 times.

Report of the cross examination follows:

Q Your attention was called to the row outside.

A Yes sir.

Q You didn't go to see what was the matter?

A As near as I got was 15 feet when I was told "there is the fellow."

Q How far did you chase him?

A About 150 feet.

Q How far was he ahead of you when you fired?

A About 20 or 25 feet.

Q And in that 50 yards you had ordered him to stop three or four times?

A Yes sir.

Q Was there plenty of light?

A We were running toward an incandescent light.

Q Did you deliberately shoot at him?

A No, at the lawn.

Q You fired this revolver when you were on the dead run?

A Yes sir.

Q No matter where the bullet was going to?

A I fired at the lawn.

Q How can you account for the bullet hitting him?

A I don't know.

Q Did the conductor you spoke of run with you?

A He was the first man that came up.

Q Have you talked this matter over with Connolly?

A Yes, the next morning.

Mr. O'Connell asked Officer Avery if he had been coached in any way and where he got the words "reaso to believe" and was told that he had written a statement at the station next day, while the chief was there, but that he dictated no part of it.

Q When you left the building didn't you see two men were fighting?

A Yes, two conductors.

Q You went out on the presumption of a fight?

A Yes.

Q Since a member of the force have you ever been given any instruction in the use of a revolver?

A No sir.

Q By an officer used to using one, or an expert?

A No sir.

Q By an officer used to using one, or an expert?

A No sir.

Q So, it was like putting a dangerous toy in your hand?

Q Who told you how to fire a revolver?

A Common sense will show you how to pull a trigger.

Q Who told you where the trigger was?

A At this point Officer Avery was excused from further examination.

"John J. Gilraine of 234 Adams street a brother of the wounded man was called by Lawyer O'Connell. He said he was present at the start of the affair. He said he was talking with James Colligan when his brother Frank Gilraine came along from work and stopped to talk. Shortly after Thomas McDonnell came over and an argument followed, both about roofing tools. Frank told him to shut up and McDonnell said he wouldn't for him.

"Both commenced to fight and Frank knocked him down two or three times. While the fight was on a conductor came across and said 'cut it out.' I saw a young fellow run to the school building.

The hearing adjourned and will be called again on the evening of July 30 at the Mayor's office.

Notes and Comments.

—Don't wear a perpetual scowl. If anything is going to make your friends hate you that will.

—Considerable fun is being poked at the efforts of the Cape Cod Board of Trade to hold an exposition in 1914, commemorating the opening of the canal, but those who are doing it can scarcely realize the ability of Cape Codders to make a success of what ever they undertake.—Warden

—The speech of the experimental marriage plan will have to seek some other city than Reno to make practical the carrying out of their ideas. A law has been recently passed making a year's residence in the place a necessary precedent to obtaining an unscrapping of matrimonial eggs and that will be found altogether too long a time to wait. Reno got a world-wide fame on account of its divorce colony, but it will have to look to other sources for further advertising.

—There is a war against poison ivy and it is being eliminated from various places. The work of generally removing this dangerous plant in Quincy has never been commenced yet to our knowledge, but we hope the time will come at least such plants as are destroyed. There is considerable ivy along the sidewalk on Goff street and various places on Presidents hill. Several have been poisoned badly and many, not knowing the plant, are liable to come in contact with it unknowingly.

—There is already considerable speculation upon the next great engineering feat, to follow the construction of the Panama Canal. Some believe it can be done for $15,000,000, others for $25,000,000. George Duncan Snyder, a New York tunnel builder, estimates it at a $90,000,000 for a two-tube passenger tunnel to be supplemented later by a two-tube freight tunnel. It could be built in the matter of three miles a year. If begun in 1915, the centennial of peace between England and France, Mr. Snyder believes it could be put in use by 1920. The maximum depth of water in the channel is 180 feet, and the level of the rails would be placed at about 200 feet below the bed of the sea, so that the total depth would be some 380 feet below the surface of the water. Conroy Doyle and other Englishmen advise the tunnel as a means of direct connection between England and France in case of war with Germany. Engineers consider it a good business investment as it would add to the value of all the railroads in England and on the continent.—Haverhill Gazette.

—Several gentlemen who do fancy farming in this part of the country have been interviewed by the Boston newspaper, and they all say the game doesn't pay. For the sake of the men who may be thinking of going into agriculture, we should like to assure them that it is worth while to remember that the farms conducted by gentlemen of wealth undergo the maximum of expense, and perhaps the minimum of results. Quite often the farm is conducted for the sake of making a special display on some one feature, and a lot of money goes into that feature to make it bloom and shine above all other work of the farm. The finest machinery is used, and the men who use it oftentimes have a feeling that inasmuch as the "boss" does not need the profits that might be possible in a big farm there is no need of exerting one's self needlessly on a hot day.

—The boss is generally a long way from the work, and his right hand may or may not be a "driver." The fellow who does his own farming and runs his own game right on the ground, and who is bound to get a living if the thing is possible, gets along fairly well, no doubt, without all the latest and most complicated machinery; he does a big work's himself, and as loss means a lot to him he is on the job and watching everybody, and everything under his control.

—The difference between the results on the two farms is likely to be about the same as the difference between the results attained by the common citizen with a good roadhouse and the wealthy follower of the race track with a blooded steed that he trains for racing only; in one case great fame and perhaps a big winning may result, but in the other the roadhouse will cost vastly less, will get the owner over the ground at fair speed, and will cost $200 where the other will cost $500 and the cost of upkeep will be in about the same ratio.—Brockton Enterprise.

BOTH TIRES BURST.

Newton Jonah of Dedham died Monday night in the Marboro Hospital as the result of an automobile accident in Norrtuile. Charles Macomber of Dedham, who was with Mr. Jonah in the wrecked automobile but who escaped serious injury, said that the accident was caused by the simultaneous bursting of the tires of both wheels on the right hand side of the machine. As the tires burst the automobile skidded and then capsized.

MARRIED AT CITY HALL.

Carlo Palestina of 163 Water street were married Monday at the office of City Clerk Emery L. Crane who performed the ceremony. It is the second marriage for both. Mrs. Tombari was a widow and the mother of four children.

SOUTH AMERICAN TRIP.

The Boston Chamber of Commerce party, of which Col. Henry L. Kincaide is president is expected home next week. How the party was entertained at Peru is told in the May number of "Peru Today" which reached the Patriot Tuesday. Col. Kincaide was prominent in the events and the illustrations, but the Patriot will reproduce only the speeches at Lima.

The evening brought the last of the formal entertainments, the banquet given by the members of the Lima Chamber of Commerce and Stock Exchange to the delegates. The affair was given at the best equipped Restaurant, the building being especially lighted and decorated for the occasion. At this banquet, there was plenty of excitement and many thrills for almost at the start the Millie and Imp looked bowsprits and rigging in a close run for the starting line, while later in the race the Pointer III, a sailing dory of James H. Farrell of South Boston, turned turtle off Long Island dumping her crew into the water. They were rescued however by a passing boat and brought back to port with their disabled craft.

The Violet sailed by H. J. McKee in Class C carried away her topmast. This held her back for a few minutes until the crew had cleared away the wreckage, after which she continued the race, finishing in second place.

The Maria L. of Class A lost her mainmast early in the race, a broken gaff putting it out of commission. She limped home under a jib. In Class I the Cherot dropped half of her mast overboard when it snapped off about twenty feet from the deck and she was towed home. The mainmast of the Winona got a rip clear across it when a short distance from Nut Island, putting her out of the race and the Wavenock in Class S lost her job.

As the race drew on the wind seemed to freshen so that skippers had their hands full keeping things above water. Reefs were the rule and even with these tucked in nearly every yacht sailed with her lee rail awash, while they took aboard water enough to keep one man busy most of the time sailing out.

The course sailed was one of seven miles including a run from the club house to the buoy off Nut Island, a reach to the buoy off Long Island and a beat back to the starting point.

Only the corrected time is given in the summary.

THE BARN IN THE RAIN.

James Oppenheim

Gray barn and draggled meadow,
Blurred green grasses and leaves,
The sky is an awful shade.

For on her gray face wearies

The rain with silver threads.

That seek the muddy puddle,

That rattle on the sheds

Where the cold earth huddle.

Then, ch., the haymow soft

As deep and dark and warm.

Overhead the storm

Sweeps the wet shingles, drips

At eaves, makes music wild—

We listen: the soul slips

Years back and a child.

Somewhere at the start

We turn from Lee's hot foam,

In the world's warm heart,

Yea, make Earth's own home!

And lie there warm, secure,

Yea, as a child of five,

Heart cleansed, serene and pure,

And glad to be alive.

—Woman's Home Companion

"I reckon I'm quick, sir," said Bert, as a plan darted into his mind.

Lean and wiry from much outdoor work, he made the trip to the village and back in less than half an hour surprising Mr. Simpson exceedingly.

"What, back so quick?" he exclaimed. "You're all right. I'll have to see you again.

He held out a bright quarter, but

his back.

"I'd be mighty glad to run errands for you, sir," he said, breathlessly.

"Any time, sir. But I don't want money. If you'd let me have—if you'd—"

"If I'd what?"

"If you'd lend me an old rod, I'd try to catch that tarpon for you."

Mr. Simpson slowly pocketed the quarter. "You think fifty dollars in the lagoon are better than a quarter?"

"I don't know," mused Simpson.

"Well, I don't know," Bert added truthfully.

"I'd give five hundred?"

"Pooch! I'd give five hundred?"

Laughed the New Yorker, who owned several electric roads and was a director in one or two banks.

"On your own hook and line, sir," amended the host, smirking.

"On your own hook and line, sir," repeated the host.

Q. Y. C. LADIES DAY.

A rainy afternoon was what the clerk of the weather handed out to the Quincy Yacht club Thursday afternoon, which cut out part of the usual ladies' day program. The schedule called for a review and sail at 3 o'clock, but at that hour the sky was overcast and rain was falling. The morning gave promise of a pleasant day, and about noon there was the sound of distant thunder and telephone reports were that Weymouth and other places about Quincy had been visited by a heavy shower. This however did not prevent a large number taking the special ladies' day car for Houghs Neck, which left City Square at 1:40, and every car after that carried down its participation of the fair sex who were in attendance in the festivities of that afternoon.

Shortly after 2 o'clock the sky darkened and the rain fell, and from then on until late in the day there was an almost constant rain although it was not what might be called a heavy rain. At the start the wind was from the southwest and quite fresh, and for a time the bay was covered with white caps. This in the rain made it evident that a sail under those conditions was out of the question for to have gone out meant a wetting for the ladies.

At the ships dock in the billiard room struck six bells, indicating 3 o'clock, the time advertised for the review and sail the sky was still overcast and the smoke from passing steam vessels hung low, indicating anything but clearing weather. Shortly after the large pleasure steamer, the Loretta, which had come down from Boston to take our guests was sent back and the review and sail was wisely called off.

The moving picture man from Kincaide's theatre was on hand with his camera ready to take the review, but as this was impossible he took a moving picture of the club house with its moving crowds on the plazas. He also placed his machine at the end of the float and took the fast launch Naughty Girl as she sped by at a high rate of speed. Pictures were also taken of several other power boats that went out and passed in review of the moving picture machine so that although the sun refused to shine a series of pictures were obtained which will be thrown on the screen at the theatre in a few days.

At 3 o'clock Monk's orchestra gave a promenade concert in the hall which was thoroughly enjoyed by the large number of ladies who occupied seats on the enclosed upper Plaza. Shortly after 3 o'clock, Commodore Harry S. Crane, seeing that there was no possibility of the weather clearing called off the review and sail and announced that the lunch which was to have been served at 5:30 would be served earlier. Shortly after 4 o'clock Caterer C. C. Whittemore announced this part of the program ready. The lunch was served in an excellent manner and there was not as much pushing and crowding as in some of the former years. Although the threatening weather had doubtless kept many of those intending to participate from being present, there was a large attendance nevertheless. It was a good natured crowd and they made the most of the situation and the disappointment in not having a review and sail.

After the lunch the weather brightened up some and although the wind had died down there was still enough water in the channel to allow power boats to get in and out and quite a few of the launches took out parties for a sail about the bay. The Naughty Girl with Tax Collector Sandberg at the wheel took out a party of City Hall clerks, while Mayor Stone took out a party in his power boat. Others followed suit and for a time just before dark the bay was alive with power boats skipping here and there. Darkness however brought them back to the club float for the evening's program which included a dance until 10:30 to the music of Monk's orchestra.

By this time there was a large party of young people at the clubhouse and had their fill of dancing. The floor was in prime condition and the music inspiring and everybody had a good time, for those who did not care to participate in the dance enjoyed themselves on the enclosure watching the young people. During the afternoon while the weather man with his rain held sway, several of the yacht owners entertained their parties in the club lockers with refreshments and cards, while from one of the prominent lockers on the lower front a graphophone enlivened the occasion with all the popular airs.

The special ladies' day car for City Square left Houghs Neck at 11:05 and it contained a happy crowd, for aside from the review and sail the day had been a success in every way and everybody had made the best of the trying situation for Commodore Crane and the officers.

The affair was in charge of the following reception committee:—Very Commodore Edgar W. Emery, Commodore Harry S. Crane, Rear Commodore Charles W. Laing, Secretary John O. Hall, Treasurer George S. Morse, William H. Huy, Frank K. Patch, Fred E. Tupper, Andrew F. Burrell, George H. Newcomb, Edgar P. Plummer, and Harry E. Winslow.

They were also assisted by the following reception committee:—H. D. Spear, D. D. Nickerson, F. R. Cowling, James Hector, L. L. Files, H. C. Andrews, George E. Bell, L. H. Matthews, H. DeCoste, Daniel J. Ring, F. O. Fells, Walter E. Elcock, Joseph H. Wilkins, Channing T. Farnald, Wm. W. Turner, George L. T. Turner, W. S. Hardwick, Thos. E. Farnald, Elwin W. Shepard, John A. Emery, W. Russell Parker, W. H. Nichols, Wm. G. Webb, Cyrus Howland.

A GOOD SKIPPER.

A dispatch of Thursday to the Globe says a salt water sailor nearly carried off the honors today in the woman's catboat race, the feature of the day's yachting card at Put-in-Bay, O. As it was, Miss Dorothy Finlay of Quincy, sailing under the colors of the Buckley Lake Yacht Club of Columbus, O., finished a good second and for a time threatened to overcome the lead of Mrs. King, sailing Old Sam of the Toledo Yacht Club. Many believe only Miss Finlay's unfamiliarity with fresh water conditions as they existed today on Lake Erie prevented her entry of first honors. The winners covered the three-mile course in 5:36, while Miss Finlay's Fiji 11 finished in 5:60s, in a field of nine boats. The Detroit Yacht Club's entry, Ethel was third, in 5:84s.

Just now Mexico cannot be recommended as a health resort for Americans.

The railroad arbitration act was rushed through quickly. It must have taken some persuading to keep 531 manuscript speeches quiet in the vest pockets.

Should Barre, Vermont, succeed at the close of the Retail Granite Dealers convention in Boston, in getting the delegates as far away as Vermont, it is probable that half of them would not return to Boston for the welcome to be extended by Quincy, however grand the reception planned. If Barre realizes this, it is a mean trick which the granite dealers there would consummate. The Quincy granite manufacturers are making no effort to keep the delegates away from Barre, but Quincy is in greater Boston, and to save time and travel the delegates will want to visit Quincy while at Boston. The Quincy manufacturers are right in insisting that the outing day at Quincy shall come the day after the convention adjourns.

COUNTRY CLUB LIFE.

One of the pleasantest features of modern summer life is the tendency to build country clubs in the suburbs of cities where golf, tennis, and other sports are played. The money and time spent in games that keep one's muscles active are not often wasted, even from the mere pecuniary view point.

Many of these clubs maintain a delightfully simple and informal social life. But in this there is the desire for social parade asserted itself. The members gather on the piazza in well-swelled clothes for bridge and like diversions that occupy their time in town. Some of these clubs would seem more fitly to be named "City Club" rather than "Country Club."

People of course should do the things that interest them. But any club for country outings purposes would seem to accomplish the most when it encourages men and women to engage in active out door sports, and to enjoy green grass, trees, blue sky, and clean air.

SOUTH AMERICAN TOUR.

The conspicuous part which Col. Henry L. Kincaide of Quincy took during the three months tour of the Boston Chamber of Commerce in South America was an unusual one. Quincy, although a pleasure it was doubtless a task to act as president and diplomat. The tourists came from many walks of life, and were strangers to each other, and must be brought together; they visited several foreign countries, and it would not do to provoke jealousy among those countries; their hosts spoke a different tongue, so that interpreters were usually necessary; then customs are different.

Therefore Quincy is pleased at the arrival of the Boston papers are showering on Col. Kincaide. Thomas F. Anderson in the Globe.

"The other incident was one in which Col. Kincaide himself played the leading role. Upon him had descended the task of arranging the route of the tour, the diplomatic or 'head hand' part, and it must be conceded that he met the test on every occasion that he was called upon to do. His prompt, responsible to the last at a banquet, greet a whole delegation or give an interview to a Spanish-speaking newspaper representative."

"Of the half-hundred or more persons that our several spokesmen were capable of making during the tour, Col. Kincaide's share naturally was much the larger.

"It was with the utmost pleasure, therefore, that he arranged a complimentary banquet for the whole while the ship was plowing through blue Caribbean waters, and presented him a silver loving cup, in testimony of our high respect and esteem. The presentation was made, Ed. M. M. Logan, James J. Mellen, Worcester, who highly summarized the virtues of the 'Colonel,' as revealed to us throughout the tour, his tactfulness in fulfilling safety under trying circumstances being properly commended.

"To Col. Kincaide much of the success of the tour, and much of the pleasure of its participants undoubtedly is due.

"Vice Pres. Logan, with his effective speeches and perennial good nature also contributed a whole lot to the general success of the tour, and he like Myles Kincaide and Dillingham, made many warm friends in the South.

GENERALSHIP ON BALL FIELD

Fortunes rise and fall swiftly in baseball, particularly with the manager. Here is "Jake" Stahl, who last year created a championship team, now down and out. Then there is Clark Griffith, Washington used to be called "First in war, first in peace, and last in the American league," a dumping ground for the superannuated. Griffith made it almost a pennant winner. And the man with all possible enthusiasm and generalship may be upset by the single misstep that leaves a muscle.

Literary prophets of baseball expound complicated playing combinations, far from obvious to the layman. Perhaps this clever play has led to do with a manager's success than some people think. Where he wins first of all is in simple bare gifts for study and correct estimate of individual players.

The successful manager must build his own team. The stars of today will soon be fading. The pace is too swift. He must know with finality when he has a candidate whose motions, muscular power and control approximate the perfect type. These must be picked from smaller teams, and must be men whose prospective power others have failed to see. No manager can afford to build his team from the $10,000 beauties of his competitors.

The manager must possess superior knowledge of the technique of every position. Each place on the field has its own character. Each player must be fit in physical power and temperament. Every motion must be studied, every man must be coached for the perfect throw and the perfect catch in any conceivable situation.

The man who could pilot a successful major league ball team should be able to captain a big enterprise or govern a city, if taste and education ran that way.

WEYMOUTH FIRE.

Quincy firemen rendered valuable aid Tuesday afternoon at the fire which did a damage estimated at $250,000 to the American Fertilizer works at North Weymouth, better known as the Bradley Fertilizer plant.

A telephone call for aid was received by Chief Litchfield about 4 o'clock and he immediately dispatched the Central station steamer, and auto combination for the scene, accompanying them in his own car.

The Steamer made good time with its three-horse hitch, and on its arrival was stationed on the wharf between the building containing finished product awaiting shipment and the large pile of coal beneath the run near the main mill which was the first building to be swept by the flames.

Aid was also sent by Hingham which sent a hose company, Hook & Ladder Co., and its auto pump. Chief and the railroad act was rushed through quickly. It must have taken some persuading to keep 531 manuscript speeches quiet in the vest pockets.

SACRED HEART ANNUAL.

The members of the parish of the Sacred Heart, formerly a mission station and now one of the most populous in the Boston diocese will under the direction of their beloved pastor, Rev. Fr. J. C. P. Cuffe and Rev. Fr. J. P. McNiff, assistant pastor, celebrate their annual lawn party this afternoon and evening.

The affair will be held on the grounds surrounding the church, and a large and sufficient committee have prepared a program which promises to furnish entertainment for old and young. The festivities will commence about two o'clock and continue until about 11:30 P. M.

The church was erected and dedicated in September, 1878, by the late Archbishop Williams. While under the direction of the late Rev. Fr. Francis Friguglietti the membership grew with the ward where it is situated. In the early years but one mass sufficed for Sunday and now four masses are celebrated, including a children's mass.

The mission was made a separate parish in 1902, and Father Cuffe after 21 faithful years of service as pastor at St. John's church was made pastor. He has zealously guarded the needs of his people and the annual party, the proceeds of which are devoted to church maintenance point out the affection of his parishioners.

SCHOOL TAX.

At the conference of Massachusetts Mayors with Mayor Willard of Chelsea on Wednesday the subject of possible legislation relative to taxation for school purposes was discussed at length, and it was voted that a measure be introduced into the legislature to increase the support by the state for educational purposes and that a committee of three be appointed to draft the bill.

The committee appointed were Mayor Willard of Chelsea, Mayor Chambers of Everett, and Mayor Schumacher of Malden.

The idea of the new plan in brief is that the state tax each city and town for educational purposes according to the valuation and then distribute the amount among the cities and towns according to the school population.

It is cited that in rich towns like Brookline, where the valuation is large and school population is small, Quincy with a small valuation and a large school population at a disadvantage.

DORCHEN WINS.

The Dorchen II of A. W. Finlay of Germantown won her race Tuesday in the Interlake Regatta at the Lake Erie Central which is being celebrated at Put-in-Bay, Ohio. The time was the fastest ever made over the regular nine-mile course.

Miss Dorothy Finlay handled the sail and spinnaker while her father handled the mainsail. George W. Finlay, well known in state athletic circles, was the skipper.

Clerk, assistant treasurer, assistant secretary—Samuel T. MacQuarrie, Controller—F. A. Shick.

Board of Directors—Francis T. Bowles, Harry Brown, Charles M. Schubert, H. S. Snyder, F. A. Shick, H. G. Smith and J. A. Sedgwick.

Executive committee—Francis T. Bowles, Charles M. Schwab and H. S. Snyder.

WILL SEND DELEGATE.

John Adams Aeria, F. O. E., met in Elelta hall Wednesday evening and acted on four applications. Eight new members were initiated, the work being performed by the degree team under the direction of John J. McDonald, acting captain, during the absence of Bernard Burke who is at Colon, Panama.

Arrangements were completed to send a delegate to the National convention which will take place at Baltimore, commencing August 4. James J. Mellen, past president, who will represent the aerie will leave August 1. It is possible that the North Dakota battle float, which is in great demand wherever a parade is held, will be sent to Baltimore.

The members are discussing the annual clambake. It will be held in a few weeks, probably at Spannun. Last fall over 250 attended the affair and the time was enlivened by the presence of many of the most active politicians of the day. The entertainment committee is now headed by James J. Mellen, while Gus Tretton, the regular chairman, is in the west.

The man who could pilot a successful major league ball team should be able to captain a big enterprise or govern a city, if taste and education ran that way.

Miss Dorothy Finlay handled the sail and spinnaker while her father handled the mainsail. George W. Finlay, well known in state athletic circles, was the skipper.

Clerk, assistant treasurer, assistant secretary—Samuel T. MacQuarrie, Controller—F. A. Shick.

Board of Directors—Francis T. Bowles, Harry Brown, Charles M. Schubert, H. S. Snyder, F. A. Shick, H. G. Smith and J. A. Sedgwick.

Executive committee—Francis T. Bowles, Charles M. Schwab and H. S. Snyder.

WILL SEND DELEGATE.

John Adams Aeria, F. O. E., met in Elelta hall Wednesday evening and acted on four applications. Eight new members were initiated, the work being performed by the degree team under the direction of John J. McDonald, acting captain, during the absence of Bernard Burke who is at Colon, Panama.

Arrangements were completed to send a delegate to the National convention which will take place at Baltimore, commencing August 4. James J. Mellen, past president, who will represent the aerie will leave August 1. It is possible that the North Dakota battle float, which is in great demand wherever a parade is held, will be sent to Baltimore.

The members are discussing the annual clambake. It will be held in a few weeks, probably at Spannun. Last fall over 250 attended the affair and the time was enlivened by the presence of many of the most active politicians of the day. The entertainment committee is now headed by James J. Mellen, while Gus Tretton, the regular chairman, is in the west.

The man who could pilot a successful major league ball team should be able to captain a big enterprise or govern a city, if taste and education ran that way.

DORCHEN WINS.

The Dorchen II of A. W. Finlay of Germantown won her race Tuesday in the Interlake Regatta at the Lake Erie Central which is being celebrated at Put-in-Bay, Ohio. The time was the fastest ever made over the regular nine-mile course.

Notes and Comments.

A shingle mill in Maine uses 2,000 cords of paper birch each year in the manufacture of toothpicks.

Chicago is to have ten policewomen and it's a good move by the Mayor's part.

In discussing the necessary qualifications which these women should have local suffragists hit the bulls-eye when they named "common sense" as one of them. There is an abundant opportunity in the city for one or more women police and justice and common sense are the prime requisites to which courage may be added.

They don't need clubs; their work is not of the kind to require them—Framingham News.

The question of when a pup ceases to be a pup and becomes a dog is agitating a city in Missouri, says the Baltimore American. In the midst of the general frivolity of the day it is well to have some real, vital issue come up now and then—Milford Cab inet.

A Minnesota girl saved her money for five years to free her lover from the penitentiary. It is sad to reflect that, after they are wed, she may have to take in washing to support him.

A Philadelphia church, which is now for sale, by the way tried the experiment of offering free automobile rides and free pressing of trousers to encourage attendance. No society seems to have hit upon the idea of providing free go-to-meeting clothes for lagard worshippers.

His confidence shaken by the failure of a Pittsburgh bank, a New York man drew $700 savings from his bank and thinking there would be no use in cashing this at this time of the year, put the money inside of the stove.

Along comes wife with an addition to do some ironing, steps up and "puff" goes all but one hundred dollars of husband's hard-earned savings. A burning shame, you might call it, except you can't help blaming the man for utter foolishness—Barre, Vt. Times.

The narrow skirt, or at all events, its wearers, have scored a victory in the eyes of the Misses. Ind. A petition was presented to the street car company that cars with low steps be sent from Indianapolis instead of the high-step cars that were giving so much trouble, and the company acceded to the request.

The progress of these Nations can hardly be realized, and it is to be regretted that a greater number of our business men do not tour South American countries in their vacations.

The delightful climate, change of scenery and comfortable sea voyages offer rest, recreation, education and broadened business relations.

The friendly feelings which were everywhere displayed from our North American people ought to be a source of gratification to them and should encourage our citizens to do everything in their power to foster these friendly relations.

Sixty of the foremost, assistant foremen, executive officers and heads of departments of the Fore River Ship-building Corporation held their annual dinner Monday evening at the American House, Boston. This was the first dinner of the association since Charles M. Schwab took over the plant. These annual dinners are held to promote good feeling among the men and Monday night's affair also served to give President Bowles an opportunity to announce and outline the policy of the company under the new regime.

Brief addresses were made by several of the gentlemen seated about the festive board, President Bowles presided. Among those present were the following:

James Hollywood, James Gallagher, R. C. Drinker, J. J. Nolan, J. T. Daicher, J. E. Green, H. F. Gould, E. N. Ewertz, A. H. Dodge, G. L. Haupt, H. H. Schulze, F. V. Sargent, J. A. Sedgwick, E. J. W. Y. C. RACE.

Lack of a good sailing breeze prevented the race of the Quincy Yacht Club Saturday afternoon from being the success that it should have been.

expected to arrive early August.

FELL INTO QUARRY.

Paul Reddington, the 11 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Reddington of Crescent street, who was taken to the Quincy City Hospital, Saturday after he had fallen 20 feet into the Badger quarry, is doing well this morning. He is suffering from a slight concussion of the brain. It was thought for a time that a fractured skull would be found but such was not the case.

The boy was playing on the ledge when he lost his balance. Striking on a rock he lay there unconscious until plumpers brought him to the bank.

A special car will leave City Square for the beach at 1:40 and from that time until 5 o'clock at which hour the dinner will be served, the old veterans will amuse themselves as each individual dictates. Some will sport on the verandas of the Yacht clubhouses and watch the yacht race while others will lounge about the easy chairs and tell over once again of the fires of Quincy's early days when they ran with the machine, and did fully as good work as the modern departments considering the apparatus they had to work with.

At 5 o'clock sharp all will assemble around the festive board in the pavilion and partake of one of Norton's famous shore dinners.

veranda, music being furnished by Craft's orchestra of Boston. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were

Thomas F. Porter.

We should be courteous today. Each treat the other as a friend; For both are traveling one way: At the same goal our ways end. What if your name I do not know? Why need you be of mine afraid? As o'er the hills our footsteps go. Perchance we may each other find.

The way is long, the climb is steep; And, if we journey side by side, More safely we the road may keep. Since to us both 'tis all untried.

If our footsteps part and wind Somewhere when dark shall grow the night; Each other so somewhere shall find In some tomorrow's glorious light.

If one the other safer path shall lose, Across one which no bright beacons flame; And one the surer way shall choose. Our journey's end will be the same.

The morning's sun will shine on each. One the surer will be the day; And every day some lesson teach.

That must be learned by one and all The nightingale for one can sing. From out the trees as he shall pass; And danger at the other spring.

From the dead rushes and the grass, One strong and brave, may travel fast.

The other slow his way pursue; But at one place will meet at last— The same cold soil will hide the two.

HOME BY THE ROADSIDE.

Mrs. Esther Martin descended from the car, one hand lifting her dark gray skirt from contact with the dirty steps, glanced around, a wistful expression upon her calm, sweet face. A smile looked from the dark eyes when she saw an overgrown boy of fifteen hurrying forward. Mrs. Martin saw that the lad was alone and then she sighed.

"Good afternoon, Joel. I am glad to see you. All is well at home?"

"Yes, Aunt Esther. It seems mighty good to see you back; we was right lonesome without you. If you'll give me the trunk check, we'll be ready to start in a minute."

Mrs. Martin sighed again as she stood waiting for Joel's return. Then she laughed a little. She had been gone only a week, and it was silly for her to be so disappointed because her husband or one of her sons had not met the train.

"Now, see here, Aunt Esther. It's not just this way, Joel," she said, speaking so much to the lad as to herself. "I have failed to realize the lofty ideals of my school days. I settled down, while my dear friends told me right in your home, never to be a smart boy like your boys, but I'll be blamed if I won't be a good one, so not to share and disappoint you. And when I'll be made up to you."

"Then you dear boy," and the woman's hand rested lightly upon his.

"It makes me happy to hear you say that. Now in two minutes we will turn the corner and I can see home again."

"What is it, George? Why are all these carriages standing about? And the porch is full of people?"

"I wonder what would do, Esther. Our friends would come to tell you how glad they were to get you back and how much you had always done for them. That is why we had to send Joel after you—the boys and I had to be here."

Esther Martin stared blankly at her husband. He went on, reaching over to pat her hand: "It is all right, dear. You deserve more than this."

By this time they were driving into the big, tree-filled yard. The old, red-brick house had big outside chimneys and wide porches. It was filled with friends and neighbors all eager to greet the returned traveler.

"Why did you not your Uncle George come for me?" the woman asked, a little abruptly.

"Oh, he—why, he had something else to do. You know this is a busy time."

For a few minutes they rode on in silence. The road was dusty, and the hoofs of the trotting horses raised clouds of dust that took on tints of copper and gold in the sunlight. Great oaks dropped their shadows upon the grass at each side of the highway. As far as the eye could reach undulating fields stretched away, fields that were green and gold

SATURDAY, AUGUST 2, 1913

BATTLESHIP TO SAIL

Plans have been completed for the departure of the Argentine battleship Rivadavia from the Fore River yard Sunday night on her maiden trip. As now planned the vessel will leave the yards about 10 o'clock and it is expected that she will pass through the draw about 11 o'clock. The topmast, which surrounded the basket mast has been removed in order that the battleship may go under the Brooklyn bridge.

The battleship when she leaves the plant will be in charge of Capt. Joseph L. Kemp and other officials on board will be General Manager H. G. Smith, F. P. Wellington, Chief Electrician John J. Crain, and Chief Engineer Ralph J. Lovell. In addition to these there will be the entire Argentine commission and a large crew so that in all there will be nearly 1000 men on board.

All realize that it is to be no easy job to get the big vessel through the draw of the bridge. The opening in the bridge is 125 feet and as the beam of the Rivadavia is 95 feet it will be seen that she will have a leeway of less than fifteen feet on each side.

In order that Capt. Kemp may be able to see it is planned to keep the searchlight of the vessel in constant use. In addition to this the buoys will be surmounted by a white flag and lanterns so that they can easily be picked up by the searchlight. Navigating the channel into Hull bay and through Hull gut will be even more difficult than the bridge.

Once clear of the river and bay she will steam to Brooklyn navy yard, where she will go dry dock, and it is estimated that about four days will be required to scrape her bottom plates. She will then return to Massachusetts water until her coal bunkers can be filled.

Then it is that President Bowles and possibly some of the other officials will board her and she will steam to the Rockland, Me., course where she will have her standardization trials. On arrival at Rockland she will be boarded by the United States Navy Board of Inspectors and Survey who will remain on board and conduct the trials.

Seldom if ever has a battleship in this country gone her trial trips with full equipment on board. The reason for this is that in the case of a United States vessel the government furnishes the equipment, such as guns etc., but in the case of the Rivadavia the Fore River Co. furnished them and they are now all mounted in place.

Many have planned to be near the Fore River bridge Sunday night to see the vessel go out and the police are making plans to see that curiously does not allow the spectators to get too near in case of accident of any kind. On the Weymouth side Capt. Butler has detailed four officers for duty and everybody will be kept off the bridge.

While it is not expected that the vessel will hit the bridge, it will be a case of fine navigating to get her through, not because of her width so much as her length. As the relative weight of the battleship is 1000 pounds to 1 of the bridge it can be readily seen that should the battleship happen to hit the bridge in going through means a new bridge or at least part of a new bridge.

TRIBUTE.

Members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union wish to express their appreciation of the loyalty and faithfulness of the late Miss Alice L. Bumpus who was for many years treasurer of the local union. The devotion and enthusiasm in the cause of temperance are worthy of emulation. Miss Bumpus was one of the original members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and regardless of weather was always punctual in her attendance at meetings.

The late Henry D. Faxon found in her a congenial worker and her Christian attitude towards this work which she considered of the highest importance was very pleasing to him.

Miss Bumpus was a noble woman and her many kind and generous deeds were performed in a quiet and unassuming manner. She possessed a high ideal of truth and justice and she will be greatly missed by a large circle of friends. The Woman's Christian Temperance Union placed a spray of beautiful white roses upon her casket as a loving tribute of esteem and affection.

UNITARIAN GROVE MEETING.

The Conference of Women's Alliance Workers Thursday, Aug. 7, at 1:30 P. M. will be presided over by Mrs. Jessie Donahue, Manchester, N. H., director for New Hampshire.

The programme is as follows: Address on General Phases of Alliance Work, Miss Anna M. Bancroft, Hopewell, Mass., president of the Alliance; Alliance Programmes, Mrs. Elle L. Tufts, Exeter, N. H., Alliance director for New Hampshire; Organization of the Young People, Miss Mary H. Bellows, Walpole, N. H., Alliance director for New Hampshire; The Woman's Parish Worker, Miss Mary Lawrence, Winchester, Mass., pastor's assistant in Providence, R. I.

The topics of Mr. Lazebny's evening lectures will be as follows: Monday, "Bernard Shaw"; Tuesday, "The Humanity of the Ministry"; Wednesday, Scotch Readings;—MacLaren and Barrie.

FUNERAL OF MR. WOOD.

Funeral services for Lorenzo Wood, Jr., were held at his late home 130 Upland road, on Friday. The services were conducted by the Rev. Benjamia A. Willmott of the Bethany Congregational church, of which the deceased was a member.

"Lead Kindly Light," "Passing of the Shadow," and "Nearer My God to Thee," the last hymn being a favorite of Mr. Wood, were rendered by Mrs. Emma S. Moore and Mrs. Ella Raymond Bates.

The abundance of beautiful floral offerings testified to the love and esteem in which Mr. Wood was held. Four of his personal friends Frank W. Crane, Abbott L. Melcher, Frank P. Larkin and Walter E. Blanchard officiated as bearers. The burial was at the Village cemetery at Weymouth.

Mr. Wood was a very unassuming man of simple tastes, but all his friends recognized his sterling worth and it may truthfully be said of him: "None knew him but to love him. None named him but to praise."

Drowning after drowning. We do not need a "safe and sane Sunday."

How would "the Minimum Wage" do as the subject for Bryan's popular lecture?

THE TAX LIMIT.

There was a time, some years ago, when it did seem unreasonable to expect the city government to be supported on a $12 per $1,000 limit. It was not attempted, hence the big municipal debt today.

Now the time has come when the $12 limit is all the taxpayers can stand and at the same time an effort should be made to reduce the city debt and interest.

Some will say the $12 limit is not large enough, and their criticism would be the same on a $20 limit after a few years.

But the increasing valuation has increased very rapidly the amount which can be raised for current expenses without increasing the $12 limit.

Twelve years ago under the $12 limit, Quincy could raise by taxation but $242,234.27, but this year it can raise $422,637.43, an increase of nearly 75 per cent. The population during these 12 years has not increased 75 per cent. The census of 1910 showed an increase of 36 per cent in population. Next year the $12 limit would give nearly $450,000.

A candid study of these figures will show a very rapid increase year by year in the amount that could be raised under the $12 limit, and it will be more marked the next few years:

Year	Limit
1901	$342,324.27
1902	253,932.45
1903	265,306.61
1904	275,316.83
1905	284,976.94
1906	301,373.87
1907	314,759.16
1908	323,040.00
1909	339,393.00
1910	355,865.00
1911	387,834.00
1912	413,110.93
1913	422,637.43

The tax rate is already so large that it has become a burden. If there could be a half now for a few years in new loans, Quincy would be in a position to have improvement on the pay-as-you-go policy instead of the burdensome debt and interest which require over $6 of the tax rate.

MUNICIPAL FINANCES.

Major Edwin H. Moulton of Haverhill at the open meeting of the Haverhill Board of Trade Tuesday evening, during which municipal finances were discussed for two hours, declared that unless a new policy was inaugurated by the Municipal Council next year, by which more bonds would be retired than are issued each year, Haverhill would soon be bankrupt.

The meeting was called by the directors of the Board of Trade to talk over the new law governing municipal finances, as a public hearing will be held Thursday evening, Aug. 7, at which the Council will hear citizens on the limit to be established in raising money by taxation for current expenses.

What is true of Haverhill applies with equal force to Quincy and other cities. Too much of our tax rate goes for the payment of maturing debt and interest. By the present policy Quincy has to pay twice for improvements; once when the bonds mature, and again in interest, some of the loans being for ten years and others for thirty years. An effort should be made at the beginning of the year to keep the new loans inside the maturing loans, and thus reduce the debt and interest each year.

In his inaugural address Mayor Stone told us that the maturing debt of 1913 would be as follows:

Municipal	$162,676.46
Water	57,500.00
Sewer	29,000.00
Parks	2,000.00
Streets improvement	7,300.00
Refunding	15,000.00
Total	$274,676.46

To put the city in a better financial condition the City Council of 1913 should limit the new municipal loans inside of $162,676.46, say $150,000, or even $125,000.

MEN'S SUMMER CLOTHING.

A society woman from another city remarked in the hearing of the writer the other day, that it is too bad that men can't have more comfortable summer clothes. She noted that while women have their open work and low necks, the men are sweltering in wool coats and starched collars.

"Of course," she continued, "a gentleman does not expect to remove his coat."

When Uncle Reuben used to drive to church of a summer's day, tea to one he had on a black alpaca coat that flopped in the breeze. He might have constituted a bulgy and uncouth figure, but the coat was comfortable and appropriate.

The majority of business men feel that it pays to cultivate finished neatness and correct style. Freshly creased trousers and smoothly pressed coat give them self confidence. Thus clad they approach the most formidable captain of industry without fear. A suit of linen or alpaca would soon be reduced to a shapelessness which they fear would seem untidy and rustic.

Whether or not it pays to carry neatness and style to the point of discomfort is doubtful. But it is with regret that the writer heard the dictum of his society friend quoted above, that the gentleman might not remove his coat.

It is one thing to appear in a soiled shirt, with trousers supported by dirty suspenders, apparently ready to fall off, with unmentionable consequences. It is another to work in a clean waist with trousers neatly held. If the women object, let them devise something better than the "shirt waist."

Meanwhile these embarrassments to not trouble the great army of field and factory workers, whose trade does not compel them to pass themselves off for something better than reality. Dressing to fit the weather rather than to gain caste, they are the only true philosophers.

WILLARD HIGHWAY.

The hearing before the Highway Commission Wednesday afternoon was well attended, and the petitioner's side of the case was presented in an able manner. There was no opposition to the plan to accept Willard street although the commissioners did not give them much encouragement that the street would be accepted this year.

The plan of the petitioners is to have Willard street accepted from East Milton way through to Brockton. The commissioners tried to point out that they were now constructing a parallel road between these two points, but every point made in opposition to the plan by the chairman of the commission was met by last year, without figuring current expenses.

It will be seen by the following table of the state tax, etc., for 1913, that every item shows an increase over last year with the exception of the State highway tax which is the same as last year. Then, as noted above, this year for the first time, the city gets an assessment for the maintenance of the bureau of statistics, which department is establishing the uniform system of accounting in the cities and towns of the commonwealth.

The following tables give the state, county and other assessments in comparison with those of the years of 1912 and 1911:

Notes and Comments.

—There is this to be said of the lobby whether it operate at Washington, or whether it confine its labors to state legislature: The lobby can flourish only in proportion as it is encouraged or tolerated by the men who make laws, state or national. Whenever and wherever lobby activity, or the record of such activity, makes for talk, or downright scandal, then it is time for the electors to concern themselves more fully with the character of the men they choose to legislate for them.—Salon News.

—Brazil, which has been one of the few commercial nations holding out for its own meridian as a base for calculation of time, finally has fallen in line with the great nations of the world, and has accepted the meridian of Greenwich for the reckoning of official time, as set forth in advice just received here. Furthermore, the country has been divided into zones and a system of standard time established such as prevails in the United States.—Boston Transcript.

—Weak eyes that ache when exposed to the glare of the sun, especially on the sea, should be treated with cold water compresses. These are folded on the closed lids and ease the aching at once.

—Georgia's homicidal record for the twelve months past is 1305 lives unlawfully taken and only 30 hanging feasts—baring, of course, the lynching bees. It's getting to be "ping-pong!" in Georgia and it's a fond farewell to the fellow who fails to reach his gun first. The chances to escape the noose of the law are more than forty to one that of dodging your vis-a-vis's leaden pif if he gets there first. That's why the homicidal industry flourishes so in dear old Georgia.—Columbia Record.

—Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of schools in Chicago, recently prepared a course on sex hygiene for introduction in the schools of that city. On submission to the board of education, that body, after due consideration, vetoed the proposition, recognizing and possibly sharing a widespread distrust of this innovation. It is a vexed question, with something to be said on both sides. If parents will not do their part some substitute must be found. But whole sales instruction by lectures can never take the place of home care, which is largely not a matter of instruction at all, but discipline, protection, and vigilant loving supervision. Any excess of precious knowledge is to be deprecated, and evil should be made abhorrent but left vague unless explicitly becomes necessary. Too much talking about it is disturbing. The best precautions are a wholesome regimen, a careful supervision of habits, plenty of varied occupation, good books, good companies, and close relations between parents and children.—Milford Gazette.

—There is no proposal to add books to the list of articles transmissible by parcel post. This is a sad defect in the original law and will probably require congressional action to remedy it. These department changes will relieve the parcel post service of some of the disfavor which its defects have created and make the system much more useful to and more used by the people.—Philadelphia Press.

—In New York during the past year over twelve hundred fires were traced to careless smokers and over sixteen hundred to carelessness with matches. The carelessness in these cases is apparently so slight and the results are so disastrous, sometimes fatal, that systematic public education of the danger arises from this one source is particularly timely in the day's important issue of prevention as an exact science.—Baltimore American.

—An active campaign against automobileists who disregard the statute prohibiting the use of muffle cutouts has been started by the Newton police. Countless complaints have been received from those whose homes are near thoroughfares on which there are hills and this is particularly true late at night and early in the morning along Commonwealth avenue where the noise of the exhausts on speeding cars prevent sleep.

—It is reported that one of the causes of the trouble with the failed Pittsburgh bank was its extravagant office building. Of course this was not the principal cause of the collapse, but it is a fact that the banks of the country seem to have gone building crazy, the desire to erect pretentious buildings not being by any manner of means confined to Pittsburgh. A good many bankers appear to be of the opinion that big buildings necessarily mean big deposits.—Banker and Tradesman.

BASE BALL.

Scoring four runs in the seventh inning through the loose ball of their opponents, the Roger Wolcotts of Dorchester defeated the Ortiens at the Ward Three playground Saturday afternoon, 5 to 4. Their first run, in the first innings, was due to timely hitting. The Ortiens scored two in the fourth and fifth.

Charlie Gandy's Makars easily defeated Joe Larkins' Fore River Apaches at Mount Pleasant Park, Saturday afternoon, 4 to 0. The home team, while showing several innings in which no score was made by either team, was nevertheless rather slow.

The Boston Gear Works erased out a 10 to 8 victory over the Colonials at the Ward Four playground Saturday afternoon. Smith, of the winners, was bumped for seven hits, while the losers got nine. McPherson passed 10 men, while Smith had better control. Several costly errors netted the Gear men the winning tally.

SCUANTUM DAY.

The Scuantom Yacht club house presented a gay scene Saturday afternoon when the club held a double event, namely its annual ladies' day event and its annual open race under the auspices of the M. Y. R. A. and Interclub races. Ladies day brought out a large party of the fair sex, while the open races brought out a large fleet of racers. It was the only race of any event scheduled for the day and all of the flyers were out after the cash prizes which aggregated nearly $100.

There was a puffy southwest breeze which foretold of several lively scraps between the yachts, and the course was a triangular one, giving the yachts a reach, a run and a beat.

While the race was in progress several of the yachts that did not participate in the racing events were busy taking out parties of ladies for a sail in the harbor and near the float there was a series of water sports. These included an under water swim, 100 yard swim, riding the barrel and racing.

The sports came near ending in a drowning for one man. Frank Dunn, while swimming in the 100 yard dash was seized with the cramps and had gone down twice before other swimmers reached his side and pulled him on board a power boat on which was E. L. Barnes of the house committee.

There was also an exhibition in speed by the fast power boat of Joseph McIntyre, the Premier III.

In addition to the yachts which took out sailing parties the committee had provided a large launch so that all who desired were given a sail in the bay and had an opportunity to view the race at close range.

The winners in the several water events were as follows:—

Under-water swim, won by Laurie Bean, Ralph Kemp second.

100-yard swim, won by Reginald Gay, L. W. Arthur, second, Laurie Bean third, and Ralph Knapp fourth.

Riding the barrel, won by Laurie Bean.

Rowing race won by Laurie Bean, A. J. Wilkinson second, and Reginald Gay third.

The clubhouse and float were prettily decorated with flags for the occasion and an orchestra gave a concert in the piazza during the afternoon and also played for the dancing of the evening. Light refreshments were served during the afternoon, and all visiting yachtsmen were made welcome.

The affair was in charge of the house committee composed of W. J. Hartley, Commodore E. F. Drew, G. W. Sergeant, W. L. William and L. E. Barnes.

The correct time for the regatta was:

THE REST OF THE HILLS.

The hills call, the dew-glad morning
Above the dust . . . of the plain;
Could I lay aside my yoke of old-time weariness;
Could I take my staff and seek the hills again;
The far hills where dawn is sweet with rain?

After much thirst, much hungering,
at nightfall;
When the long way beyond my striving,
Would those come suddenly the keen swee, breadth of valleys,
And, afar off, the sound of twil'ight streams.
In quiet hills whose dusk is cool with dreams?

The murmuring of rivers; and the
A starlike place of shadows, liquid deep;

Ah, and a night of infinite forgetting;
Night of the calm great hills that vigil find sleep.

—Maxwell Struthers Burt in Scribners.

His height was a drawback in such expeditions. Low ceilings had frequently brought him grievous bumps. He peered upward at the first turn. A piece of white paper pinned to the woodwork almost brushed his face. He pulled it down. A pencil scrrawl showed across the page. He read:

"Mrs. B.——: I've gone home. He is all right. Maggie."

The man chuckled.

"Gone home?" responded a masculine voice. Its owner, nervously deteriorating, was trusting to his wife.

"Gone home?" shrilly. "Who are you, and who is looking out for baby?"

"I'm Lysander North and I'm holding the baby."

Anazement shook him that the woman should come running so fearlessly, with more a laugh than a cry.

He braced against the bedpost as he rushed into the room.

"Lysander North! We thought you were dead."

The saluted one did not exclaim.

"Gone home?" simply because his lips had forced their office. He waited a moment. Then:

"I'll live, Em," said he, queerly.

"Here! Take this blessing of my hands. How is Jim?"

They were talking Lysander over after supper, Emilia Buxton and her stalwart husband.

"Why, yes," said the man.

"Real gold and real pearls, or I'm a farmer," muttered he, gloatingly.

"This little pin is mine. This stud, too," these went in his vest pocket.

He was fingering a tiny gold chain, with longing orbs, when strange noise caused him to start. He cut the window to the outside? The bird was down pretty low. He had tried in every way to catch him, especially after Aunt Celia died. He was one of the heirs. Why, Jim," excitedly, "that man was a scrooge, a scrooge."

Pushing open a partially closed door the intruder stepped into a large room.

The light was very dim with drawn curtains over the shut blinds. No dog barked a warning to trespassing feet; no human voice echoed anywhere about. All was silent and peaceful, safe for the scolding of a cat in the hedge.

The Quincy Patriot

VISITORS TO QUINCY.

In these days when long trips about the country in automobiles have become common Quincy and other places that abound in buildings and other points of historical interest have many visitors. Nearly everybody who passes through Quincy wants to see the President Adams birthplace, the shrine beneath the entrance of the First church and the Dorothy Q house. All of these places keep a registration book for visitors to sign. Many do this but it often happens that where there are several in the party some neglect to affix their signatures to the book. Capt. Benjamin King, curator at the John Adams cottage at South Quincy, the birthplace of President John Quincy Adams, now owned by the Quincy Historical society, however, is very particular to have all visitors register.

Following is a list of those who have registered there since the first of August.

Mrs. W. B. Hathall, Middletown, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Thompson, Chicago, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Wing, Tampa, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hart, Tampa, Fla.; Mrs. Mary Lewis, Bridgeport, Conn.; Mrs. George Waters, Randolph, Mass.; Miss Carrie Upham, Randolph, Mass.; Charles Upham, Houghton, Mass.; Mrs. E. B. and Mrs. Wm. B. Byrns, Chicago, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Mason, Racine, Wis.; Mrs. A. E. Wardville, Elviga, Ohio; Miss Grace Wardville, Elviga, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Day, Chicago, Ill.; Miss Jeannette Wales, Indianapolis, Ind.; Miss E. Wales, Indianapolis, Ind.; Mrs. A. Fisher, Rochester, New York; Mr. McKollas, Kansas City, Kansas; John, son of Kent, South Africa.

QUANTUM WOMEN'S CLUB.

The annual meeting of the Quantum Women's Club was held at the home of Mrs. William R. Donovan, Belvoir road, Wednesday afternoon, and a large number of the members were present.

It was decided to hold a sale Saturday afternoon, Sept. 6, on the grounds of Mrs. Eagar's home. It was also voted to continue the Saturday night subscription dances during the month of August, and Mrs. Lougan has offered her spacious home again for next Saturday night.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Mrs. William A. Reed was unanimously re-elected President; Vice-President, Mrs. James H. Foster; Secretary, Mrs. S. H. Adams; Treasurer, Mrs. Edward Eagar, who was unanimously re-elected; Historian, Mrs. John Holmes. The Executive Board was chosen as follows: Mrs. Gustav Wunderlich, Mrs. William R. Donovan, Mrs. Helen Mc Gowan and Mrs. C. A. Ramsell.

Mrs. Reed called upon Mrs. Foster, the new vice-president, to occupy the chair for a few moments in order that she might make a few remarks to thank the ladies for their kind support which had extended her during the past year, and she expressed the hope that all would continue to do so and great results might be obtained next year, as had been this year. She was given a great ovation and it only in a measure began to show the appreciation which the members wish to extend to her for her hard work during the initial year of the Quantum Women's Club.

After the business meeting was over all enjoyed a social hour, during which time Mrs. Donovan, assisted by Mrs. Ramsell and Mrs. Morse, served a dainty lunch.

AUGUST WEDDING.

An August wedding of local interest will be that of Miss Elvira A. Horner and Charles H. Cox, to take place of Monday, the 18th, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Abbie E. Horner in Pawlet, Vt. It will be a quiet ceremony, and after the wedding break fast the newly married pair will leave on an auto trip to the Adirondacks stopping at Lake Champlain and Lake George.

Miss Horner has taught in the Wollaston grammar school for the past three years and has many warm friends there. She is a graduate of the Plymouth, N. H., High school and the New Hampshire Normal school.

Mr. Cox, who is in the wholesale paper business here, was the all-round athletic and gymnastic champion of the Cambridge Y. M. C. A., when he lived in that city. He has recently resided in Wollaston. Mr. Cox and his bride will make their home in Wollaston.

A two and a quarter mile road race was held Monday evening by the Junior Employed Boys of Quincy Y. M. C. A. Although the roads were muddy, and the puddles were frequent, five of the contestants finished in pretty good time. Arthur Skinner finished first, 22 seconds ahead of his nearest opponent. The time was: First—Skinner, 15 min. 28 sec.; second—J. Wren, 15:50; third—W. Bjornson, 16:01; fourth—A. Connor 16:03; fifth, G. Peterson, 16:05.

A young colored man who gave his name as Charles Beverly, and his address as 112 Northampton street, Boston, was arrested Tuesday afternoon by Officers Whelan and Ford for soliciting funds. From what the police could learn, Beverly made his appearance in Quincy, on Monday and had been going from house to house soliciting funds for the Christian non-sectarian Rescue Home for Old Ladies and Homeless Children at 135 East Lenox street, Boston.

John R. Graham, a former Quincy resident, and at present controller of extensive railway interests in Maine, has been visiting Mrs. Elmer F. Ricker and Mrs. Fred E. Jones. Mr. Graham was a member of the first City Council of Quincy, and a representative to the General Court. He was president of the Quincy and Boston St. Ry. Co., before it consolidated with the Bay State St. Ry. Co. He lives in Bangor, Maine.

Maple Lodge, Knights and Ladies of Honor, held a well attended meeting in Protection hall, Wednesday evening. In the games that followed Mrs. Annie T. Grignon and Mrs. E. E. Marnock won first and second place. Miss Maud Tibbets was awarded the consolation prize. Commencing next Thursday a series of weekly whist parties will be held in Electa hall under the auspices of the entertainment committee.

If you don't raise more small fruit in your garden, how are the boys of the neighborhood going to subst?

These I. W. W. methods cannot be wholly a surprise to any one who has ever taught a class of boys in Sunday school.

It is strange how many sick friends there are to be visited Sunday morning after you get an automobile, particularly when the dust has been.

The University of Wisconsin is instructing 5000 students by mail, but if you want to learn baseball, you have got to locate at some college.

As the theory of the present currency system is to provide the most money at the times when the least is needed, almost every one favors changing it.

BETTER CHILDREN TO TEACH.

"School hygiene has gone for forward from the old fashioned daily ten minutes of classroom calisthenics and from the semi-weekly half hours of recitation from a dull text book on physiology," says an editorial writer in World's Work. Such practical things as adequate ventilation, scientific lighting, sanitary privies, exercise in school gardens, and health inspection have replaced the old routine, gymnastics and the instruction that did not instruct. Physicians and dentists and sociologists have come to the aid of the schoolmen, and they all are studying together the problems of healthful childhood and co-operating to put into practice the efficient knowledge of science to build a better race.

It has been estimated that of the twenty million pupils in the schools of this country, probably five percent have tuberculosis of the lungs, more than five percent have defective vision, twenty-five percent are suffering from mal-nutrition, more than thirty percent have enlarged tonsils and adenoids or enlarged glands in the neck and more than fifty percent have defective teeth which interfere with their development. In other words, about fifteen million children require attention to their physical health.

To meet these conditions, many cities now maintain open class rooms and whole schools in the open air for tuberculosis, dental clinics to discover and correct defects of the teeth that lead to mal-nutrition, optical clinics that turn many "dull" pupils into bright pupils, special classes for backward and deficient children and health inspection and visiting nurses, that do an incalculable service toward improving the bodily and mental vigor of the young folk.

The helpful activities lend special significance and interest to the Fourth International Congress on School Hygiene, which will gather at Buffalo this month. More than 250 doctors and teachers from all parts of United States and Europe will be there to exchange information and to compare experiences in this vitally important work of human conservation and uplift. The hopeful advance of American education—especially of rural education—is largely found up in the practical knowledge and the inspiring enthusiasm that arise from such gatherings as this."

THREE PARTIES.

Voters of the Democratic, Progressive and Republican political parties are entitled to participate in the state primaries of the present year and they are also entitled to participate in the city primaries, provided the notice required by law has been furnished by the city committees of such parties.

Party enrolment of voters in the state primaries of last year or the year before will continue for both primaries of the present year.

Party enrolment of voters as appears by the voting lists used at the state primaries will continue for the city primaries as under the present law there will be only one party enrolment of voters, and this will apply to both state and city primaries.

Voters who have not previously participated in primaries or have not established their party enrolment as provided by law, will, when they present themselves to vote at the primaries, be asked with which political party they desire to be enrolled, and their choice shall be checked upon the voting list to be used at all subsequent primaries.

No enrolled voter shall be allowed to receive the ballot of any political party except that with which he is enrolled, but he may establish, change or cancel his enrolment by appearing in person before the City clerk, and requesting in writing to have his enrolment changed to another party or cancelled, provided that such change or cancellation shall not take effect until the expiration of 90 days after the voter so appears. No voter enrolled as a member of one political party shall be allowed to receive the ballot of any other political party, upon a claim by him of erroneous enrollment, except upon a certificate of such error from the board of registrars.

BROOKLINE TAX RATE.

Brookline seems to be joining the procession with other towns and cities in the Commonwealth in the increase of her tax rate. The increase of the 1913 rate over that of 1912 was $1.30, and $4.30 more than in 1906, as will be seen by these figures:

1906 rate	$9.00
1907 rate	10.80
1908 rate	11.50
1909 rate	10.50
1910 rate	12.50
1911 rate	12.20
1912 rate	12.00
1913 rate	13.30

ORDERED TO REPORT.

Dr. Harry W. Blaisdell of Faxon avenue, who recently passed an examination at Washington as assistant surgeon dentist in the U. S. Navy, with rank of second Lieutenant (junior grade) received orders this week to report at the Brooklyn Navy Yard and left for that station immediately. Dr. Blaisdell is a native of Portsmouth, N. H., and has been a resident of Quincy for the past three years.

DISTINGUISHED VISITOR.

Historic Quincy added another distinguished visitor to the long list Thursday. Uncle Joe Cannon, ex-speaker of the National House of Representatives of the strongest defenders of Republicanism in the United States, spent the greater part of Thursday visiting the Dorothy Q house, the tomb of the Presidents and their birthplace. Accompanying him was Mr. Wright of New York. They rode in a registered New York automobile and left here for Marshfield Hills to visit the Webster homestead.

About 9 o'clock "Uncle Joe" entered the pharmacy of C. C. Hearn to inquire about the historic points, and was recognized by Mr. Hearn immediately. He told a patron and the news spread like wild fire. When the party stopped at the First Church they were the centre of over 100 eyes, but Uncle Joe didn't seem to mind the gaze of the curious.

Some little delay in entering afforded the party the opportunity of seeing the man who was conspicuous in legislation a few sessions ago. Before passing through the open door he removed his felt hat and turning to Emery L. Crane, city clerk, he said, "Well, John Adam was a good sport."

As the party took their places in the auto after the visit Uncle Joe placed one of those long black cigars that he smokes at a characteristic angle in his mouth, threw his right leg up on the seat and settled back in the cushions. The chauffeur started the engine and they left City Square at moderate speed.

When the party arrived at the Dorothy Q mansion on Butler road they entered their automobile on Butler road and entering the main walk approached the front entrance and gave the knock. A bang Mrs. Andrews, the caretaker answered the knock and at once saw that one of the two visitors resembled the well known "Uncle Joe". Having heard however that Uncle had a counterpart in Quincy she thought that the gentleman was the counterpart and not the real article.

Both gentlemen seemed greatly interested in what they saw at the home and Mrs. Andrews said that "Uncle Joe" was in best of spirits and all of his remarks were in a humorous vein. He also told several anecdotes of Chauncey Depew and the wife of Judge Holmes.

The party did not remain for a business meeting and election of officers. At two, after an address of welcome by Hon. Robert A. Harris of East Bridgewater, Joseph Packard, East, of Baltimore, Md., will act as presiding officer. Various papers, short speeches and letters; the reading of Samuel Packard's will; and other interesting matters for a couple of hours.

PACKARD ANNIVERSARY.

To celebrate the 25th anniversary of the landing of Samuel Packard at Hingham, Aug. 10, 1638 the Packard Family association has planned a gala time for Sunday and Monday on the site of his home, a few hundred feet from Central square, near the soldiers' monument, West Bridgewater. A tent will occupy an open field with seating room for 500.

Sunday, at three o'clock there will be memorial services in recognition of the real anniversary day. The opening musical service will be by the Weber Male quartet of Boston, and the occasion will be in charge of Rev. Edward B. Maglathlin, First Congregational Unitarian church of West Bridgewater. This church was organized in 1856, and in the days of Samuel Packard, the Rev. James Keith was its pastor, "the first minister of Bridgewater." There will be two or three short addresses in appreciation of the lives of our fathers, and a short "In Memoriam" exercise by the Weber Quartet. M. Clifton Edson, cornetist, Rev. Edward B. Maglathlin, chaplain of the day, and the president of the Association, Winthrop Packard, the journalist and nature writer, is one of the speakers.

Monday forenoon the so-called "Packard Anniversary" will be observed. How about Granite street, Copeland and Quincy avenue, and other main thoroughfares?

Commissioner Tupper believes that it is important to the Department of Public works to know, he now has a record taken during July at 27 different points, showing the traffic records for eight hours from 8 A. M. to 5 P. M.

In the summary which follows the maximum traffic per hour, the minimum per hour, and the average per hour are given, also the total for the light hours.

Notes and Comments.

—Twelve children at play have been burned to death in Brooklyn this summer while wearing fringed Indian, and cowboy suits. The death last week of the twelfth victim, a five-year-old girl, caused Dr. Charles Probst, coroner's physician, to publish this fact and warn parents against letting children wear play costumes with inflammable fringes.

—It is a sad fact, but one which cannot be disputed, that the modern city parent has relegated the secular education of his children entirely to the public school and their religious instruction to the church. Both of these institutions are struggling to meet the requirements forced upon them by the indifference of parents. There is no institution on earth which can take the place of the good home, and those children who are thrust upon strangers to learn the most sacred duties of life are defrauded of their birthright.—Suburban Life.

—Co-operative banks are a comparatively new institution of saving but statistics just issued show not only their popularity but also the prosperity and saving habits of the wage earners in the State, as the total assets of these institutions in this country now aggregate more than $75,000,000, and the regular savings banks all over the state are showing large gains in deposits.

—In respect to its tax rate Milton continues to be among the most desirable places in the vicinity of Boston in which to establish a home. Although the rate of $13 is $15 above that of last year, the town still ranks among the lowest taxed municipalities in this section.—Milton Record.

—Another crying need in Congress is for a special brand of speeches that can be whispered to the stenographers, circulated only in the statesmen's own district and edited out of the Record, thus permitting a man to make a hit at home without suffering the verdict of the country at large.—Boston Transcript.

—Wisconsin has an anti-gossip law which should adorn the statute books of every state. It carries with it a penalty of $500 fine and imprisonment for peddling damaging stories about your neighbor, and particularly to make remarks reflecting upon the good name of his wife, mother or sister.—Athol Chronicle.

—One of the leading moving picture men of the country says the business is overdone, and predicts hard times for many who are in the enterprise. That is likely to be true, a little later, if not now. The tendency is always toward overdoing a business that is unusually profitable, and this business can hardly be exceptional in that respect.—New Bedford Standard.

—The following item we have seen in several of our exchanges: "A man comments on the local paper because it is not big, cheap and newsworthy as the city papers, you can safely assume he does not squander any of his wealth in assisting to make it better, and that generally the paper has done more for him than he has for it. The man who cannot see the benefit arising from a local newspaper is of about as much value to a town as a delinquent tax list."

—A German couple who lived 60 years in this country went back home, then returned to the United States again and were held at Ellis Island as "sufferers from senility." Where do they dig up these officials who are mainly suffering with some brain disorder themselves?—Brooklyn Enterprise.

—A dealer in paper stock is sending us a minister's postal with this tempestuous thereon: "Most churches nowadays are having their congregations deliver to them all their old magazines and books. Tie them in bundles or put them in bags, and we will pay you $11 per ton." What a compliment to the honesty of clergymen! Is it based on the common rumor of their small salaries? How sore a temptation to have such richies dangled before their sad eyes!—Christian Register.

—Along with other things, taxes are advancing on the Cape. Providence town will have a rate of $26 per $1,000, and its little neighbor, Truro, will have to stagger under a rate of $16.50 this year, and not have so much to show for it either.

—The recent suffragette automobile tour through New England was not without its success, says the Bart's Times. We are read that the "blue-eyed black-hair," Miss Margaret Murphy, received five proofs of marriage—in other words five votes for Miss Murphy supporters.

—The New York, New Haven & Hartford R. R. Co. has decided to equip all its locomotives with a safety device, at the rate of five a month, and a total cost of about $1,000,000. The change will increase the hauling power of the engines about 20 per cent, and at the same time effect a saving of coal of 20 per cent and 25 per cent of water.—Old Colony Memorial.

—We think enough books are published each year in America, but German publications are not twice as many. Moreover, the proportion of German authors to the population is much larger than ours. There are 9,000 writers in 1910, Germany counting up over 31,000. We have one writer to every 10,000 of population; Germany has one to every 2,097. Nevertheless it remains true that there are certain quarters where one can hardly "throw a stone without hitting an author."—Christian Register.

SAILED AT MIDNIGHT.

Thousands gathered on both sides of the Fore River Sunday night to see the big Argentine battleship Rivadavia start on her maiden trip for Brooklyn, N. Y. It was indeed a grand sight and the many who remained up for the sight were more than repaid.

The street railway company ran a number of extra cars from City Square also extra cars on the Weymouth side of the bridge. In addition there were hundreds of automobile parties, whose cars were lined up on every point of advantage on both sides near the bridge. The bridge itself was black with humanity, but Germantown point was also black with people, who could be readily seen through the searchlight that was thrown in their direction lighting up the shore front.

Once in Broad channel the tugs left her and the vessel was headed for New York which port she reached on Monday afternoon. The ship went into dry dock immediately at the Brooklyn navy yard where some repairs will be made to her bottom plates which will also be freed at Newport for two weeks. They drive a Rambler four.

William Lynch and his Moon car had Miss Marion White, Mrs. J. S. Piero and daughter Marlene as passengers. Providence and return was by way of Newport, R. I. Miss Helen Bishop one of the party will remain at Newport for two weeks. They will be in dry dock about four weeks when she will return to Boston harbor and anchor in Broad channel and receive a supply of fuel after which she goes to Rockland, Me., for her trials.

The tugs which aided in guiding the ship through the draw and channel were the Mercury, Capt. Wall; Palis, Capt. Ford; Juno, Capt. Cunningham; Neptune, Capt. Nickerson; and Saturday, Capt. Dolan.

Over the propellers, lights were hung in such a position that the working of twin screws were known at all times.

The tonnage of the Rivadavia as she left her moorings at the wharf was 26,200 and some idea of the job it was to get her through the draw and channel may be had by the first modern ship.

The vessel came through however without a mishap of any kind, and the small army of tugs aided her in swinging her bow around the almost right angle turn and down the channel toward Hull port.

It was but a few minutes past 10 o'clock when several loud blasts sounded on the battleship's whistle and was followed by several shrills from the stern whistle. Then the big searchlight on the bow of the vessel began play about the harbor. Its great volume of white light made everything in the direction in which it was aimed as light as day and made a beautiful sight, which was made even more so by the rays of purple light with which the white light was surrounded to be surrounded the two colors forming a scene hard to describe.

Slowly the monster was backed from the dock where she has been tied up ever since the launching, her stern being headed up the river and the bow toward the bridge. In this she was aided by half a dozen powerful tugs from T wharf in addition to the Force River tug. This operation was eagerly watched by the crowds on the bridge and on the shores.

Once turned about and headed for the bridge, the whistle sounded for the draw to open. It was some minutes before this was accomplished however owing to the crowd which had to be pushed back. The searchlight was thrown onto the bridge and from a distance had a fine view of the crowd and the officers lined up in a row across the bridge slowly pushing them back.

THOSE HOLIDAY SPORTS.

Louis F. LaRose of the Y. M. C. A. and a member of the July 4th athletic committee, wishes to absolve James E. Neary, the chairman of this committee from all blame for the fact that the July 4th sports were not sanctioned by the A. A. U. Last year the committee held a cross-country run under exactly the same conditions as these sports were held on the Fourth and nothing was heard from the Cambridge branch of the A. A. U. and as the events were all closed it was taken for granted that this year conditions would be the same.

It seems, however, that some one in Quincy is trying to get the Quincy athletes "in bad" and as a result there is a call against wholesale suspension by the A. A. U. officials. Mr. LaRose has written a letter to Mr. Faeley of Cambridge explaining the matter, and it is hoped that it will soon be cleared up.

CONFIRMATION.

There was a large attendance Sunday afternoon at the confirmation service at the Finnish Congregational church on Buckley street. The church which has recently been redecorated and painted was very prettily decorated with plants and flowers for this occasion. In addition to this there was a large arch over the entrance to the church made of evergreen and flowers.

THESE HOLIDAY SPORTS.

The exercises opened with congregation singing. The scripture reading and prayer were by Rev. A. Raita. Then followed the confirmation of a class of eight pupils by the pastor, Rev. J. E. Lillback.

Each pupil was called separately and was examined, charged and confirmed by the pastor, the ceremony being a very pretty one. Then verses were read to each of the pupils by their parents. These verses the pupils are supposed to commit to memory.

Each one confirmed received a diploma and Bible, the service being followed by singing and the Lord's supper.

After the service the pastor Rev. J. E. Lillback was presented with a loving cup, the presentation speech being made by Miss Caroline W. Sa-

TENNIS VICTORY.

The Quincy Tennis club had things their own way Saturday in the match games with the North Abington club in the Suburban League meeting, winning the three single matches and the two double. The summary was as follows:

Davenport of Quincy beat Brett of North Abington, 6-1, 6-2.

W. H. Soule of Quincy beat Soule of North Abington, 6-2, 6-1.

Lawson of Quincy beat Tirrell of North Abington, 6-3, 6-1.

Hall and Davis of Quincy beat Wheately and Wales of North Abington, 6-3, 6-3.

AT BLUE HILL.

In the Blue Hills Reservation, instead of building more roads, paths and other improvements, as in past years, the Commission is caring for what has been built and is giving much attention to gypsy and brown-tail moths, says the Milton Record.

A large force of men is kept busy in the moth-infested districts. Considerable oiling and repairing has been done on the roads and parkways.

At Great Blue Hill a much-needed improvement appreciated by visitors, is the installation of a drinking fountain at the summit of the hill. The water is supplied from a reservoir tank located near the summit with a fixed amount of water kept in it all the time by an automatic pumping system.

Another drinking fountain, a memorial to Professor A. Lawrence Rotch, the founder of the Blue Hill Observatory is to be installed later in the season by Mrs. A. L. Rotch.

At the foot of Chaticabut Hill, near the corner of Administration and Randolph avenue, the Bay State Street Railway is erecting a waiting room and shelter.

SUBMARINE ACCIDENT.

Five mechanics were overcome by gas, Saturday and later totally rendered unconscious by physicians aboard the new submarine G-6 which is awaiting her trials of Provincetown. The mechanics were recharging batteries with the aid of a gasoline engine, and the heavy, sultry air prevented the escape of the gas through the hatchway.

By midnight the Rivadavia was well along toward Houghs Neck.

Then came the rush for the cars. Supt. Gammon, however, was on hand personally directing the movement of the extra cars which had been run

LONG AUTO TRIPS.

Several Quincy autoists made century runs on Sunday, probably many more than are reported below. But all are requested to keep the Daily Ledger posted relative to their long trips, especially on Sundays. News should reach the Ledger office early Monday morning.

George H. Brown and family of Elm street, with Mrs. Alice Cobb and Herbert Cobb as guests, motored to Middleboro, New Bedford, Fairhaven and Marion, returning via Nantasket, 114 miles.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman W. Grant of 247 Washington street and family motored to Rocky Point, R. I. and C. H. C. car, covering 136 miles. They are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Macomber and daughter of 140 Upland road.

Mr. and Mrs. Bishop of Elm street have returned from an automobile trip through New York state, making a run Sunday of 145 miles, coming by way of Newark, R. I. Miss Helen Bishop one of the party will remain at Newark for two weeks. They will be in dry dock about four weeks when she will return to Boston harbor and anchor in Broad channel and receive a supply of fuel after which she goes to Rockland, Me., for her trials.

GRANITE CONVENTION.

Quincy granite manufacturers are taking great interest in the convention of the National Retail Monument Dealers' Association of America, Inc., which is to be held in Boston Aug. 19, 20 and 21, and will be the largest gathering of retail monument dealers ever assembled in convention.

In connection with this convention an exhibition of memorial art, given under the auspices of the New England Memorial Convention Bureau, will be held at the Boston Arena, Aug. 19 to 22. Only designs of the highest type of artistic merit have been accepted by the exhibition committee. Many fine specimens of Quincy granite are in evidence.

The convention will open at the Boston Arena at 10:30 where dealers and guests will be welcomed by Mayor Fitzgerald and addresses will be made by officers connected with the National and various State Associations.

There will be a business session at 2 P. M. at Hotel Brunswick, and also on Wednesday at 9 A. M. and 2 P. M.

Wednesday evening has been designated as ladies' night and a banquet will be held at the Hotel Brunswick and sight-seeing automobile trips to Concord and Lexington have been arranged for the entertainment of the women during the convention.

An optional program for Friday has been arranged, including an excursion to Quincy and one to Barre, Vt.

Quincy has planned to take the visitors from the Boston Arena at 8 a. m. in automobiles through Boston's famous parkway system. This will be followed by a trip through the Fore River Shipbuilding plant, where our large battleships are built, then on to Nantasket Beach.

Barre, Vt. will have special trains leaving Boston Thursday night to convey the dealers to Barre, arriving there at 8 o'clock Friday morning, where breakfast will be served at Howland Hall. A special train of observation cars will take the dealers to the quarries.

LADIES' NIGHT.

The annual ladies' night entertainment of the Quincy Yacht club was held Thursday evening and was the occasion for the gathering of a large number of yachtsmen and their ladies.

The bright moon made the water look very inviting, and while for the most part the guests remained at the clubhouse to enjoy the dancing, which followed the entertainment, quite a few could not resist the temptation to enjoy a moonlight sail, for the tide was just right for sailing and a light breeze furnished just enough air to fill the sails of the yachts.

The entertainment was of a very pleasing character and was of about an hour's duration. It consisted of selections by Monk's orchestra, who rendered not only many of the popular airs but some classical music as well. In addition there were vocal selections by Dr. A. R. Gould and Clement B. Nash. It was expected that there would be a lady singer but in this the committee were disappointed. The singing of Dr. Gould and Mr. Nash was very much enjoyed.

Following the entertainment program there was dancing until 11 o'clock at which time a special car left for Quincy.

ANOTHER SPECIAL.

Mayor Stone issued the call this week for the special meeting of the City Council for next Monday evening. There are nine items in the call as follows:

To draw jurors.

To receive and act on a report of the Finance Committee on the order appropriating $1,500 to repair Neponset bridge.

To receive and act on a report of the Committee on Ordinances relative to public speaking and street parades.

To confirm the appointment of election officers.

To receive and act on petitions of the Telephone Company for relocation of poles and attachments.

To receive and act on a communication from the Mayor relative to an appropriation for expenses in the Catholic Buckley claim.

To receive communications from the Mayor appointing a measurer of wood and special constable.

To hold a public hearing at 8 o'clock on fixing the tax limit for the city.

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES.

A new and interesting set of pictures is now on exhibition in the art gallery of the Thomas Crane Public Library. The set is entitled "Days near Rome."

The first mount is a good map of Rome and vicinity. Then the collection starts with Sardinia and includes Etruscan, Sora, Vignanello, Nept, Capriola, Viterbo and Bagno, showing the most interesting spots of each place.

Perhaps the most interesting and surely the most beautiful are the last sixteen pictures, which are of the Villa Lante in Bagno, the old residence of the Lante family. The villa is well preserved and is one of the most charming examples of Italian Renaissance landscape architecture.

It was built in 1550 and remodelled about 1550. The gardens are exceptionally beautiful, as these views show, forming four terraces, the dwellings on the second, with a fine sculptured fountain in the center. The upper levels are occupied by trees, cascades, summer houses or loggias, and gardens. It would truly be worth any one's time to go to the Library to see just these last sixteen of the sixty pictures presented.

The whole collection follows the text of A. J. Hare's, "Days near Rome," call number 1225, which may be had upon application at the charging desk.

LEG FRACTURED.

Owen Ready, a farm hand employed by B. F. Hodgkinson, had his left leg fractured above the knee about 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the grain elevator of F. H. Crane & Son. Ready had driven to the elevator with a pair of horses for a load of grain. On arriving he took the horses by the head to back the team around. In doing so, he was caught by the pole and was jammed against the building. His left leg was fractured just above the knee. The police ambulance was called and he was removed to the City Hospital.

Edward Bennett and John O'Connell who have been in Maine where they are following up building construction, the week end at their home on Grove street. Both are members of a base ball team and their conditions point to the regular life the boys are following.

Gardner and Goettling would make a good ticket for the Republicans, recognizing Cape Ann and the western part of the State.

After many rumors that employees at the Fore River shipyard might become involved in the boiler makers' strike of Boston, it is good news that 300 boilermakers on strike for nearly 11 weeks returned to work Monday, their differences having been adjusted in conferences before the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration. The men returned in eight of the 13 plants originally affected by the strike.

TIME EXPRESSES TODAY.

Saturday at 5 o'clock is the last time for filing nomination papers of candidates to be voted for at the caucuses in September. City Clerk Crane announces that although City Hall closes at noon on Saturday he will keep his office open until 5 o'clock to receive any nomination papers.

Nomination papers for William R. Thomas as Republican candidate for Senator from the First Norfolk district are in circulation.

Nomination papers are being circulated today for Representative Michael T. Sullivan who is unopposed as Democratic candidate for reelection. Papers for the Senatorial nomination are being circulated for David J. Murray of Hyde Park. The latest candidates for the district attorney of Norfolk and Plymouth counties are H. H. McNeil of Brockton and William J. Good. William T. Shea is circulating the papers of Frank J. Donahue, secretary of state.

That John J. McDevitt is to have opposition in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for Senator from the First Norfolk district is made certain by the filing of nomination papers with City Clerk Crane for James H. Shea of Blue Hills Pathway Milton. The papers were filed with the City Clerk shortly before noon today.

Although there have been numerous rumors that there would be opposition to McDevitt, who says that he is seeking vindication, it was not absolutely certain until papers had been filed.

A hot campaign for the nomination is now assured between the two candidates.

RESCUED.

John S. Lloy aged about 24 years of Halifax, N. S., came near being drowned on Thursday while in bathing off Adams shore. Lloy who is visiting at his brother's cottage on Oneida street went in bathing and was quite a distance from the shore when other bathers noticed that something was wrong.

Two ladies who were in bathing at the same time went to his rescue and succeeded in getting him ashore. A hurry call was sent for a physician and Dr. Burke and Capt. McKay of the police department hastened to the scene. Dr. Burke succeeded in restoring the man after which he was taken to his brother's cottage. He said that he was suddenly taken sick while bathing and lost control of himself.

But for the prompt assistance of the two ladies he would probably have been drowned. The ladies were very modic about the rescue and refused to give names as they did not desire any publicity given their act.

LIVELY RUNAWAY.

A thrilling runaway occurred in City Square about 1:30 Friday and Dunham Dunlap, a conductor of the Bay State Street Railway was struck and thrown by an automobile as he started in pursuit. He received a strained left wrist and several cuts about the hands. The machine proceeded on its way without stopping.

The horse owned by the Eaton Ice Co. was hitched to a single ice wagon and became scared while feeding in the rear of the Thompson case. He ran into Saville street, dodged a Houghs Neck car, and shot across to the lawn of Dr. Bradshaw at Faxon avenue. He suddenly turned and ran up on the porch of the house, carrying away two posts on the porch.

Passing automobiles, electric cars and nearly 50 people were directly in his path but he managed to get through without causing any accidents. The damage to the house is estimated at about $10. The horse was uninjured.

HOUSE FURNISHERS.

Col. Henry L. Kincaide was the principal speaker Wednesday at the annual outing and dinner of the House Furnishers' Association of Massachusetts. The outing was held at Nantasket, the banquet being served at the Palm Garden. After the banquet, Col. Kincaide, a former president of the association, was introduced, and gave an interesting talk on the visit of the Chamber of Commerce party to South America.

Col. Kincaide emphasized the opportunities in commerce with the great cities beneath the Southern Cross. He paid tribute to the enterprising natives of Argentina, who have developed the resources of their country wonderfully in the last few years. He touched on the Panama canal and the result it is sure to have on Massachusetts. Careful study of the continent, he said, had shown him that the United States should maintain American banks in South America, should also pay a ship subsidy and secure legislation for its ministers.

FIREFWORKS A FEATURE.

Quincy Italians will celebrate the feast of their patron, St. Rocco on Sunday and Monday with elaborate ceremonies. Commencing Sunday afternoon at Protection hall, the affair will continue all day Monday and terminate on that evening with an illumination and fireworks display at Merrymount Park. Sunday afternoon a street parade will be held in which out of town societies and invited guests will participate. The committee in charge of the arrangements is headed by Antonio Petta of Canal street.

Huntington avenue, Boston, will be made a Great White Way.

QUANTUM IMPROVEMENT.

Positive assurance from Mayor Fitzgerald and L. K. Rourke, commissioners of public works of Boston, that the odors coming from the city's garbage disposal plant at Spectacle Island are to be abated, have been made to the Quantum Improvement Association. This is good news to all sections of Quincy for Atlantic, Wollaston and Houghs Neck as well as Squantum have repeatedly protested against the odors that come from the garbage disposal plant.

At the regular meeting of the association Wednesday night at the vacation house, C. E. Carlson, chairman of the Spectacle Island committee, read the following letter from Commissioner Rourke of Boston:

"Confirming our telephone conversation, I wish to say that the contractor who has the contract for disposing of the refuse of the City of Boston at Spectacle Island, has entered into a contract with the Spray Engineering Company of Boston for the installation of a spraying apparatus, which the Spray Engineering Company guarantees will terminate any nuisance which may have been caused by odors from this plant. This work will be completed within the next two weeks, and in the meantime, the contractor is taking every precaution possible to minimize the odors."

Mr. Fitzgerald wrote that he had ordered Mr. Rourke to "cancel" the contract if the nuisance was not abated at once.

There was a large attendance at the meeting and President Herbert A. Smith presided with all the officers present.

Chairman W. N. Kenyon of the mosquito committee reported his investigations into the mosquito nuisance. He told of the work being done in Medford where 523 acres of swamp lands are being drained at the expense of the owners of the property.

Chairman Kenyon was of the opinion that the City Quincey Board of Health could take the same action and condemn all the swamp lands of Quincey which are breeding places of mosquitoes and dangerous to public health. He said that swamp land could be drained at an expense of $15 an acre.

Quincey has been practically mosquito-free this summer owing to the application of oil to the swamp lands adjoining.

The trip took them through Milton, Hyde Park, Readville, West Roxbury, Dedham, Needham, Wellesley, Weston, Waltham, Watertown, Cambridge and Boston harbor. The inland waters followed were Town river, Neponset river, Stony Brook and Charles river.

The trip was taken for pleasure only and with no intention of establishing a record, and both declare they gained valuable experience. A camping outfit weighing about 90 pounds was taken along and added to the 75 pound, 17 foot canoe it made a heavy load to carry from one stream to another.

The outfit was carried at Adams shore, Quincey, Milton station, Chocate Mill dam, Mattapan bridge, Mattapan paper mills, and other places along the line. At the cotton mill dam at Readville they met with stern objection on the part of a man who threatened to enforce a "No Trespass" sign with a shot gun. A parley gained them the privilege of passing.

The boys camped on the Stony Brook reservation and awakened with the birds to continue their journey. They reached Charles river and Waltham without accident and commenced the return trip. The officer at the sluiceway opened the gates and allowed them to take the short way to the navy yard and from there until they reached Quincey Bay they had their fill of tough experiences.

Passing ferries and other boats disturbed the harbor waters to such an extent that it was one continual pitch and roll and they did not escape a violent water fall until off Savin hill.

It is understood that the City Soliditor has ruled that the Mayor or City council can not be questioned by citizens or members of the City Council at this hearing regarding the finances of the city, as the hearing is to furnish the members of the City Council with the views of the public as to what the limit should be.

This ruling is an important one, as it prevents anyone from making use of the hearing for political purposes, such as placing the Mayor on the carpet and propounding questions, calculated to place the city in an unfavorable light.

JAMES H. COLEMAN.

The funeral of James H. Coleman, who died at St. Margaret's hospital, Boston, was held Thursday from his home, 443 Bridge street, North Weymouth. Mr. Coleman was employed as an engineer at the American Agricultural Chemical Works and did heroic work during the fire which leveled the plant.

Exalted Ruler Philip T. Sullivan of the Quincy Lodge, B. P. O. E., conducted the Elks service at the home, assisted by officers of the lodge and a quartette.

IDaho Best Ship.

Saturday when Secretary Daniels goes to Newark he will witness the ceremony of hoisting the pennant for battle efficiency on the battleship Idaho. The battleship Delaware, Capt. John Hood, is the present holder of the pennant. The final standing shows that the Idaho, 100 per cent in gunnery and third in engineering, her average being 94.65. That of the Utah was 87.613. That of the Michigan gun was 87.50 in Quincey, July 4th, 1921. That of the North Dakota, a Quincey built ship was 75.165 and the Rhode Island also a Quincey built ship was 66.898.

LEG RUN OVER.

John Donovan aged 56 years of 36 Union street, Quincey, is in a serious condition at the Boston City Hospital, as a result of being run over by a Quincey car at the Dudley Street elevated terminal Thursday evening. Mr. Donovan was on his way home and was waiting on the lower level to take a Quincey car at 5:37. The section of the station was crowded with people at the time and as the Quincey car pulled around the corner he attempted to get aboard before it had come to a stop. In doing so, he lost his hold and fell between the trucks, the rear wheel passing over his right leg almost severing it below the knee.

DES MOINES AT VENEZUELA.

Conditions along the west coast of Venezuela, the center of the Castro rebellion activity, are to be investigated by Commander Long of the cruiser Des Moines, which reached La Guayira, Monday with Henry G. Tennant, the American legation. After landing Mr. Tennant the Des Moines, according to Tuesday's despatches, proceeded westward on a scouting cruise.

TWENTY IN VALUATION.

Quincy makes a better showing in valuation than many suppose. The city ranks 20 in valuation in Massachusetts and is also No. 20 in population.

Three cities and towns which are smaller in population are larger in valuation, viz: Brookline, Beverly and Pittsfield.

On the other hand these three cities are larger in population, but have a smaller valuation:—Everett, Taunton and Fitchburg.

There are 13 cities which will this year pay a State tax of over $100,000.

The population of 1910 and the amount of the 1913 State tax are given for these cities.

JAMES H. COLEMAN.

James H. Coleman of North Weymouth died Monday afternoon at St. Margaret's hospital, Boston from pneumonia, following an operation for intestinal trouble. He was in his 38th year and well known in Quincey. He was employed at the American Agricultural Co. at Weymouth where he had charge of the lighters.

Mr. Coleman was taken suddenly ill following the fire which destroyed the plant a few weeks ago. He was operated upon and appeared to be recovering when pneumonia set in.

Mr. Coleman was the son of the late Mathew and Bridget Coleman and was unmarried. He was a member of Quincy council, Knights of Columbus, and Quincy Lodge, B. P. O. E.

He was the brother of the late William Coleman who at his death was exalted ruler of the Quincey Lodge of Elks.

He is survived by a brother Matthew and two sisters, Miss Margaret Coleman and Mrs. Catherine Sweeney and Dr. Michael Sweeney.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Wilford Clarence Hunt, formerly of Quincey, died suddenly on Sunday at his farm at Amherst, N. H. With his niece Miss Helen Rhines, he was driving to the neighboring city of Nashua, on Saturday morning, when he sustained a shock. Miss Rhines promptly notified her mother, Mrs. Effie L. Rhines of Miller Stile road, Quincey, who was surviving him. The grounds were completed last week when Gilraine was examined at the City Hospital.

The old proverb that "patient waiters are no losers" was exemplified at the lawn party of the Hall Place M. E. Sunday school Thursday evening.

The party had originally been planned for Wednesday afternoon and evening, but the weatherman had planned to send some much-needed rain.

May Riley Smith.

A little elbow leans upon your knee, Your tired knee that has so much to bear. A child's dear eyes are looking lovingly. Friend underneath a thatched of tangled hair. Perhaps you do not heed the velvet touch. Of warm moist fingers holding yours gently; You do not prize this blessing over much. You are almost too tired to pray, tonight.

But it is blessedness! I do not see it as I do today— We are so dull and thankless, and so stuporized. To catch the sunshine till it slips away;

And now it seems surpassing strange to me. That while I wore the badge of motherhood, I did not kiss more oft and tenderly. The little child that brought me only good.

And if some night, when you sit down to rest,

You miss this elbow from your tired knee, This rocks your curly head from off your breast. This lisping tongue that chatters constantly;

If from your own the dimpled hand has slipped?

And now it would nestle in your palm again.

If the white feet into the grave had tripped, I could not blame you for your heartache then.

I wonder so that mothers even fret At little children clinging to their or that the footprints, when the days are wet.

Are ever black enough to make them frown.

If I could find a little muddy boot, Or cap or jacket on my chamber floor—

If I could kiss a rosy restless foot, And hear it patter in my home once more,

If I could mend a broken cart today.

Tomorrow make a ride to reach the sky.

There no woman in God's world could say—

She was more blissfully content than I.

But ah, the dainty pillow next my own—

Is never rumped by a shining head; My singing birdling from its nest has flown—

The little boy I used to kiss is dead!

If I could mend a broken cart today.

The fellow had ev'ry dodge he could think of to get us to attend the meeting. Distributed pamphlets by the ream, and had the glad hand ready for us whenever he met any of us. We took all the pamphlets he offered; they was just the right size for shavin' papers, and wrung his hand cordial whenever he offered it, but as for goin' to the meetin', that was an other matter.

Three months went by, and the teller was beginnin' to look kinder and wiser, but so as we could see, the two men, awaiting impatiently its arrival, sprawled on a baggage truck on the shady side of the station, mopped their perspiring faces, and cast lurid anathemas at the desolate, sun-baked vista before them.

Nearly, on the edge of the uneven platform, a short, rotund individual, with a battered sombrero perched rakishly over one ear, dangled his legs and surveyed the landscape through half closed eyes.

"This here cummin' had its share of moral upliftin'," remarked the rotund individual, apropos of nothing in particular. "They're riz and subside regular. Sorter now-you-see 'em now-you-don't. I guess most ev'ry denomination and ev'ry kind of missionary society has had a kick at the end, and it wouldn't have surprised us none to see that sign come down at any time. 'Twas plain as the nose on your face that Cactus Junction was dead in its trespasses and sins, and perfectly willin' to remain so."

"Mississippi, wanted to make up the lot, and the two men, awaiting impatiently its arrival, sprawled on a baggage truck on the shady side of the station, mopped their perspiring faces, and cast lurid anathemas at the desolate, sun-baked vista before them.

"So little old Cactus Junction was sorter put on the black list and left to its own devices, and what with its careless population—the place-keepers driftin' from one San Carlos way, and the co-punchers foregatherin' regular of a Sunday mornin', and one of the worst kind of error, was in the worst kind of error.

INCREASE OF TAX RATE

Have you made an analysis of the Assessors' figures to satisfy yourself why Quincy's tax rate made such a jump this year?

The tax on "municipal current expenses" so called is only $9,526.50. With the increase in valuation that would not have caused any increase in the tax rate.

But there were increases in all the items of the tax levy except two, and they were among the smallest,—municipal city park debt and State highway assessment.

The increases, item by item, were:

Municipal expenses $5,266.50
City sewer, less receipts 982.61
City debt, 5,033.46
Interest, city debt, 482.93
Street Improvement debt, 4,000.00
Interest St. Imp. debt, 565.00
Park debt, same
Interest, park debt, decrease 20.00
Interest, temporary loans, 2,000.00

State tax, 13,025.00
County tax, 4,143.03
South Metropolitan sewer, 4.04
Metropolitan parks, 1,839.68
Metropolitan water, less receipts 13,345.68
State highway tax, same
Charles River Basin, 596.26

State Statistics, new 2,653.03
Refunding debt, new 15,000.00
Interest, refunding debt, new 6,000.00
Abatement of taxes in excess of overlay, new 4,114.65

Total increase, $82,231.14

The four new items—State statistics, refunding debt, interest on refunding debt, and statement of taxes in excess of overlay—alone caused an increase of $27,164.68. If we add to this the loss of $7,163.69 in estimated receipts, the total is $34,323.37, which almost accounts for $1 of the increase in tax rate, as $1 per $1,000 on a valuation of $36,716,260.00 will net $3,716.26.

The State and county taxes and assessments appear to be $29,553.99 larger, but this is not a fact, as against the Metropolitan water assessments is placed the words "less receipts." The Metropolitan water assessment of 1912 was $45,558.24, and in 1913 it was $55,519.02, an increase of $9,960.78.

Therefore there is a large loss in water receipts on income; to be exact $12,355.86. It was represented during the agitation for water meters that the Metropolitan assessments would be less, and the city income larger.

The number of water connections is larger but the receipts have not kept pace.

The opportunity to keep down the tax rate was lost, however, when the City Council seized every possible revenue and appropriated the same for current municipal expenses of 1913.

The amount of estimated receipts lawfully applicable to the payments of expenditures of the year as provided in Chapter 12, Section 37, Revised Laws, actually used by the Assessors each year were:

1913 May Stone $5,836.31
1912 May Stone 13,000.00
1911 May Shea 50,565.96

The "receipts" in 1912 were actually $6,193.88, according to the City Auditor's report, and are itemized on page 58 of the City Report.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Miss Mary Mattie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Mattie of Penns Hill, celebrated her birthday, August 15, very pleasantly. The evening was spent in dancing and singing and gramophone selections, games and step-dancing were also enjoyed.

William Provost and Miss Anne Kane rendered selections on the piano; William McCarthy, Daniel McEvoy, Charles Shattole and Charles Haggerty sang. "What D'ye Mean You Lost yer Dog?" Misses Mary and Bessie Mattie, Elizabeth McEvoy and Florence McDougal, sang "Stick to your Mother Mary."

The dining room was prettily decorated with Japanese lanterns and flowers and at eleven o'clock, a pretty birthday cake was placed in the centre of the table, after which all gathered about the table to enjoy the birthday supper.

Miss Mattie received many beautiful and costly gifts, including a handsome gold bracelet from her parents.

The party broke up at a late hour, wishing Miss Mattie many happy birthdays.

Friends were present from Randolph, Milton, New Jersey, Quincy, Weymouth and Braintree, among them being, Mr. and Mrs. Stetson of Randolph, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson and son Harold of New Jersey, Mr. and Mrs. DeCoste, Mr. and Mrs. James Mattie, Florence McDougal of Milton, Annie Kane, Irene Collins, Mary Mattie, Bessie Mattie, Alice Mattie, Florence Preston, Elizabeth McEvoy, Katie McEvoy, Lillian Crane, Margaret Mahon, William Provost, Charles Haggerty, Lawrence Ryder, Walter Mattie, Daniel McEvoy, Charles Shattole, William and Bernard McCahey, Thomas Coffey.

REV. DR. HARDY COMING.

Bethany church will welcome on Sunday its former pastor, Rev. E. N. Hardy, D. D., of La Grange, Ill., who will preach at both the morning and evening services. Unfortunately the church auditorium cannot be used because of improvements being made, but the chapel has a large seating capacity.

MRS. JOHN IRWIN.

Rev. Dr. Patrick A. Hayes of Milton, Me., was the celebrant of the solemn high mass of requiem at the funeral of his sister Mrs. Nora E. Erwin which was held at St. John's church Wednesday. Rev. Fr. John J. Casey was deacon. Rev. Fr. Walter Quinlan, sub-deacon and Rev. Fr. John J. Conn the pastor, master of ceremonies.

The Gregorian chant was sung by the regular choir under the direction of John Mahon, organist. The soloists were Mrs. Mary Burns King and Miss Eva Rice.

The bearers, the six oldest sons of the deceased were John, James, Howard, Harold, Joseph and Patrick Burke. Howard was in St. Mary's cemetery where the committal prayers were read by Father Hayes.

The funeral was largely attended by relatives and friends and there was a profusion of floral tributes, among them being a standing wreath from the Boston Ice Cream Co. by whom several of the sons were employed.

Lewis A. Newcomb of New York is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Packard. Mr. Newcomb made the trip from New York by automobile, leaving New York at 7:03 Wednesday morning. He arrived in Boston that night at 8:03 a trip of 225 miles. He is a brother of Mrs. M. J. Whittemore.

James H. Slade of this city and his brother Charles Slade of Buffalo were recent guests at Provincetown, Cape Cod, where Mrs. James H. Slade is spending a few weeks.

Misses Irene and Isabel, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Nicoll of 52 Gay street, celebrated their eleventh birthday, Aug. 15, by entertaining several of their little friends. Games of all kinds were enjoyed, also music. A grab bag was a feature of the afternoon and each child was allowed two grabs. Refreshments of all kinds were served.

Thomas Smith opened the door of his room at 69 Penn street Saturday night in time to see a man disappearing through an open window. He gave chase but the man disappeared in the direction of Centre street. An examination of his valuables showed that nothing had been taken. He was able to give only a fleeting description to the police.

One of the hardest fought amateur base ball games ever played in Quincy finished on the Ward Three playground Saturday afternoon with the Redmen leading the Orients, 3 to 2.

The losers, last years amateur champions, were unable to pull across a victory. The winners are now claiming the championship but both managers have agreed to play on Labor Day morning.

Miss Bella Michael is at George's Mills, Sunapee lake, N. H., for a two weeks' vacation.

Two carpenters of the stone shed at Prout Bros., on Brooks avenue and received a fracture of the right thigh. He was taken to the hospital in the Little Haste, following a time is reported.

The base ball season is rapidly drawing to a close and a glance at the season's record shows that the Atlantic A. A. a junior team of Ward Three, last years amateur champions, were unable to pull across a victory. The winners are now claiming the championship but both managers have agreed to play on Labor Day morning.

Carl Anderson of Glendale road fell from the roof of his house being erected at 134 Independence avenue and received a compound fracture of the nose and minor bruises about the body. He was treated by Dr. McCausland and removed him to the hospital.

Miss Margaret Michaels of South Quincy, typewriter operator, at the Daily Ledger office has gone to Georges Mills, N. H., for two weeks.

Miss Edith Ceylinda Denton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Denton of 203 Kendrick avenue, South Quincy, and Arthur F. Helms of Boston, were married Wednesday night by Rev. J. A. Thompson, acting rector of Christ Church.

The funeral services of Maria M. Fanning, widow of Reuben Fanning, was held on Thursday from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edgar G. Cleaves, 5 Hancock court. Services were conducted by Rev. Edward Norton, pastor of Bethany Congregational church. The body was sent to Lubec, Me., for burial.

William Lyley of North Abington, now in Uncle Sam's Navy, was arraigned in Quincy court on Tuesday on the charge of larceny of a watch from Victor Ericson of Whitewall street. The offense was committed in 1911, and the complaint was dismissed when Ericson stated he did not care to prosecute. The costs, $5, was paid by Lyley.

Many of our people will be interested in the annual exhibit of vegetables and flowers at the Women's clubhouse next Friday afternoon by the school children of the city. The work has been under the auspices of the civic committee of the club, Mrs. H. H. Kitson, chairman, and the children have had most gratifying results both with vegetables and flowers.

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, there will be a free public lecture under the auspices of the I. B. S. A. in the Colonial hall, Quincy Square. Pastor R. E. Streeter, of Providence, R. I., will speak on "Why Does God Permit Calamities?" This question has been raised in connection with many disasters by storm, fire and flood, and it is said that in this lecture the Bible teacher will be carefully examined as to why God is permitting all these calamities.

The Dorothy Quincy Commandery, United Order of Golden Cross, held its regular meeting in Electa hall, Wednesday evening, followed by short talks by visitors, dancing and refreshments.

Six candidates were initiated under the direction of C. H. Flinn, noble commander, and eight applications were received. The next meeting will dispose as quickly as possible of the business and commence an entertainment program which has been arranged by C. H. Flinn, Miss M. Murray, Miss Adelaide Bernier, Daniel Dr. Bona, Gordon Emslie, Mrs. Eaton and Pearl Brant.

Miss Caroline Hill of New York has been appointed matron of the Quincy Hospital by the Board of Trustees, and entered upon her duties this week. Miss Hill is a woman of unusual experience in New York hospitals.

Miss Hill fills the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Grant which was accepted about two months ago.

Fred W. Piercy, a Braintree milk man, was brought into court on complaint of a State milk inspector for selling watered milk. The inspector and state chemist testified that the milk, a sample of which had been taken by the inspector, contained 20 per cent water. A fine of $50 was imposed. An appeal was taken.

The championship tournament of the Presidents Hill Tennis club is nearing completion, with the following results:

C. H. Hallwood vs. C. K. Allen and R. D. Wetherell vs. A. S. Townsend. The winner of the tournament will have the right to challenge A. H. Blanchard, the president of the club.

Judge Avery put his stamp of disapproval on persons operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor when he imposed a fine of $75 and a sentence of ten days in the house of correction on Harley F. Carter of Weymouth for operating an automobile while intoxicated at Weymouth.

The irrepressible Delevante King of Quincy was the guilting spirit of the day, at the outing of the Pilgrim Publicity Association at Bass Point on Wednesday, says 'Post'. He began the fun the day before the steamer "Sightseer" left Otis wharf at 1:30 o'clock, by conducting the members of the party "across the equator," a ceremony they performed amid much noise and laughter under his guidance.

There was a large attendance Wednesday at the exhibition which is being held in the Boston Arena in connection with the convention of the National Retail Dealers' Association. It was a constant moving crowd that was in attendance. That is delegates would steal an hour or so from the meetings at the Hotel Brunswick to visit the exhibition. In addition to this there were many visiting granite men, not members of the association from Quincy and other places.

PUBLIC OPINION.

A Councilman informs the Daily Ledger that but for the emphatic protest of the tax-payers at the Tax Limit hearing this week that the City Council would have adopted an ordinance increasing the $12 limit, possibly to $14. After the feeling manifested at the hearing this will be out of the question. If the Council pays any attention to public opinion, it will also curtail the loan orders of 1913, and in future years use less of the "estimated receipts" in the annual appropriation order.

THE TAX HEARING.

The taxpayers of the city were thoroughly aroused to the situation at the hearing on the "tax limit." Although held in midsummer, many are away on vacations, and on one of the most sultry evenings of the year, the attendance was large. The sentiment was remarkably one-sided, more so than expected. But how could it be otherwise? When an expression of the meeting was invited, everyone arose in opposition to any increase in the tax limit. All seemed to be of one mind, that it was time to call a halt in Quincy's tax rate.

The taxpayers wish that they might also be heard on the debt limit, and some of the special Quincy acts that have been railroaded through the Legislature. The public dock act, the 30-year street improvement act, the water and sewer acts, etc., might meet with a protest equally strong.

Twenty and thirty year loans are too long, particularly when made for current expenses. They require too much for interest. We understand it is a fact that water mains laid in recent years by the city, which have not yet been paid for, are being replaced with larger pipe. Such water and sewer extensions as are now required should be made without special act under the 10-year limit, and many of the so-called improvement loans now made for ten years should be for three or five years.

More important, however, is the use of "receipts." At the meeting of the City Council at which the hearing was held, appropriations were voted to be charged to "estimated receipts of 1913." This is an unknown quantity, and is like riding a free horse, to death.

Every $15,000 of "receipts" appropriated before the tax rate is announced, will cause the tax rate for that year to be $1 higher than it otherwise would be. Because if these receipts are not appropriated, they will be used by the Assessors to reduce the tax levy. Every dollar of receipts therefore counts double.

The City Council of 1913 appropriated so many receipts in the annual budget and gave that the rate of 1913 will be higher. It was possible for the City Council to have reduced the tax rate this year.

GRANITE CONVENTION.

The three days' convention of the National Retail Monumental Dealers' Association came to an end with Thursday afternoon's session. The convention has been a most successful one and the 600 delegates from all parts of the country were all very much pleased with the hospitality that was shown them on all sides.

One of the most important actions at Thursday's meeting was to fix the place for the next convention. There was considerable missionary work done by delegates, who desired to secure the convention for their city and Milwaukee won out. This is the city that made Slitz famous, or rather the city that Slitz made famous, and as it is reported to be a great convention city. There will doubtless be a large attendance.

The principal business Thursday was the election of officers and the following were elected:

President—O. J. Hammell of Atlanta, Ga.

Vice President—Charles J. Hughes of Bridgeport.

Secretary—Frank Mallon of Boston.

Treasurer—T. R. Gaebler of Rockville, Ill.

Board of Managers—F. C. Black of Grand Rapids, Mich., Hugh Larabrook, Pa., and F. R. Stewart of Washington, D. C.

REUNION.

For Thayer academy graduates of more than a score of years ago, Fred Holmes of Plymouth, May Simmons of Wollaston, Stelle Pierce of South Braintree and Helen W. Arnold of Braintree held another reunion Thursday afternoon and evening at the home of the latter, 230 Middle street, Braintree. Mr. and Mrs. Holmes, now of Detroit, Mich., were accompanied by their sons Frederick and John, now in their teens. Mrs. James Kilbrath, nee Pierce was in care of her husband and Mrs. Eben Prescott, nee Arnold, besides her family had as guests during the evening Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Arnold, and Mr. and Mrs. John Emerson Arnold. It is sufficient to say that the reunion of classmates and old acquaintances was very much enjoyed.

BURGLARS AT NANTASKET.

Nantasket cottagers have been receiving the attention of gentleman-burglars that work in the daytime during the absence of the occupants. One of those entered was the cottage occupied by the Manet Club of Quincy. The members usually spend Saturday and Sunday at the cottage, but are seldom there during the week. A recent trip to the cottage resulted in the discovery that clothing and other fixtures valued at $300 had been taken. Every member that left anything hanging in the closets is a loser. The burglary has been reported to the Hull police.

SMALLER BONDS.

It is no test of the popular municipal bond sale idea if there is difficulty in disposing of the securities in denominations of $100 and $1,000. Let $10, $20 or even a $50 denomination be tried and takers will doubtless be found among the working people in all large cities.—Monitor.

TEN YEARS' INCREASE.

The item of $9,526.50 in increase in municipal current expenses in the Assessors' budget, from 1912 to 1913, is small, and is misleading as it does not tell the whole story.

The limit which under the law can be raised by taxation this year is $422,657.43, but the City Council actually appropriated in the annual appropriation order in March, $503,352.00. In other words the Council went to the limit and then took $80,715.00 of the estimated receipts of 1913, which should have been left to the Assessors to reduce the tax levy.

The appropriations since 1903 have been as follows, the middle column being for municipal current expenses, the school, police, fire, street and other departments, and the last column the grand total of all appropriations in the annual order.

Year	Current	Total
1913	$503,352	$901,234
1912	485,903	$84,844
1911	422,676	728,001
1910	404,738	683,357
1909	369,674	645,806
1908	251,812	627,666
1907	341,910	574,201
1906	333,360	566,763
1905	314,114	535,487
1904	307,649	594,514
1903	306,798	566,862

*Included one year loan of $80,000.

First, note the very rapid increase in current expenses. In ten years this increase was $196,554, but it has been most marked in the last four years—$132,678, an average of over $33,000 per year.

Little attention has been given to the grand total column as many of the items are now compulsory. That these items which are not included as current expenses may be better understood, the appropriations are published below in full, cents being omitted:

BONDS COMING DUE.
City debt	$162,675
State improvement debt	7,300
Park debt	2,000
Refunding debt	15,000

INTEREST COMING DUE.
City debt	$27,895
State improvement debt	2,840
Part debt	880
Refunding debt	6,000
Temporary notes	14,000

WATER DEPARTMENT.

To be paid from water receipts of 1913, and taxes to be levied.

Water debt falling due $57,500

Interest falling due 27,092

Maintenance and office expenses 16,450

Care of hydrants 1,000

SEWER DEPARTMENT.

To be paid from sewer assessments and taxes to be levied.

Sewer debt falling due $29,000

Interest falling due 23,296

Clerical 780

Maintenance and office expenses 2,200

Automobiles 620

Total $397,882

Many would regard some of these items as current expenses, especially those for interest. It is only by comparison that the increases will be noted. The items of 1903 are therefore published:

BONDS COMING DUE.
City debt	$70,540
Park debt	1,000

INTEREST COMING DUE.
City debt	$16,776
Par debt	1,640
Temporary loans	7,000

Total $200,062

SEWER DEPARTMENT.

Water debt falling due 12,800

Interest falling due 15,219

Maintenance 1,500

WANT SCHOOL SITE.

The matter of a school house location for Squantum will come up at the next regular meeting of the Squantum Improvement Association Tuesday evening and it is expected that there will be a large attendance. The association wishes to have the school house built well in hand so that with the next City Council an order can be presented for the buying of a schoolhouse site. It is considered that it will be money in the pockets of Quincy taxpayers to select a site before there is an increase in the price of land and before Squantum is so built up that there will not be as good a location as can now be obtained.

ENTERTAINED BY MR. GRAHAM.

John R. Graham, the "live wire" of Maine, entertained his former associates, the members of the Rapid Transit Committee of the Massachusetts Legislature of 1883 and others on Tuesday and Wednesday. Mr. Graham, a former resident of Quincy is now president of the Bangor Electric Street Railway Co.

Frederick H. Smith and Clarence Pierce, who were associated with Mr. Graham when he was president of the Quincy and Boston Street Railway Co. in Boston, were among those present. Both stated that they had the most enjoyable time of their lives, and that Mr. Graham never conducted a merrier party through the state of Maine.

The party left the North station on Tuesday at 1:15, in a special Pullman and arrived at Augusta at 7 o'clock.

A special car transported the guest to the Augusta House, where a sumptuous banquet was served. The guests of the evening were Gov. Haines of Maine and Mayor Newbury of Augusta.

F. P. Bennett of the 1893 ways and means committee was toasts master.

After the party had fraternized with the distinguished guests they retired at the Augusta House.

At 7 o'clock Wednesday morning an electric parlor car stopped opposite the hotel and the party boarded it for a wedding trip in New Hampshire.

Before going to their future residence at Burlington, Vt., they will visit the Canadian Northwest, was obliged to stop at the home of the latter, 230 Middle street, Braintree.

Following the banquet there was a meeting of the Squantum Improvement Association, as arranged by Mr. Graham, was carried out to the letter and could not have been improved upon. His guests accorded him one of the most enthusiastic farewells ever given a friend as they steamed out of the station.

LOCOMOTIVE TOPPLED OVER.

Edward M. Sweeney was arrested by the Dorchester police at Dorchester on Saturday, for Capt. McKay of the Quincy police, by whom he was wanted on a warrant charging him with breaking and entering the property of Arthur Ballou on Roger street Thursday morning.

The wedding took place on the lawn at 3 P. M., the Rev. John P. Trowbridge of the Christian Union church, at West Groton, officiating.

The bride's gown was white messina.

The bride's veil was white lace, and the carried bride's roses.

The bride's shoes were white French.

Notes and Comments.

A new process by which cotton was turned into an almost perfect imitation of silk was demonstrated in New York a few days since. Soon we shall see advertised "all silk goods" which are really made from cotton as much as "real woolen" is made of shoddy or cotton.—Salen news.

—A contemporary complains that science has not yet found a way to keep a horse from getting his tail over the lines. Oh, yes, it has. It dispenses with the lines, dispenses with the tail and substitutes a gasoline engine and a honk.—Haverhill Gazette.

—That they still have some sense left on the Pacific coast when it comes to the Japanese question is shown by the action of a board of censors of moving pictures in Seattle in forbidding the exhibition of a film depicting an imaginary war between the United States and Japan in 1920. There could have been but one object in such a picture and that to pander to the prejudices of the rabid anti-Japs. It would serve to stir up a feeling that is already strong enough and might be productive of real trouble.—Taunton Herald.

—It seems strange that businessmen will carry large amounts of money with them or that wealthy people will have in their house fortunes in jewels to attract thieves. The business man can just as well make all his payments by check or draft, and the person with money enough to sport jewels worth $75,000 or $100,000 can well afford to have an armed guard to protect them.—Waltham Free Press.

—By the two orders recently issued Postmaster-General Burleson further simplifies the postage stamp system in reducing the number of stamps issued by the government by seventeen. No more of the ten-cent registry stamps and parcel-post stamps will be printed. When the existing supplies of them are exhausted the use of all other ordinary stamps will be discontinued except for special-delivery and postal-savings-bank purposes. A uniform postage-stamp system will prove a further great convenience to the public.

—The appointment of Hon. John N. Cole to the Commission on Economy and Efficiency is an excellent one. Of course people will contest this selection, but the governor with the fact that Mr. Cole supports Foss for a term. But it does not obliterate the fact that the ex-speaker is a good fellow and a capable business man. He must be for he has been successful in publishing a country newspaper.—Salem News.

—Quincy for a third summer season is proudly claiming to be a flyless city, and the credit is given to a woman Dr. Jean Dawson of Cleveland Normal School faculty. It was she who began the work of exterminating the pests by teaching her biology class to trap them before they had a chance to lay eggs, and the fly-trap provided by the Board of Health is the close companion of the garbage house near the city stables had collapsed and that the garbage collected was exposed to the weather, and asked an appropriation for a new garbage house.

Councilman Thompson then offered an order appropriating $1,000 for a new garbage house charging the same to the estimated receipts of 1913. Read and referred to the Finance Committee.

APPOINTMENTS.

A communication was received from the Mayor appointing Thomas H. Monahan a weigher of coal and a measurer of wood, and George E. Kramer a special constable on the premises of John Stuart. Confirmed.

—The hour for the public hearing had now been reached but in order that the other business might be transacted on motion of Councilman Bryant the hearing was postponed for five minutes.

NEW GARBAGE HOUSE.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the City Collector relative to the claim of Catherine Buckley. The communication stated that a verdict for the city had been rendered but an expense of $116 had been incurred.

Councilman Hadlock offered an order appropriating $116 for the expenses of the suit charging the same to estimated receipts of 1913. Read and referred to Finance Committee.

TAX LIMIT.

The public hearing on the tax limit was then held.

H. C. Lowe asked for the reading of the law that it might be known by the court just what it was. President Whiton then read the section of law relative to fixing the tax limit, as published in the Daily Ledger.

Fred F. Green asked if the affirmative was to be heard first and those opposed next. President Whiton said that any one who desired to be heard would be given an opportunity to speak pro or con.

Mr. Green then wanted to know if the City Collector had furnished an opinion making the Mayor and other officials immune from being questioned.

There were reasons why the limit should not be raised, it was said.

PUT UNDER BONDS.

Enough evidence was submitted to Judge Avery on Tuesday in the case of Vincenzo Quintillo, charged with threatening to commit assault and battery, to fine him $25 and place him under $300 bonds to keep the peace for three months. He was taken into custody at the Quincy station Monday noon at the point of a revolver by Peter Kojo who marched him to officer Canavan in City Square. Both men were arrested. Kojo pleaded not guilty to carrying a revolver without a license and the case was dismissed.

TAX LIMIT HEARING.

PRESIDENT HAMILTON.

A representative gathering of citizens was present at the special meeting of the City Council Monday evening. Aside from the general matters of business in the call, the interest centered in the public hearing on the "tax limit." The meeting was unanimous against increasing the limit from what it now is, namely $12 per $1,000, based on an average valuation for the three previous years.

The ruling of City Collector McLean, making it impossible to ask questions of the Mayor or city officials doubtless kept the meeting within bounds. Had they been allowed to ask questions the meeting would have been turned into a political hot bed by disgruntled politicians looking for an opportunity to get a rap at the administration.

McKenney has called the hottest political city outside of Boston, and it would not be wondered who was Mayor there would have been the same amount of fireworks. President Whiton promptly checked all attempts to get outside of the question in hand and the speakers were informed that they must keep strictly to the question.

JURORS DRAWN.

The first business on the call was to draw jurors, and the Mayor, City Clerk and Councilman Beeman drew the following Charles C. Foster, Edward Finn, Peter Morton, Frank Hobart, Clarence A. Rogers and Felix Favorite.

DELCEVAR KING.

D. King, representing the Quincy Real Estate Trust, told how his tax bill had been increasing and felt that in increase would have a tendency to increase the tax rate. In answer to questions by Councilman Cunningham he said that he did not know just how it would increase the rate but he thought that it would have a tendency to increase it. While the present rate was not an absolute check it had a tendency to check the increase.

Mr. Kenyon replied that it was in the nature of a permanent improvement and would last for 25 years but he did not see why it should be paid for immediately.

STREET PERMITS.

The Committee on Ordinances reported an order relative to speaking in the public streets and places, and relative to parades, regulating the same and providing that no public speaking or parades shall be held without a permit in writing from the Mayor. It also provides that the hour of the speaker or parade shall be stated in the permit, and if it is not, the route of the same.

ELECTION OFFICERS.

The list of election officers forwarded to the Council at the special meeting last week were confirmed.

TELEPHONE WIRES.

Petitions were received from the Telephone Company for attachments on West Street, Bradford, Hamilton, Holmes, Safford, Payne and Vassal Street, Bates Avenue, Billings Road and West Elm Avenue and for a relocation for one pole on Sea Street. Granted.

BUCKLEY CLAIM.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the City Collector relative to the claim of Catherine Buckley. The communication stated that a verdict for the city had been rendered but an expense of $116 had been incurred.

BOARD OF HEALTH HEARINGS.

Monday night was a busy one for the Board of Health, for they had three hearings scheduled. The first hearing was in regard to the brook that runs through the Ward Three playground, and about which there has been more or less complaint because of the sediment which comes from the rusty water from the polishing mills and which clogs up the brook.

The hearing on this matter was given to the Granite Manufacturers and was quite largely attended. After more or less discussion it was agreed that the City Engineer should devise some plan whereby the water might be taken care of, or filtered before entering the brook.

THE NEXT MEETING WAS IN REGARD TO THE COMPLAINT ABOUT THE PIGEONS ON KENT STREET.

The complaint was that the pigeons were a nuisance. This hearing was also largely attended and a peaceful solution was reached by Mrs. Kelly agreeing to keep her pigeons confined.

These hearings were in progress there was a large delegation of Quincy residents waiting to be heard on the mosquito nuisance.

Most of the residents took their opportunity to express the views of the residents.

The next hearing was to some way to drain the wet and soggy marsh which is a breeding place for the mosquito which have become a great pest.

The stings of the Quinault mosquito are said to be unusually penetrating. Aside from that they were known to be the source of contamination and dangerous to public health.

After some discussion it was practically agreed that the best thing to do was to petition the legislature for relief, which the residents of Quincy decided to do. They however desired that the bill should be drawn up in proper form by the City Collector.

There was another hearing scheduled but which was not reached. This was in regard to the nuisance that is said to exist in the rear of the Quincy Mansion school.

PUT UNDER BONDS.

Enough evidence was submitted to Judge Avery on Tuesday in the case of Vincenzo Quintillo, charged with threatening to commit assault and battery, to fine him $25 and place him under $300 bonds to keep the peace for three months. ## ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

Bert Brady, aged 25, of Natick, is at the police station for safe keeping following an attempt to commit suicide in the Bay View House on Washington street, Monday night. He will be detained for observation.

Brady is in the house he greets visitors from the closed room and on entering found Brady, semi-conscious having swallowed an ounce of iodine. Dr. Bushnell was called and removed the poison with a stomach pump. Brady said that until a few days ago he had been employed at the Fore River yards.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

Bert Brady, aged 25, of Natick, is at the police station for safe keeping following an attempt to commit suicide in the Bay View House on Washington street, Monday night. He will be detained for observation.

Brady is in the house he greets visitors from the closed room and on entering found Brady, semi-conscious having swallowed an ounce of iodine. Dr. Bushnell was called and removed the poison with a stomach pump. Brady said that until a few days ago he had been employed at the Fore River yards.

THE OLD STONE BASIN.
Susan Coolidge.

In the heart of the busy city,
In the scorching noon-tide heat,
A sound of bubbling water
Falls on the dip of the street.

It falls in an old stone basin,
And over the cool, wet brink
The heads of the thirsty horses
Each moment are stretched to drink.

As the horses come and go,
The "Gift of Three Little Sisters"
Is read on the stone below.

Ah! beasts are not taught letters;
They know no alphabet;
And never a horse in all these
Has read the words; and yet

I think that each thirsty creature
Who stops to drink by the way,
Or the sisters must pay.

Years have gone by since busy hands
Wrought at the basin's stone—
The kindly little sisters
Are all to women grown.

I do not know their home or fate,
Or where they bear to men,
But the freshness of that precious
Is just as fresh as then.

And all life long, and after life,
They must the horses be
For the cup of water poured by them
When they were children three.

A SATISFACTORY FINALE.

"Madame Thurston is coming to this very town on the twenty-third! I just saw the men pasting signs up on the bill-boards!" Fannie made her announcement breathlessly, as if the good news had been hard to keep.

"It does spoil things," agreed Luella, beating up the pillows for Miss Priscilla's bed. "She's so queer and unpleasant it won't be half as much fun to prepare and anticipate with her hard grey eyes on us, as if they were only mother."

"Yes, and afterward, when we want to talk over with the joy of it she should have picked out the very one of the fifty-two weeks in this year, she should be invited to come to us."

"It does spoil things," agreed Luella, beating up the pillows for Miss

SCHOOLHOUSES READY.

The new Adams Schoolhouse, not be ready for occupancy until the last of September, according to Fred E. Tupper, commissioner of public works. All other buildings have been inspected and the necessary carpenter work done on the creation. Work has been done on the Cranach, Massachusetts Field and Washington schools, particularly on the outside trimmings, which have been painted. The roofs of several of the buildings have been repaired. A bolt of lightning, which struck the chimney on the High school caused a little work on that building.

This year the city has been extremely fortunate in having none of its heating apparatus or appliances condemned. They received an internal inspection however and are in good order. Last year three boilers were removed because they could not pass the state inspection.

There are 1500 feet of sewer main being constructed up Madison and Abigail avenues which must be connected with the new Adams school before its opening. The work was not commenced until the appropriation was made and this caused a delay of fully three weeks. The beds of the streets are practically solid rock and considerable blasting has been done.

The approaches to the building are being put in good condition and a gang of men are at work on Abigail avenue. The material taken off the street is carried to the Adams school grounds where it is being used on the western side which is about 11 feet above grade.

The furniture for the new building has been purchased and some of it has arrived and is ready for installation. The interior has been completed and the building presents an inviting appearance.

The School Committee has advised Mr. Tupper that the old Adams school will be used after the new building is occupied and he has made the necessary repairs. The building will be used next week for the regular Adams school pupils and later for an industrial school.

QUINCY POINT

Walter H. Redding and daughter, Mrs. Harry L. Whiston have returned to their camp "Howlinghurst," Long pond, Plymouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Pollard have closed their cottage at Round pond, Maine, and returned Thursday to their home on Edison street.

Acadia, Prospect Hill, Franklin and Winter Hill lodges, Knights of Pythias, of Somerville, held their annual outing at New Downton Landing, North Weymouth, Saturday. Base ball and athletic events comprised the program.

Roland H. Newcomb of Winter street is home from New Hampshire where he spent his annual vacation.

Miss Josephine Curran, the telephone operator at the River office, is in New York, where she is passing her vacation as the guest of relatives.

Miss Charlotte Donovan of Chubbs street who was successfully operated on at the Quincy City Hospital about six weeks ago, is at her home on Chubbs street where she is steadily improving.

Roy Jay of 16 Claremont avenue, and Olive E. Labelle of Lawrence avenue were married at Weymouth on Saturday by Rev. Chester J. Underhill.

Miss Catherine Regan and family of North Easton have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Avery of Watson terrace the past week.

Alexander Shirley of South street, Quincy Point, devotes some spare time to a fair sized garden. This week one potato vine yielded forty pounds of various sizes, of a Scotch variety. Next, Capt. Ralph Thomas brought the new steam trolley, built at Quincy, in from her maiden trip to the South Channel, Boston, on Thursday, with nearly 30,000 pounds of fresh, mixed groundfish in the hold as the result of six day's fishing. The new trolley worked well, Capt. Thomas reported. Her sister ship, the Wave, went out on her trial trip Wednesday and will soon be in commission, while the third of the new trio, the Breaker, will make her trials very shortly.

Rev. A. R. Atwood, one of the most successful pastors the Washington Street Congregational church at Quincy Point ever had, is now in a much larger field as will be seen by the following letter issued Aug. 28 by the Synod of Michigan to the pastors, superintendents and Sabbath School workers of the Synod of Michigan:

Dear Brethren.—It is with great pleasure that your Synodical Committee of Home Missions and Sabbath School Work announces that, in connection with our Board of Publication and Sabbath School Work, the Rev. and Alfred Ray Atwood, M. A., has been elected Educational Superintendent of Sabbath School work for the Synod of Michigan. He will enter upon his duties September first.

Rev. Mr. Atwood resigned his pastorate in Quincy to go to Paterson, N. J. a few years ago.

EAGLES TO HAVE CLAMBAKE.

Final arrangements for the annual clamboke at Squantum were made at the meeting of John Adams aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, Wednesday evening. An invitation has been extended to every political candidate running for office in Quincy. William McKewin leaves Sunday for Providence to meet Bros. Kilroy and Welch who will make their bake.

Fourteen candidates were initiated and eight applications were received. The work was done by the degree team of the aerie. Visitors were present from Hingham, Brockton and Hyde Park.

The cup aerie for the aerie its float on Fourth of July was presented to the aerie and accepted by President John Feeley. All the members expressed themselves as being highly pleased with it. It was voted to extend the use of the North Dakota float to the Brockton aerie for use in the Columbus Day parade in that city.

The program for the aerie's bake is long and includes base ball games, athletic events and tug of war matches between Hyde Park and Brockton aeries and a team of married and single men.

Pat Crowe proposes when he gets out of the workshop to get a new base ball. The services were largely attended and were of a simple nature. Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson of the First church officiated. The burial was at Mt. Wadsworth cemetery. There was a profusion of beautiful flowers.

THE BOY AND DIRT.

As vacation days pass, the small boy seems more and more of a little savage. The mothers start out with hopes to keep them spruced and starched. But boy nature has an affinity for dirt.

Put a clean suit on an active boy, and turn him loose, the chances are that within an hour he has been rolling or tumbling. After a few days' struggle, the maternal standard of cleanliness becomes much more elastic. The average boy gang by the last of August is reduced to a dull uniformity of soiled overalls and khaki.

The last days of vacation are predominantly to a general period of boy cleaning. The new clothes purchased at this season give the youngster some slight pleasure, which is more than offset by the certainty of scrubbings to come. The prospective regular washings and hair brushings perhaps seem even more harassing to the little barbarians than the toll of the school room.

STYLE AND EXERCISE.

Although the newspaper man may not be competent to pass on women's styles, he will venture the remark that prevailing fashions as seen at the summer resorts are unsuited to healthful exercise. Many men are saying that formerly their wives or women friends could keep well up with them on active mountain or country walks. Now the girls patter along with abbreviated steps in their narrow skirts. To keep them up never twice as many steps. That leads to a nervous pace, so most women relax to a slower and ineffective gait.

The white shoe fad also is seen not merely in the decorative costumes of the hotel girls, but on rough tramps. The white shoe girl picking her way from stone to rock and out of the way of dirt or mud, seems as unsuited to her position as if she were trying to sweep the house in an evening gown.

EVENING SCHOOLS.

Evening schools open Monday, Oct. 6. The schools for foreigners will be conducted at the Adams and Willard and the drawing, commercial and civil service classes will be held at the High school.

At High school the industrial classes will be blueprint, reading and drawing for machinists and gear cutters, joiner drawing and courses for model loft workers, electricians and sewing and dressmaking.

At the Adams school will be taught drawing estimates for plumbers, sheet metal design and development, hosiery course for men and third class engineers, monumental design and lettering for granite cutters.

Registration will take place the evenings of the week beginning Sept. 30 for the Industrial Classes. Native Italian and Finnish teachers will be employed in the common evening schools.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

SOUTH QUINCY

PLAYGROUND FESTIVAL.

PLAYGROUND WINNERS.

RETURN OF PASTOR.

NEW SCHOOL LOT.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

BOOTH—DUNN.

The School Committee held their regular meeting Tuesday evening and made arrangements for the opening of schools next Tuesday. Dr. Curtis of Wollaston was not present.

The death of Henry L. Upton, principal of the Willard School was announced and a letter of sympathy was sent to Mrs. Upton.

RESIGNATIONS.

Several resignations were accepted.

Ivan G. Smith, submaster at the High school will go to Meridian High school Meridian Conn. Miss Elizabeth G. Crane will devote her attention to executive work and Edgar C. Parkinson, the popular commercial teacher at High school goes to Jersey City High School, Jersey City, N. J.

Miss Emma G. Carlton of the Gridley Bryant and Miss Irene Rolley, master's assistant at the Branch, both resign to marry.

Miss Agnes A. Fisher, master's assistant at the Wollaston school resigned to take up work at Simmons' College.

The following were granted leave of absence: Mary F. Sampson of the Washington school and Ruth Gurdy of the Lincoln school.

NEW TEACHERS.

The teachers who will fill the vacancies at the High school were appointed and are Sallie F. Dawes who comes from Springfield High school to head the English department; Harry W. French, a former teacher in Davis and Elkins College, head of the commercial department; Miss Alice A. Training school; Laura S. Clark, teacher in English from Lexington High school.

Roland Linfield, a Fore River draftsman was appointed assistant in the Independent Industrial school. Miss Grace Warshaw, master's school assistant at the Montclair school was transferred to a similar position at the Wollaston School; and Miss Lucy L. Heininger was appointed to succeed her at the Montclair.

Miss Gladys Leighton of Putney, Vt. was appointed to the teacher corps at the Lincoln school.

The opening of the Industrial school will be Sept. 15.

PLAYGROUNDS.

Evening schools open Monday, Oct. 6. The schools for foreigners will be conducted at the Adams and Willard and the drawing, commercial and civil service classes will be held at the High school.

The funeral of Loughlin McDonald, who died suddenly in South Quincy on Saturday, was held from the Hall of Mourning rooms Monday afternoon. Services were conducted by John E. Sprague of the First Church in Christ, Scientist, and the burial was in Mt. Wollaston cemetery. A delegation was present from Quincy Loyal Orange Lodge of which the deceased was a member. There were many floral tributes.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Friberg observed the 25th anniversary of their wedding Saturday evening by entertaining a large number of friends at their home on Jackson street. Oscar Frisk, toastmaster of the evening, presented the first division of the mace.

The girls of Ward Two performed their portion of the afternoon in a fine manner particularly the tots that averaged a baby polka that called for a general outburst from the 500 spectators present. The Junior girls danced the Highland Schottische as though they had done it for years and the Senior girls surprised all by dancing even given on the playground by successfully carrying out the intricate steps of the Irish lit.

The athletic program followed, after which came the presentation of prizes. The windup was a grand peanut scramble in which every child of the grounds joined and several bushels were scattered into lively bunches and then hollered for more.

A moving picture machine and an operator was on the field all afternoon and the feature parts of the program were photographed and will be shown later at the Kincaide theatre. During the afternoon the swings, slides, sand boxes, etc., were in constant use.

The summary of the athletic games follows:

Notes and Comments.

—Bananas are not raised in this country and there can be no competition in them. Would you not say therefore that the astute framers of the new tariff who put a duty on them of 5 cents a bunch expect that the tax would come out of the earnings of the United Fruit? Was not certainly a neophyte at the business?—Waltham Free Press.

—Now it is the ugly, defacing landscape signs that must go. An organization has been formed to "fight" them. Among other things, the members will refuse to purchase any goods thus advertised. In fact a good many persons have been doing that for some time past.—Salem News.

—Nearly a half-century ago, George Thorin, then a dashing young soldier in the First Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry, was robbed of $900 while in camp at Bunker Hill, Maryland. He had sent the money to his parents in Boston. You know Representative Dwyer of Weymouth opposed my bill which was to reduce the cost in his town and the people did not want it cheaper.

—Coming to the matter I am willing to take my political career on. Mr. LaBrecque, Mr. Noonan and myself went to Wollaston. Representative Leslie and myself were invited to the platform, and I was invited to speak. After touching on cheaper gas and the elimination of grade crossings, I made the statement, and this is the truth and the only truth, "you no doubt will be interested in my duties in the Senate. To me political life has been a great disappointment. When you go up there for bills there is a strong lobby and there are many opportunities around a bill if you desire to take advantage of them."

—Mr. McDevitt then told of his conversations in the corridor with a man who subsequently told him there was $300 in it if he would for a certain bill, but emphatically stated Monday night that he wanted to deny that he used the words "Boston Democrat."

—He then spoke of going to a newspaper office where he told Mr. LaBrecque that he had not used the words "Boston Democrat" and cautioned him not to say he did. I went downstairs and a few moments afterward Mr. Noonan came down and told me the game was up, as Mr. LaBrecque had used the words "Boston Democrat."

—He then spoke of going to a newspaper office where he told Mr. LaBrecque that he had not used the words "Boston Democrat" and cautioned him not to say he did. I went downstairs and a few moments afterward Mr. Noonan came down and told me the game was up, as Mr. LaBrecque had used the words "Boston Democrat."

—The next morning, after the report had appeared in the Boston paper, Senator Mac Lane came to me and told me he was a lawyer, and that he would fix it, if I would ask him to strike his right hand, and I would tell him all. He replied that as a lawyer there could be no violation of confidence, and I repeated my story.

—Then Senator Horgan came running to me and said "Buckley has been to me and said 'Buckley has been to me and is a complete wreck, and if you mention his name, he will die.' Senators Mack and Horgan both appealed to me to save the man, and in the charity of my heart I offered to protect him to the best of my ability. We prepared a statement, and I submitted it, and the first one to go back on his word was President Greenwood.

—Questions were hurled at me by him and others, and I declared I had been double-crossed. Senator Timilty told me to treat the matter as a joke and I replied it was no joke, and that I couldn't do as he could, out in his ward and send around 75 or so barrels of beer and fix things up. It resulted that I would not apologize.

—After I confided in Senator Mack he was not man enough to register as my counsel. Then John McAnarney appeared and I told him the story, and he said he could not advise me legally because he was a friend of Buckley's. "Jim" Vahey stood by when I was being questioned and did not try to steady me at any time.

—After some skirmishing the matter was fixed up, and the frame-up was that Senator Buckley should come into the committee and say that he was the man, but that he had heard I was a serious man and that there was no bill I tried to bribe me on. I was to let it go at that. I refused to do this.

—I sacrificed my office and have not yet apologized. The state lobby is bound to beat me at the primaries. I have confidence in me, you voters, and my friends. There are men who will leave my camp and will say I ought to have taken the bribe, but with me there is no friendship where there is trust. I care not how much they are against me. They are treated and fined by the press. In the evening, by request, he related his impressions of the great Middle West. He told of the great achievements, its big business enterprises and its future. The new American would not be a Pilgrim or a Puritan, a New Englander or a Southerner, but would combine the traits of the German and all the other races, for all were to be found in Chicago. It was at the same time the best city and the wickedest city, and while he was an optimist, he sometimes was a pessimist of the future. There was great need of money and men to carry on religious work.

—At the close of both services Dr. Hardy held informal receptions and was greeted by hundred of his former parishioners. While in Quincy he was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Theophilus King of Adams street.

—As a matter of ordinary justice it may be said that many automobile accidents are attributable to the carelessness of the pedestrian. No matter what the vehicle is, the pedestrian is under a moral and legal obligation to avoid contributory carelessness. It is almost an act of criminality for parents to allow their young children to run in and play in the roadways of the streets.—Waltham Free Press.

—The Manchester, N. H., Union says that the word "aged" is much over-worked by reporters; they called Barnum, the gate keeper at Mattawan, as "aged" because he is 50.

—Another hard worked word in the press is "scores." Watch your paper and see if you do not find it nearly every day; often twice or more in one issue. "Scores" wounded, "scores killed," "scores drowned," "scores frightened," "scores shamed up," and so on.—Salem.

—A city to grow must advertise. We know of no better way to show progress than through good roads. It naturally follows that schools, churches and all matters pertaining to the city government are of a high order. Let us not lag while other towns and cities are using good roads and great "white ways" to attract homeowners.—Woburn Times.

—There is no getting away from this fact: If we eat the real we can't have the beef. Moreover, veal is a luxury and beef is a necessity. If we insist on trading the necessities of life for its luxuries we must expect to pay the penalty. Veal isn't good eating anyway. It is hard to digest and lacks the nutritive qualities of nature meat. Besides most of the calves are killed too young. As long as the consumers demand the beef will be full of McDevitts. I can look every married woman and every single girl straight in the eye and any one that attacks my moral character in this campaign be it through the newspapers or otherwise, I will put him before the barbers for it.

—The result when President Wilson is interviewed seems to be that the reporters talk very freely.

—Will the summer girl's engagement last as long as her coat of tan?

TRIES TO EXPLAIN.

John J. McDevitt, who accepted suspension rather than apologize to the Senate for unproven charges made early in the spring opened his campaign for vindication in his home ward Monday evening. He spoke from an open wagon at Cross and Copeland streets to about 300 people. Representative John Murphy of South Boston preceded him and Daniel Corcoran, coun-cilmian from Ward Four, presided.

Mr. McDevitt made a lengthy speech.

He said, "this I presume is the most important night in my life.

In the past six months there has been a good deal of talk.

From my lips shall fall

the truth and there may be a torment rage in the state but I have good counsel and they demand that I speak out and spare no one. I urged those present to use Messrs. Shea and Murray, his opponents, respectfully when they appeared in the ward.

The fight is not between them and me but between the State House lobby and me for the control of the vote of the people of this district. My trouble started before the committee on public lighting. One day I saw a lobbyist of the Citizens' Gas Light Co. of Quincy going to Senator Timilty and Representative Underhill of Somerville, and the thought struck me that both were members of the lighting committee. I went to Timilty and said: "I saw a man talking to you, and if you dare kill my bill I shall show you up on the floor of the Senate." He did not vote for it.

One of my opponents was Underhill, and he made no answer when I told him what I saw. Then the lobby resolved to get me because I was a "bad man" for corporations. When President Hamilton of the Board of Trade saw my gas bill he said he was in favor of cheaper gas but would rather pay $2 for good gas than $0 cents for gas such as is furnished in some parts of Boston. You know Representative Dwyer of Weymouth opposed my bill which was to reduce the cost in his town and the people did not want it cheaper.

Coming to the matter I am willing to take my political career on. Mr. Labrecque, Mr. Noonan and myself went to Wollaston. Representative Leslie and myself were invited to the platform, and I was invited to speak. —A city to grow must advertise. We know of no better way to show progress than through good roads. It naturally follows that schools, churches and all matters pertaining to the city government are of a high order. Let us not lag while other towns and cities are using good roads and great "white ways" to attract homeowners.—Woburn Times.

—There is no getting away from this fact: If we eat the real we can't have the beef. Moreover, veal is a luxury and beef is a necessity. If we insist on trading the necessities of life for its luxuries we must expect to pay the penalty. Veal isn't good eating anyway. It is hard to digest and lacks the nutritive qualities of nature meat. Besides most of the calves are killed too young. As long as the consumers demand the beef will be full of McDevitts. I can look every married woman and every single girl straight in the eye and any one that attacks my moral character in this campaign be it through the newspapers or otherwise, I will put him before the barbers for it.

—The result when President Wilson is interviewed seems to be that the reporters talk very freely.

—Will the summer girl's engagement last as long as her coat of tan?

MAKING SURVEY.

Engineers of the Metropolitan Park commission are making surveys and obtaining options on land for the construction of three boulevards, which will provide connecting links between outside towns and Boston and its suburban districts, says the Monitor.

The work in its initial stage calls for an expenditure of more than $500,000, which has been set aside by the Legislature out of an appropriation of $100,000 for the improvement and laying out of state highways.

Of the three roads now before the engineers the largest is that to be constructed between Columbia road in Boston and Quincy Point.

Peter L. Litchfield, Woburn, and

are the two roads to be constructed.

A JUNE TWILIGHT.

Frances Hodges White.

The summer day is fading slow. From out the purple, gold-rimmed height The twilight drapes its mystic glow. Across the valley's verdant light.

Till all the world in drowsy rest Is hushed to peace and calm anew Above the mountain's towering crest A baby-star shines into view.

And calmly twinkling, in a flight As tranquil as the twilight hour, Sinks down behind the mountain's night. A deep and shrill concert power.

The frogs pipe up the vesper key, And all the air breaks forth in song Of inharmonious harmony. And far and wide, the woods among

The answering note of birds, makes

The air. A lingering shadow falls, Yet darkness tarries on its way. Through pines, the wind soft whis pering calls.

And swaying down the mountain-side It sways and sooths and surging sighs

A sad good-bye to ev'ryone.

The carnival now slowly dies.

When lo! from out the feathered choir There steals a voice that speaks to me

Of all that life and love desire;

As in the twilight, tranquilly.

Or pleading, longings echoing gay Through the wood's fast-fading light.

The heart-thrush sings out the day And ushers in the deep-starred night.

LEA HAD HER TALENT.

Lea came slowly out of the house and sat down in a chair on the plaza. She chose the farthest chair a little around the corner and hidden by the vines. Lea's heart ached, and heartsache did best in solitude.

"I'm the only un-show-offable Quimby there is," she sighed, rocking unashamedly. "Or ever, ever was," she added, as memories and tales of little Quimby aunts and uncles, cousins, and even far-back grand-Quimby's recurred to her.

In the parlor back of the vines someone was playing a stirring march on the piano. It was Barbara—Barby could play beautiful music. Pretty soon somebody would say, "Won't you sing for us, Sylvia?" and Sylvia would sing. Then if she sat there in the veranda rocker long enough, Lea knew she should hear Luther describe with spidery big infections "Horatio at the Bridge" or "The Black Horse and His Rider." He would do it so beautifully—everybody did things, sing things and play things and speak things so beautifully.

"Except me," sighed Lea.

She stopped rocking suddenly and gazed despondingly at her. In her gentle soul, so soul, she ranked a dreadful feeling. Lea had known this kind sent a little soul upward into Lea's throat and made her feel like getting up into the Quimby mother's lap and hiding her face. It was different from the other kind that had been a pridefulness.

Over the plaza were strewn blocks and odd-shaped bits of dissected pictures. Lea got up and went stumbling painfully about picking them up. Jeffy and Mig were so scatterly—and so deaf. How many, many times a day folks had to clear them up, but Jeffy never occurred to them to praise her for it. No one ever said "Won't you clear up for us now, Lea?"

Lea did not remember that it was almost always she who did it. To her order loving little mind things went about out of their places were an offence; she had a way of stooping to pick them up as she went by. It was a beautiful habit, Lea's mother thought.

She was the only one of the Quimby mother's kind sent a little soul upward into Lea's throat and made her feel like getting up into the Quimby mother's lap and hiding her face. There was no more place now in her heart. She had a talent, too! It was a beautiful one! She was a good clear-upper, and they were coming in to kiss her for it. Why, that would be like—clapping. People clapped when Barbara and Sylvia had talents—and Luther.

Lea held her breath and waited in a little moment a clear-upping of happiness. Her small, expectant face was uplifted and ready.

"Bless her!" the Quimby father said, and kissed it softly in the dark.

"Bless her!" whispered the Quimby mother, and kissed it again and again. Mothers are not satisfied with one. Lea felt her smooth cheek against her own, and the happiness grew bigger and bigger. In her heart was a great desire to get up and go downstairs and clear up right now for this dear Quimby mother. But wait till tomorrow—O, wait till tomorrow.

GOFFE STREET AGAIN.

Editor of the Patriot:

Within a few days, notice has been served on residents of Goffe street appointing a public hearing at City hall on Monday evening, Sept. 8, regarding the proposal to change the name of the street.

Our readers may remember that two or three months ago, when the matter was first broached, I published a letter decrying the proposed change, and urging sentimental and other reasons for holding on to the old geographic tradition, though it may be. Charles Francis Adams, in a letter following mine, while making pleasant and polite comments on my article, takes occasion to express strong disbelief in any reasonable foundation for the tradition.

Regarding this tradition I was plainly wrong in calling it "well-founded." In a strict sense no pure tradition can be called well-founded; for when a tradition can be run down and proved true by contemporaneous records, it ceases to be tradition and becomes authentic history. A tradition usually has its origin among an illiterate people, who witness some strange and unusual event which powerfully compels their attention, but which no one has the wit to write down. They do, however, pass the story along from month to month, sometimes through many generations.

I suspect that Mr. Adams does not get much pleasure out of pure tradition of any kind, judging from his playful hint that Goffe Street might have got its name from somebody's darky coffee-chefman! I do not understand, however, that there is any tradition of this kind, well-founded or otherwise; and perhaps at that early period darkies were scarcer than peddlers in this region!

I think that many minds are satisfied to believe that a tradition which is definite and consistent may be held, by its very existence to prove itself in its main features, because it can hardly be conceived how a circumstantial story could become current, and persist through several generations unless there were some germ of original truth in it.

We read that Goffe and Whalley, after their flight from England, came to Boston and were entertained by Gov. Endicott. After Boston became too hot for them they slipped away by some road or other, and made their appearance later in Connecticut and western Massachusetts. It requires no unusual flight of fancy to imagine them beginning their wanderings from Boston by way of Mr. Adams' Old Coast Road down to Old Braintree, and perhaps showing their noses there for a longer shorter period, of course this is a poor short period, but perhaps this regard the tale may be as good as many another which has gained firm foothold in popular belief.

But all argument aside, and granting the regicide tradition to be nothing but a hairy old myth, it has come down to us somehow, and persists in facing us smilingly like a stowaway from an ocean ship. Why not put it to work on the roads, as it were, as some thoughtful person has done on President's hill?

I still believe that the reasons, both sentimental and practical, urged in my former article are good and sufficient.

D. L. F. Chase.

LIBRARY CATALOGUE.

The continuous question asked the Library assistants concerning the use of the card catalogue suggests the publication of the following brief outline of the main principles of the catalogue.

First of all there is just one alphabetical file beginning with "A" and ending with "Z". A book is represented in this alphabet in a number of places. 1st, every book is filed by its author, as, using Jack London's War of the Classes for an example, London, Jack and on this author card is found the full title, the date and place of publication, the illustrations, maps, diagrams, etc.

2nd,—almost every book has a title card; as, War of the Classes.

3d,—non fiction appears under the subject, or subjects, of which the book treats; as in our example, Socialism.

All fiction has a title card. The only places where title cards are omitted, are in non fiction where the title and the subject of a book are identical; or, where the title begins "Life of," "Story of," and similar first words, also, where the title is a personal name, i.e., "Abraham Lincoln" would have no title card under Abraham, but would be filed under Lincoln, Abraham.

In case an author, place, title, and subject begin with the same word, they are filed in this order, person, place, subject, title, i. e.

London, Jack

London, Description, travels, etc.

Tower of London

London and its environs

This is one of the few cases where the alphabet is not followed. Another is in the case of works by and about an author. Here an author by an author is filed alphabetically before the works about him. The latter are filed alphabetically by biographer directly back of his own works.

Another case is in filing history subjects. Here a country's history is filed chronologically by subject, and then alphabetically by author under each subject.

The often maligned cross-references really serve an exceedingly useful purpose. They refer from one of two subjects of practically the same meaning to the other; as, Consumption See Tuberculosis; or, from a large subject to a minor one, and vice versa; as Birds See also Nests, and Nests See also Birds. Then there are references from an author's pseudonym to his real name, and vice versa, and from a woman's maiden name to her married name, if she has written under both, and vice versa, etc. This library uses an author's best known name.

The main things to remember in consulting the cards are, 1st, that there is just one alphabetical file for all books, and 2nd, to go directly to the exact author, title, or subject you want. If you don't find what you are looking for under the subjects you are consulting, glance over the cross reference card filed directly in front of that subject, and see if you don't find a better subject to consult, there.

As some one has expressed it, the aim of the cataloguer is to make the catalogue "an encyclopedic bibliography of the resources of the Library."

Dr. Perley P. Comey of Augusta, Georgia, has been the guest of his cousin, Mrs. Alfred H. Gilson of Lincoln place.

The Albert M. Parkers of President hill have returned from a motor trip of over 700 miles in five states—Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

William H. Lucy of Wollaston and Albert G. Coffin, Jr., of Quincy are members of the Benton young men's Republican organization for the state, and Arthur L. Thomas of Quincy is on the county committee.

Miss Loretta Lowe, whose sudden death by auto accident occurred at Camden, Maine, Saturday was a member of George L. Gill, Rebekah Lodge.

Helen Quinn returned to her home on Woodward avenue Monday after a five weeks' visit to her aunt at Canton, Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. William Morrison and daughter and friends of Washington street enjoyed an outing at Bass Point, Nahant, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Brown of Elm street and party of friends are sojourning at Nova Scotia for two weeks.

Mayo Stone left Sunday with his family for an automobile trip through Maine. He will be gone all of the week.

Miss Elizabeth Faxon of Coddington street left last week with the Appalachian club, on a two weeks' trip to Niagara Falls and down the St. Lawrence.

Miss Avah Gilson of Linden place is being entertained in Springfield at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rice, formerly of this city.

Pastors are requested to send announcements of Sunday services to reach the Daily Ledger office Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Findlay of 117 Upland road are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son on Wednesday, Aug. 27. The little one has been named Robert Stanwood Findlay.

Mr. David Harley and son Gordon of Pawtucket, R. I., have been guests of Miss Sarah Veazie of Granite street, returning to their home Monday by trolley.

Miss Julia E. Underwood is enjoying her usual fall visit to her niece at Taconic hall, North Adams, where she is always cordially welcomed and made the recipient of many pleasant outings.

The base ball team of the Quincy police department was unmercifully walked by the Metropolitan officers, leaders of the league, on the Ward Three playground Thursday. The final score was 16 to 0.

Gordon Adams arrived from Colorado this week for a visit to his parents Mr. and Mrs. Warren W. Adams of Greenleaf street and accompanied them to East Gloucester Tuesday for a few weeks stay at The Rockaway.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. McGue of Upland road, extend their sympathy in the death of Mrs. McGue's mother, Mrs. Margaret Whaley, who died at her home in Neponset, Wednesday morning after a brief illness.

The auditorium of Bethany church will not be ready for occupancy on Sunday but probably will be a week later. The communion service will be postponed until Sept. 14. All services on Sunday will be held in the chapel.

Edward B. Riley, manager of the Quincy Yacht club, returned Saturday in his Ford Runabout from a trip to Montpelier, Vt., covering the distance of 259 miles from 8 A. M. to 10 P. M. in one day without any trouble or mishap of any kind.

Mrs. Russell A. Sears and family who have been passing July and August at East Dennis on the Cape, have returned to their home on Glendale road. Mr. Sears and the sons joined them over the week ends during the summer.

Charles Beverly of Boston, charged with larceny in Quincy was found not guilty by Judge Pratt on Saturday after a series of continuances in which testimony of all kinds figured. The original charge was soliciting without authority for a Boston home. All the parties concerned were colored.

Miss Dorothy Kitson of Park lane is one of the young women of the city who may be depended upon to help along any good cause. She has always taken an interest in the children's garden work and this year she was very helpful to the ladies carrying on the garden work for school children in the garden.

The battleship Vermont is the only Quincy built ship selected for the Mediterranean cruise, leaving Hampton Roads, Oct. 25. Only nine battleships of the Atlantic Fleet will make the Mediterranean cruise this fall and they will not be accompanied by the torpedo flotilla, as the original program proposed.

The temperature Friday noon was 59 degrees which is the coldest day at that hour since June 8. Last year it was not until Sept. 21 that the temperature at noon was as cold as today. Coming so soon after such hot days as Tuesday and Wednesday the change is all the more noticeable. Warmer weather however is promised for Saturday and Sunday.

Friends are interested in the approaching marriage of John J. O'Hara, a New York collector and at present a member of the School Board, and Miss Julie B. Roche. The ceremony will take place Sept. 20 at St. John's Church. Mr. O'Hara is a well known attorney and a popular young man of the city.

Many of our society people, who are members of the Quincy Yacht club, are taking advantage of the pretty dining room at the clubhouse for holding dinner parties. Among those held this week were a small party given by ex-Commodore and Mrs. E. W. Shepard, and Mrs. Frank Fessenden Crane.

There were also small parties by Carl Lane and Mrs. Everett Crane. The dining room at the clubhouse is an ideal spot for dinner parties with a pleasant outlook on the water.

The public schools have reopened. Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Pettengill of Revere road are at Haines Landing Maine for three weeks.

The T. L. Sturtevant of Adams street have returned from a cruise along the Maine coast.

Miss Grace Stancomb leaves today for a few weeks stay at Lincolnville, Maine.

Mrs. Ernest W. Branch is registered at The Maplewood, Holyoke for a few weeks.

The first four grades of the Greenleaf school are open at 32 Linden place Sept. 22.

Charles J. McGilvray leaves this evening for Washington, D. C. on a business trip. He will return next week.

Thomas McGourty, the three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McGourty of 16 Cherry street, was struck and injured by an automobile while at play at Pray and Washington street. Tuesday evening. The machine, a light touring car, is owned by Mrs. Julia A. Scalley of Arlington street, Woburn, and was operated by John Felshaw the chauffeur. The injured boy was carried to the office of Dr. W. J. Middleton in the machine that struck him. He has sustained a severe scalp wound, concussion of the brain and their were slight indications of a fractured skull.

Charles L. Stratford of 24 Hersey place, left Friday for Porto Rico where he has been appointed an instructor of manual training at the large school recently built at San Juan. Tuesday evening Mr. Stratford and Miss Bessie Thayer of North Weymouth announced their engagement and the marriage will take place next spring. Mr. Stratford is a graduate of the Marthorbo high school and the automobile of John Ford at the corner of Bennington street and Independence avenue. Mr. Ford had just received his car from the garage where he had laid out $100 in repairs, and was at work on the car preparatory to going for a ride when it burst into flames. The central station apparatus was summoned by telephone, but before they arrived an alarm was sounded. The firemen hauled the car into the street and extinguished the flames. The body of the car was badly burned and it will probably cost another $100 to put it in shape again. The car however was insured.

Charles J. O'Hanion, 37 years, died yesterday at Whitmore hospital, South Boston. Wednesday afternoon. He was an employee at the Fore River yard and in the course of his work he was badly injured and it will probably cost another $100 to put it in shape again.

Motor boat races will be held under the auspices of the Quincy Yacht club Saturday afternoon which promises to be of unusual interest. There will be three classes. Trial races will take place at 1 o'clock, to be followed by the real thing at 2 P. M.

The annual reunion of the descendants of Pilgrim John Howland of the ship Mayflower was held at Plymouth on Thursday afternoon. It was an auto race between the town of Plymouth and the town of Weymouth.

The police of Los Angeles say the X ray skirt shall not have a look-in in that city.

It is said that a good many government jobs are going begging. Probably this is due to some oversight that requires the office holders to work.

Unfortunately for Evelyn Thaw, it is not supposed that Harry can escape every time she begins a New York engagement.

Castro is not the audacious old Cip of old, whom all knew and loved so well. Too much roll top desk generalship about his last revolution.

The pedestrian should jump with all his might when he sees an automobile or the courts will hold him guilty of contributory negligence.

Many men who complain that they do not get any spiritual uplift from the modern minister's sermon will be found here Sunday morning reading about the Diggs-Caminiti cases.

QUINCY CHORAL SOCIETY.

A recent meeting of the executive board of the Quincy Choral Society, George Sawyer Dunham of Brockton was elected to the conductorship of the society, due to the resignation of Osbourne McConathy, who has taken up his musical interests in Chicago. Mr. Dunham comes most highly recommended, and is a musician of high rank. Besides being organist and choirmaster of the Porter church, Brockton, he conducts the large choral society there, also another in Bridgewater. He reaches several days each week at Lassell Seminary also.

Plans are being formulated for a busy season under Mr. Dunham's conducting in the Quincy Society. The officers for the coming year are: Thomas B. Pollard, president; Wendell H. Luce, vice president; Mrs. Edith Cary Page, secretary; Lawrence H. Allen, treasurer and Frank W. Crane, Miss Sara E. Thomas, Richard Howard, Louis B. Weston and Mrs. Edith Gray Pitts, directors.

AID FOR MOTHERS.

One of the most important new laws of the Legislature of 1913 went into effect Sept. 1, "to provide for suitable aiding mothers with dependent children." While it will entail large expense upon towns, cities and the state, it is thought that it will to a large extent prove a practical solvent of a serious social problem.

There are nine sections in the act known as Chapter 763, printed in the Acts and Resolves providing for visits, supervision, etc. Mrs. Robert E. Park of Wollaston was prominent in securing the passage of the act.

The Boston Transcript says editorially:

"Of course the direction of public philanthropy into such a channel cannot be intelligently judged until it has had a practical trial. The justification of the measures, like all other new measures, must depend on results. If there is any truth in the trite saying that 'the place of the woman in the home' it fits more closely the mother of dependent children than the woman in almost any other relation. She is their natural guardian as well as the enforced provider for their needs. She must neglect one function or the other. It is beyond her powers to meet both responsibilities as they should be met. By the nature of the case she must neglect what in the final equation may be the more important duty. First, they must be fed and clothed, and when these requirements have been met she has little strength and spirit left for training of restraint."

POSSIBLE CANIDATE.

Rumor has it that Representative William J. Leslie is to enter the municipal caucuses as a Republican candidate for the nomination for Mayor.

When seen Wednesday evening and asked a direct question if the rumor was true, Representative Leslie said that it was too early as yet to talk press for an answer he stated that he would not affirm or deny the rumor.

It will be remembered that Mr. Leslie took out papers for the Republican nomination of Representative from the Sixth Norfolk district but at almost the eleventh hour decided that he would not enter the field for the nomination this year, although he could have readily received the nomination as there was no other candidate in the field. Many wondered at that time why it was that he had decided not to run and perhaps the rumor of his becoming a Republican candidate for Mayor may explain the situation.

GOFFE STREET HEARING.

Considerable opposition will probably develop at the public hearing before the City Council next Monday evening on the question of changing the name of Goffe street, to Presidents lane. From what can be heard on the street there seems to be an almost unanimous sentiment against changing the name, one reason being that Quincy already has a street with a similar name as the one proposed, Presidents avenue at South Quincy.

The idea of having more than one street with a similar name is one that the City Council has been trying to avoid for some time, and it causes considerable confusion, especially to strangers.

An instance of this had in the name Madison. There is a Madison street in Atlantic, a Madison avenue at South Quincy and a Madison avenue at Quincy Point, which is confusing even to old residents.

There are also other streets with similar names which might be mentioned, so that the general public think that the fewer streets we have with the same or similar names, the better.

With a Presidents avenue and a Presidents lane, considerable confusion is sure to result. The hearing is set for 8.15 next Monday night and as it looks now there will be a lot of opposition to changing the name of the street.

BOARD OF TRADE.

While there was no general subject assigned for discussion at the meeting of the Board of Trade on Wednesday evening, several matters of local import were taken up and discussed at length. These included the poor telephone service which Quincy subscribers are receiving and the question of a comfort station in City Square.

NEW MEMBERS.

The first business was the election of new members. Nine applications were received and the following were elected: George F. Spooner, Philip Kelley, Albert S. Vail, Gilbert C. Shunk, A. P. Homer, Henry C. Smalley, Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott, William F. Hodgkinson and M. Martin. This brings the membership up to 256 an increase of 118 this year. The Board is now striving for the 400 mark which it is expected will be reached before the end of the year.

CAR SERVICE.

A communication was received from the Boston Transit and the Public Service commissions stating that a two days hearing would be held by the joint commissions Sept. 4 and 5, to hear complaints as to street car and steam car service. This brought up a short discussion on local street car service. Secretary Hall spoke of the poor service on the Quincy Point line, which was a car every half hour. When the Nantasket cars were run there was an extra car but two cars would run ten minutes apart and then there would be a wait of twenty minutes. He believed that Quincy Point was entitled to fifteen minute cars. He also spoke of the service on the Houghs Neck line which he said was worse than before the new turnouts were put in. That there was but little attempt to run cars on schedule time and that they ran at any old time.

After some little discussion the secretary was directed to write the commission complaining of these matters.

TELEPHONE SERVICE.

Chairman Richards of the Public Service committee then spoke of the poor telephone service that Quincy subscribers were getting. As soon as he started the subject several spoke of camouflages that they had experienced. These consisted of long waits for central to answer their calls. Their trouble in getting central to answer the first call had been completed. Of repeatedly being called to the telephone only to be told that they had been called by mistake.

Still another complaint and one that several had experienced was that of being called up late in the afternoon and told by the party calling them that they had tried several times to get them and had been told by the operator that they did not answer. One gentleman said that on one occasion he was close to his telephone all day and not once did the bell ring, but that late in the day he had been told by a friend that the operator had called him several times that the party did not answer. Representative Leslie told of an experience he had in trying to get a party at Norfolk Downs and that it took twenty minutes to get the connection.

After the question had been thoroughly aired the secretary was instructed to communicate with the officials at Milk street and ask that an investigation of the Quincy service should be made.

ELECTRIC LIGHT RATES.

It was announced that a hearing would soon be held by the Gas and Electric Light Commission on the complaint of the Board of Trade, and the secretary was instructed to call a meeting of the committee for Saturday evening that it might prepare its case for presentation to the Commissioners when the hearing was held.

VOTE OF THANKS.

A communication was received from the Granite Manufacturers Association thanking the Board for the entertainment which it had given the granite convention delegates. Placed on file.

QUINCY BILLS.

Representative Leslie told of what had been done in the legislature this year for Quincy. There had been twenty Quincy bills presented and the Board of Trade had two. One of these was the bat house at the Quincy Shore Reservation which had been canned, and the new bridge over Neponset river at Granite avenue which had passed. He also spoke of the appropriation of a million dollars for boulevards of which sum $200,000 was to be expended each year. Quincy would get $100,000 of this sum but when it would be expended was wholly within the scope of the commission.

GRADE CROSSINGS.

A communication was received from the Public Service Commission relative to the abatement of grade crossings in Quincy. The communication stated that if another hearing or conference was held the Board would be notified.

DUST NUISANCE.

The secretary reported that in reply to the request made by the Board to the railroad that the dust nuisance at the Quincy stations be abated by rock ballasting at stations, the railroad said that it was doing all it could in this line. That when the four tracks were built the road would be rock ballasted.

SMOKE NUISANCE.

A communication was received from the Wollaston Improvement Association relative to the smoke nuisance. After some little discussion the secretary was instructed to write the railroad to see what it could do toward eliminating the nuisance.

MOON ISLAND.

C. E. Carlson spoke of the nuisance Squalicum people experienced from Spectacle Island and Moon Island. He said that after long and hard work the Spectacle Island nuisance had been abated, but that the Moon Island nuisance still continued. He asked that the Board of Trade appoint a committee to act with the committee of the Squalicum association in the matter.

It was voted that a committee of five be appointed. The committee to get at the cost of extending the sewer further out into the water and then take it up with the authorities.

COMFORT STATIONS.

Mr. Carlson spoke of the dirty sanitary room at the Neponset station of the street railway. This brought up the question of a comfort station in City Square, and there was a red hot discussion of order that there was no motion before the Board.

The discussion brought out what had been done in the past toward securing this convenience. Alfred Pinel claimed that while it was up to the city, the introduction of a new all-day industrial course, to precede the half-time course. Such a course will give the waiting boys work in accord with their tastes, thereby keeping them in line for a vocation such as they desire. It will relieve the threatened congestion at the High school by utilizing the old Adams school to its full capacity, and it will be less expensive than the High school and more economical for the city because the state will bear half the expense.

"What shall be done with our ex-presidents?" is fast becoming a moment's personal question to Mr. Huerta, of Mexico.

BOARD OF TRADE.

While there was no general subject assigned for discussion at the meeting of the Board of Trade on Wednesday evening, several matters of local import were taken up and discussed at length. These included the poor telephone service which Quincy subscribers are receiving and the question of a comfort station in City Square.

The Board is now striving for the 400 mark which it is expected will be reached before the end of the year.

NOD DIVISION.

It was voted that a committee consisting of J. R. Richards, Alfred Pinel and A. L. Whitman be appointed to present a proposition for a comfort station in City Square to the Board at its next meeting.

PRESENTATION.

The first business was the election of new members. Nine applications were received and the following were elected: George F. Spooner, Philip Kelley, Albert S. Vail, Gilbert C. Shunk, A. P. Homer, Henry C. Smalley, Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott, William F. Hodgkinson and M. Martin. This brings the membership up to 256 an increase of 118 this year. #### REPUBLICAN DINNER.

"Either Poll, Ball or Cut Bait." That was the sentiment expressed in the motto printed on the face of the menu card at the outing of the Ward One Republican Committee Thursday evening at Norteman's pavilion, Houghs Neck. It was a notable gathering in more ways than one, for not only was Col. Everett C. Benton, one of the candidates seeking the Republican nomination for Governor present, but Maurice Kane and C. L. Burrill, the two candidates for State Treasurer; W. S. Kenney candidate for State Secretary; W. R. Thompson, W. H. Thompson and L. F. R. Langdon candidates for Senator; and Walter E. Pierce candidate for Representative to the Fifth district. The other candidates for the nomination for Governor had also been invited but were unable to be present, so that Col. Benton had the field to himself.

In addition to these dignitaries there were present ex-Senator George L. Barnes; Chamber of Commerce leader of 1912; Hon. J. Stevens Cushing, formerly of the Stevens council; Dr. Everett M. Becker, candidate for County Commissioner; C. H. Messinger, the large Boston politician; Hon. John F. Merrill, chairman of the County Commissioners; and Louis A. Flye, a former representative to the legislature.

The conference was for the purpose of talking over the needs of a contagious hospital and the tentative approval of plans submitted. Chairman Teasdale presided and Dr. Fred E. Jones and James Thomas, members of the board were present. Other guests were Dr. W. J. Middleton, Dr. Sidney Hardwick, Dr. William B. Ash, Dr. J. H. Anderson, Dr. N. S. Huntington, Dr. E. H. Bushell, Henry P. Kittredge, Dr. Weston, Dr. F. C. Green, H. M. Whitemore, J. W. Butler, W. H. Cobb, J. E. Green, C. John Johnson, L. Barry, C. J. Hart, A. W. Walker, J. E. Kenley, Dr. A. Nelson, H. E. Glover, A. Thomas, A. M. Carver, Wm. Norteman, O. F. Friske, C. Torn, Wm. Norteman, P. Sevenson, R. E. Winslow, S. H. Hardwick, G. L. T. Turner, O. Carleberg, T. Newton, John O. Hall, Abner Johnson, F. W. Vaughn, N. L. Quest, T. Butler, E. W. Baxter, W. J. Barker, E. C. McConnell, G. T. Magee, F. F. Prescott, C. T. Farnall, G. K. Moorehead, R. Trout, J. M. Michel, M. L. Gatemore, A. Macleod, J. R. S. Reid, L. Noonan, T. B. Davenport, H. D. Cole, E. Norteman, A. Dunham, R. T. Woodbury, E. Rich, J. E. Kenley, H. E. Emerson, H. C. Andrews.

Charles H. Hall was the toastmaster, but Dr. A. H. Gilson, secretary of the committee, was the one to start the ball rolling. Most of the party went down on the special car which left City Square at 5.40. Others followed in later cars or in automobiles to the gall dinner.

WHEN WIVES COME HOME.

It's a different world, from base to dome.
It's a sweater land, when the wives come home.
The girls don't seem like it used to seem.
And the old home smiles in the arms of dream.
When the wives come home, when the wives come home.
It's a different world, from base to dome.—Baltimore Sun.

Notes and Comments.

—An ambitious crowd in New York is planning a building 150 feet higher than the towering Woolworth structure. It is still interesting to know what would happen in such buildings in the event of an explosion ripping parts of the interior to pieces stopping elevators and starting fires.—Brockton Enterprise.

—District nominations are a failure. If there were abuses under the old convention system these abuses have only been intensified under the direct primary. Take the governorship. No worthy but poor man can aspire; it costs too much money to make the campaign. Most of our best men are naturally modest. They do not like to put themselves forward and resort to the cheap demagogic that characterizes our politics at the present time. Nor has it improved the quality of those in public service.—Springfield Union.

—After six years of summer drought the New England farmer is confronted with the problem: To plant, or not to plant? That is the question. Irrigation has settled the problem in the great West, but in the hill country there are difficulties which seem to be almost insurmountable. —Athol Chronicle.

—A Chicago man whose affairs have been taken into the hands of a receiver owes $200,000 and his only assets are 25 dogs. But as they are prizing-winning Airedale puppies they are not without value, though they fall far short of meeting his liabilities.

—There's no doubt of it. Advertising brings home the sweetest, says an exchange, and then states in proof of it that recently a gentleman at New Richmond advertised in the Republican for a girl. The paper hadn't been out an hour before a girl was born to him and his wife. Steady, continuous advertising by the same party would hardly bring results every week—Foxboro Reporter.

—New York city hotel proprietors believe that the number of out-of-town buyers in the city just now is the greatest in the history of the metropolis. This is a pretty good straw indicating how the business wind is blowing. And the fact that many of the great skyscraping hotels are crowded emphasized again the position of New York as a city of transients.—Brockton Enterprise.

—The town of Norwood is having its troubles. During the past few days some of the residents of the South end made a wholesale raid on the two-room school being erected in that section and stole all the lumber which was not nailed down. This district of the town is made up chiefly of foreigners. They apparently valued the lumber more for building shacks than they did for their children in winter when their learning might be increased.—Hingham Journal.

—Weymouth now plans a cleanup day. Great things, but why not have more people getting into the idea of having them every day and in front and behind their own places? It also strikes the man on the fence, that if cities and towns' paid departments did their work with enthusiasm and thoroughness there would not be need of so much action by individuals in so many places.—Brockton Enterprise.

—Mr. Sutherland thinks the wave of Canadian jingoism which secured the defeat of the Reciprocity treaty two years ago is receding fast and that the desire for larger markets for Canadian products will before long lead to a change of government in the Dominion.

POST ISLAND ILLUMINATION.

The annual illumination and float night under the auspices of the Post Island Improvement association was held Saturday evening and Labor Day and was the most successful of any similar celebrations held at this popular summer resort.

The celebration commenced Saturday evening which was float night. The cottages along the shore front were gaily decorated with bunting and Japanese lanterns, the whole shore front being one long row of bright color.

Soon after dark the yachts, belonging to the Post Island Yacht club began to put on their holiday dress of many Japanese lanterns for theade. There were three lines of yachts in the parade, each being drawn by a motor boat. This parade viewed from the shore made a pretty sight. Up and down in front of Post Island went the three lines of decorated yachts passing and repassing in such a manner as to make almost an endless stream.

After the parade the ladies served light refreshments on the lawns in front of the cottages. The prize for the best decorated motor boat and the best line was awarded to J. L. MacLary.

Second, Clinton B. Nash. The prize for the best decorated yacht went to F. W. Nightingale, whose yacht was decorated to represent an old windmill. The second prize went to Arthur Garrod, the third to John Harpan, fourth to Mr. Kimball whose yacht represented Boston light, and the fifth to James Shriner.

The celebration was continued on the hill when there was a series of field and water sports that consumed the greater part of the day. Not the least of these sports was a game of base ball between nine representing the Post Island cottagers and a nine representing the American Shore residents. The Post Island boys won by a score of 8 to 6. The result of the other sports was as follows:

If life seems naught but failure, And burdensome your load, Take a little walk along, And you will find, 'Tis but a little distance.

To go, and you will see, A road as sweet with honey bloom As roads of used-to-be.

Tis but a little distance, Across that runs away Drekka's mill With many a glist'ng and gleam;

It's sunny day in June,

All fragrant with its roses of bloom And sweet with birds at tune.

The road winds upward round the hill, And on past Griffith's farm; And though life's road may lead you far,

You will rest in its charm;

It's sunny day in June,

All fragrant with its roses of bloom And sweet with birds at tune.

SEWAGE NUISANCE.

The campaign of different sections of Quincy to rid the city of the nuisances created by City of Boston sewage emptying into Quincy bay was endorsed by the Squantum Improvement association at its meeting this week and the special committee of the association was instructed to work with the Quincy Board of Trade and the Quincy City Council and other improvement associations which have already appointed committees and other improvement associations which have already appointed committees to secure an abatement of the nuisance in Quincy bay.

John R. Nelson, chairman of the committee, reported that he found public sentiment very strong in favor of securing an immediate abatement of this nuisance. It now seems probable that if the City of Boston and the Metropolitan Sewer commission do not take prompt action that the matter will be taken up in the next Legislature.

Mr. Nelson in his report to the association said:—"At a recent meeting of the committee we had the pleasure of having with us John Q. A. Field, a former city official, ex-Councilman and president of Quincy Savings bank. He is very strongly in favor of the plan, so far as immediate relief from the sewage nuisance.

He was a member of the Quincy board of selectmen when the Moon Island sewage plant was installed.

The City of Boston proceeded without any opposition from Quincy by buying up the land necessary to put in the sewage plant. Mr. Field said he believed that there was no question that this sewer was now a nuisance and that the City of Boston should be compelled to abate it.

"Our committee called upon Mr. Dorr, head of the Boston sewage department and he explained that tests were now being made of treating sewage chemically and that in a small way this had proven a success. Mr. Dorr said that if Boston made a larger appropriation for this purpose that the matter would be taken up of experimenting with 1,000,000 gallons of sewage a day. The matter of ever taking care of all the sewage was one that it would take at least five or six years to put through if the experiments proved a success.

A plan was presented showing that the Metropolitan sewer which has a continuous flow emptied into the bay about three-quarters of a mile from Houghs Neck and that on the incoming tide it was possible for this sewerage to back up into the Adams Shore and Norfolk Domes shores where complaints had been made of the presence of sewage. The plans also showed the Moon Island plant where the sewage is stored in tanks until one hour after high tide when the tanks are emptied on the outgoing tide. In this way little or none of the sewage comes back with the incoming tide but the plant is considered a nuisance that should be abated by having the sewage emptied at least five miles to sea.

CITY HALL OUTING.

The annual outing of the city officials and clerks at City Hall is planned to take place this afternoon. The objective point of the picnickers is Elcock's grove, Braintree City Hall closes at 12 o'clock noon and it will not be long after that hour when the party will be on its way to Braintree. As soon as they arrive the immediate attention of their appetites will be satisfied with a clam chowder.

Frank W. Perry, one of the two old employees of the street railway, added the fifth white stripe to his this week, denoting he had completed his twenty-fifth year of service on the railway.

Col. Henry L. Kincaide has presented the Granite City Club with some souvenirs which he brought from South America. They included a stuffed turtle, alligator and a coocoon.

Horace Hunt, chief of police of Braintree, appeared in Quincy this week operating a Ford automobile which has been furnished for work in connection with the office. Chief Hunt qualified as a chauffeur a week ago and operates the machine.

The annual picnic of the employees at City Hall is announced for this afternoon at Elcock's grove, Braintree.

One of the features of the picnic will be a clam bake, which will be in charge of Mike Shea the well known server at clam bakes.

Russell Bates, son of G. B. Bates, has returned from Halifax, Nova Scotia, where he has been playing with some serious accident and for several days his life was dispensed of. At that time Mr. King was a fireman on the old Boston & Worcester railroad. On one of the outward trips the locomotive left, the iron near Brookline and rolled down the embankment. The engineer, Silas E. Ellis, was immediately killed. Mr. King was buried beneath the debris and when found part of the boiler was resting upon him, the escaping steam which badly scalded him about the arms and body.

Mr. King was finally taken out and removed to a Boston hospital where for seven days his death was momentarily expected. He had a remarkable constitution and with the aid of one of the most noted physicians of Boston at that time he was pulled through and eventually recovered. The date of the accident was Sept. 12, 1848, and has always been firmly fixed in his mind.

An automobile party from Michigan stopped for an hour or more in City Square on Friday while the party of two ladies and two gentlemen visited the old Hancock cemetery. They also took a look at City Hall and one of the gentlemen was heard to remark that that was Quincy granite he did not admire. It however thought the First church had a fine ancient look. From City Square they went to the President Adams birthplace.

Several well known Quincy politicians were numbered among the several hundred supporters of the candidacy of Col. Benton for the Republican nomination for Governor, Saturday afternoon, who were present at the dinner given by the Colonel at the American House, Boston. Among them were noticed, Henry P. Kirtledge, William H. Teasdale, Albert L. Whitman, Arthur W. Newcomb, Daniel Scouler, Jr., Edward J. Sandberg, Charles C. Hearn, Arthur W. Stetson and George T. Westland.

In view of the scarcity of fast pitchers, there is a widespread complaint that the colleges are not doing their work.

The Pennsylvania railroad has put in a lunch counter car. It will be popular, unless the waiter's tip should exceed the cost of the lunch.

Judging by Minister Gamboa's letters, it would be fairly safe to break a number of the Ten Commandments if you could get him for your lawyer.

Mr. Rockefeller wishes he knew the sign language. By signing checks, though, he can already express his feelings somewhat eloquently.

Those North Weymouth grapes must be sour. Certainly not worth the cost of court proceedings or the unpleasant notice.

Success to the Rivadavia which will now be put to severe tests. May she prove both speedy and economical.

It is only a few years ago that a new High schoolhouse was built, and more recently that its capacity was doubled, yet the school and added us the large building with forty or more rooms is taxed to its full capacity. The school housing problem is certainly an ever present one in Quincy.

The gross receipts of the Citizens' Gas Company for gas are now in excess of those of Water department of the city for water, and return a good dividend. The success of the Gas Company has been achieved in a few years, and the city should take a lesson.

Wonder if other streets will stand the historical test to which Goffe street has been put. Probably Gen. Washington never rode over Washington street, and Presidents Garfield and Arthur never knew the honor conferred on them in the City of Presidents. Does any one claim that Wilson street, or Wilson avenue, Wilson court, or Wilson place were named after the present President? Quincy has a Taft street, but somehow Roosevelt has been overlooked.

UP-TO-DATE SHOW WINDOW. Alert merchants are naturally keenly alive to the advantage of a very attractive show window. Old fashioned glass frontage and sloppy and frequently changed displays hurt a business.

Mr. Hayden is survived by a widow, for many years they lived on Sargent lane, of Howard avenue but recently sold their property to the Fore River Ship building Corporation and have moved on Quincy avenue.

Mr. Hayden was a member of Paulsen Post 1, G. A. R., Mr. McFarland, I. O. O. F., George L. and Rebekah Lodge; and Dauphine Lodge, K. of P., of Weymouth.

JOSEPH W. HAYDEN.

Joseph Warren Hayden, who preceded Chief Burrell as chief of police in Quincy, died on Wednesday in his 73rd year, having been sick for several weeks.

Mr. Hayden was born in Quincy, Dec. 10, 1842, and has always made Quincy his home. He has been prominently identified with the affairs of the town and city. Under the town form of government he was a constable for twenty years. At that time constables were elected at the annual town meeting. Since Quincy has been a city, he has been appointed every year. In his younger days he was an enthusiastic fireman and was for several years foreman of the old "Tiger," and of late was a member of the Washington M. French Hose Association whose members are all firemen.

In addition to being constable for all these years he served several years on the permanent police force and was for a number of years chief of Police, having first been appointed to that position by Mayor Hodges in 1894 and serving in that capacity under ex-Mayors Hodges, Adams, Keith and Bryant.

Mr. Hayden was educated in the common schools of Quincy and when old enough to select an occupation he chose that of a stone cutter and became apprenticed to that trade. While the Civil war was in progress he ran away from his employer to enlist in the Union cause. Joining Company M, First Massachusetts Heavy Artillery, he was sent to Washington, D. C., where he was on guard, and the death of his brother, John Harkins carried on the business.

He was a prominent member of the St. John's church and one of the leading members in the Holy Name society. He was a member of Quincy council, Knights of Columbus, and several other religious organizations. Aside from business interests in different sections of the city he was a director in the Quincy Co-operative Bank.

He leaves a widow, four daughters, Sarah, Ethel, Mary and Lester, and three sons Rev. Fr. Howland Harkins and Henry and Everett Harkins. Annie Harkins, another daughter died last spring after a short illness.

Loving friends and clergymen attended the funeral.

A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. John's church by Rev. Fr. John J. Coan. Rev. Fr. John J. Casey was deacon, Rev. Fr. Walter A. Quinlan, sub-deacon, and Rev. Fr. D. F. Lee of Amesbury, master of ceremonies.

Rev. Fr. Howland Harkins of Amesbury, his son, was taken ill at his home Tuesday was able to attend the funeral and sat with the members of the family.

Seated on the altar was Monsignor Ambrose F. Roche of Watertown, Brother Superior Peter and Rev. Fr. J. C. Cashman, both of St. John's Preparatory School of Danvers, Rev. Fr. Andrew J. O'Brien, D. D., professor of Dogmatic Theology at Brighton seminary; Rev. Fr. Joseph Nevin, D. D. of Mt. St. Mary's seminary of Baltimore, Md., Rev. Fr. William H. Fitzpatrick of Milton, Rev. Fr. William R. Riordan of Newton, Rev. Fr. William H. Fitzgerald of Boston. Another feature was an aeronautical flight by Miss Ruth Bancroft Law. She attained an elevation of about 2500 feet and remained in the air fifteen minutes circling the grounds several times.

JOHN HARKINS.

John Harkins, father of Rev. Fr. Howland Harkins and one of the most prominent mason contractors south of Boston, died Sunday evening at the Carney hospital from complications following an operation performed there a week ago.

During the past year Mr. Harkins had not been enjoying the best of health and upon the advice of physicians entered the Carney hospital for observation. The medical staff decided to operate, and this was successfully done a week ago. The complications set in Saturday and he quietly passed away Sunday evening.

John Harkins was born in Ireland and came to this country when a young boy. He settled in Quincy and learned the plastering and masons trade. With the late William Harkins, he formed a partnership and they did a large business in Quincy and surrounding towns. At the death of his brother, John Harkins carried on the business.

He was a prominent member of the St. John's church and one of the leading members in the Holy Name society.

He was a member of Quincy council, Knights of Columbus, and several other religious organizations.

Aside from business interests in different sections of the city he was a director in the Quincy Co-operative Bank.

He leaves a widow, four daughters,

Sarah, Ethel, Mary and Lester, and three sons Rev. Fr. Howland Harkins and Henry and Everett Harkins. Annie Harkins, another daughter died last spring after a short illness.

Loving friends and clergymen attended the funeral.

A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. John's church by Rev. Fr. John J. Coan. Rev. Fr. John J. Casey was deacon, Rev. Fr. Walter A. Quinlan, sub-deacon, and Rev. Fr. D. F. Lee of Amesbury, master of ceremonies.

Rev. Fr. Howland Harkins of Amesbury, his son, was taken ill at his home Tuesday was able to attend the funeral and sat with the members of the family.

Seated on the altar was Monsignor Ambrose F. Roche of Watertown, Brother Superior Peter and Rev. Fr. J. C. Cashman, both of St. John's Preparatory School of Danvers, Rev. Fr. Andrew J. O'Brien, D. D., professor of Dogmatic Theology at Brighton seminary; Rev. Fr. Joseph Nevin, D. D. of Mt. St. Mary's seminary of Baltimore, Md., Rev. Fr. William H. Fitzgerald of Boston. Another feature was an aeronautical flight by Miss Ruth Bancroft Law. She attained an elevation of about 2500 feet and remained in the air fifteen minutes circling the grounds several times.

Yours truly, James L. Edwards.

—Secretary of the Navy Daniels naturally and properly objects to having a criminal allowed to escape a jail sentence on the understanding that they will enlist in the navy. He thinks the courts could be in better business than in making an effort to break down the morals of an essential branch of our national police. It would seem as though a judge in sentencing any criminal should carefully consider the effect of that sentence on society in general.—Waltham Free Press.

—A New York paper publishes a Carlsbad cablegram indicating the remarkable growth of the use of American-made automobiles in Europe. Five years ago the American car was rarely seen in Europe. Now automobile touring on the Continent is increasing to a remarkable extent, and the American machine is more than holding its own. On the day before the dispatch, it was stated, nearly one-third of the automobiles which filled two of the leading garages in Carlsbad were of American manufacture. More than $6,000,000 worth of American automobiles were imported by European countries last year, England, Germany, France and Italy leading in the purchase of these machines in the order named.—Taunton Herald.

—A great many people, who have looked upon Prof. G. Stanley Hall of Worcester as almost a seer or prophet in matters educational, will perhaps be pained by his recent statement that "the rod in school furnishes the best punishment to the unruly child, but if used the teacher must flag when in the full flood of righteous indignation; she should not wait until her anger has cooled." Many people will disagree with the eminent doctor in the last part of the statement, but there is no getting away from the fact that there are some children upon whom no other correction seems to have such good influence as an intelligent application of the rod. As to the other feature of the doctor's statement—perhaps he is afraid that the teacher will forget to use the rod at all when he or she has "cooled off."—Spencer Leader.

Mental worry, they say, is one of the most frequent causes of this disease, and that one of the best preventives for appendicitis is to smile continually and habitually. Now look pleasant, please.—Taunton Herald.

CITY COUNCIL.

The first regular meeting of the City Council since the adjournment for the summer last June was held Monday evening, and although there was considerable business, the meeting was not of long duration.

The hearing on changing of the name of Goffe street to Presidents lane developed quite an opposition and after the hearing the petition was referred to the Street Committee where it will be thrashed out.

One of the important matters to come up was the report of the special committee appointed to investigate the Fire Department. This committee held a large number of meetings and practically every member of the department was before them. The committee as will be seen by its report printed elsewhere found nothing entirely wrong with the department, showing that many of the street complaints were unfounded and were probably started by sore heads or someone who had an ax to grind.

A large number of communications were received from the Mayor on various matters and considerable new business was introduced.

Councilman Bryant, Cunningham and Johnson were absent.

TRANSFER WANTED.

The City Auditor asked for a transfer of $60 to his department for office expenses.

Laid on the table until later when Councilman Bailey offered the necessary order which was referred to the Finance Committee.

COMMUNICATIONS

A communication was received from the Mayor appointing William Cole as clerk in Ward Six precinct one in place of Cephas Drew declined. Continued.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Assessors asking $184 for extra clerical and $100 for miscellaneous.

Laid on the table until later when Councilman Bailey offered the necessary orders making the transfer. Referred to Finance Committee.

A communication was received from the Mayor appointing Charles A. Stecher as a measurer of leather. Continued.

COUNCILMAN RESIGNS.

President Whiton read a communication from Councilman Cunningham resigning as a member of the City Council.

Councilman Little offered a receiving the resignation and declining the seat vacant. Adopted.

DOGS IN RESTRAINT.

The Mayor forwarded the following communication from the Board of Health relative to dogs.

“We respectfully represent to you the following condition, an epidemic in hydrophobia has broken out among the animals in the city and has already been transmitted to some of our inhabitants, and almost daily dogs are being found afflicted with hydrophobia. That we in meeting today have voted that the Mayor and City Council be requested to have in restraint or under leash for a period of ninety days all dogs in this city. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Gilliatt offered the necessary order. Adopted.

WATER METERS.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Commissioner asking for the transfer from the appropriation for water maintenance of $1,500 for the purchase and installation of meters.

Laid on the table until later when Councilman Sandberg offered an order for that amount. Referred to Finance Committee.

CLEANING BROOKS.

The Mayor forwarded communication from the Board of Health asking for an appropriation of $200 for cleaning brooks. Referred to Finance Committee.

PETITIONS.

President Whiton said that he had received a letter from Hough Neck complaining about the express service and had received a second letter stating that the complaint had been rectified. Placed on file.

BOSTON SEWER.

Councilman Richards offered a resolve for a special committee of three to act with a like committee of the Board of Trade and Squantum Improvement association relative to abating the sewer nuisance at Squantum. Adopted. President Whiton appointed Councilman Hadlock, Beaumont and Sandberg.

The Electric Light Co. petitioned for a relocation for poles. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Beaman offered an order for a public hearing Sept. 15. Adopted.

JUNK ORDINANCE.

Councilman Duffy asked why the Committee on Ordinances had not reported on the ordinance relative to storing junk. The committee had been considering the matter since last May and it was time it reported.

Chairman Gilliatt replied that this matter involved a number of legal questions and had been referred to the legal department and the City Solicitor had not reported.

City Solicitor McNameary said the matter had slipped his mind. He had received a number of matters from the committee and supposed that he had reported on all of them. The hearing therefore for the delay was on him.

The committee were given further time.

WOODWARD FUND.

President Whiton at this point appointed Councilman Thompson, Ross and Gilliatt as the special committee to investigate the Woodward Fund and Property as required by the Ordinances.

BUILDING ORDINANCE.

Councilman Gilliatt offered an order amending the Building Ordinance relative to three story buildings. Referred to Executive.

TO DRAIN SWAMP.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the order appropriating $416 to settle expense of the Katherine Buckley claim. Rules suspended and order passed.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The Special Committee appointed to investigate the Fire Department made a lengthy report which was accepted. The report will be found in full in another column.

GOFFE STREET.

A public hearing was held at 8:15 on changing the name of Goffe street. The hearing closed at 9:20 until next Monday, Sept. 15.

During the meeting of the Council the Presidents platform resembled a large flower garden for George F. Eckcock had presented a large number of his 157 varieties of daffodils and they added a pretty bit of color to the scene. After the meeting it was found that the several bouquets contained tags for their disposition. One went to the Mayor while others went to President Whiton, Councilman Richards and others.

He failed to find any evidence that Goffe ever resided in Quincy. Personally he liked to believe in the legend of William Tell and others that about Gen. Goffe was mythical.

Mr. Pfaffmann read a letter from Charles Francis Adams in which he said that he did not think Goffe ever lived in Quincy, if so it must have been in a shack. The original name of the street was Presidents lane. Mr. Adams also expressed his displeasure at the way historic names had been misplaced in Quincy in naming streets.

Continuing, Mr. Pfaffmann said that it was true there was a Presidents avenue in South Quincy but he did not think this would cause any confusion. No one else appeared in favor.

In opposition the first speaker was Richard D. Chase. He desired to enter his protest against the change. He had signed the petition because he did not like to appear offish. Now, however, he desired to withdraw his name from the petition. The street has been called Goffe street for many years and was so recorded in land titles. He also had found that several had signed the petition under the same conditions which he had. We have plenty of historic names, for we have Adams street, Adams shore, Adams Academy and Adams Square but the name of Goffe has no duplicate, and he could see no reason to take the name out of the directory. He had lived on the street for 37 years and unless there was some good reason he should object to the name being changed.

Councilman Duffy asked if he believed the name of an outlaw should be perpetuated in Quincy.

Mr. Chase replied that Gen. Goffe was a patriot. He would advise that before the council made up its mind that it should read history, and if they did so they would not be ashamed of the name Goffe.

Carrie R. Hayward opposed for the same reasons as did Mr. Chase. He could see no reason for it. The first part of the street was Presidents lane, but that was only a small portion of it. The name Goffe is written in titles to be had and should be retained. There was no reason why Gen. Goffe should not be honored. He was an honest gentleman and a patriot and was proud to live on a street bearing his name.

Edward B. Marsh represented an estate that had bordered on Goffe street for a hundred years. He had remembered it as Goffe street ever since he could remember anything, and he wanted to protest against its name being changed. He could not see how anyone would be benefited by the change.

Joseph A. Sedgwick could see no reason for the change. He had lived on the street for ten years. If it will bring any illumination to the street let it be changed. It is going to be changed he would suggest the name of “Paradise avenue,” or if he had occasion to use the street at night as he did they would suggest the name of “Spoon avenue.” He hoped before the Council would consider these names.

Letters remonstrating were also received from Wilson Marsh and from Charles Hatch.

The hearing closed and the petition was referred to Committee on Streets.

SALARY INCREASE.

Councilman Boyd offered an order amending the Fire Department ordinances so as to increase the pay of the men as follows: Captain and superintendent of fire alarm from $1,190 to $1,200; Lieutenant from $1,050 to $1,150, and the pay of the permanent men $275 per day for the first two years, and $300 per day thereafter. Substitute firemen $275 per day when detailed. Referred to Ordinance Committee.

MORE LIGHT.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Board of Health asking for an appropriation of $200 for cleaning brooks. Referred to Finance Committee.

WATER METERS.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Commissioner asking for the transfer from the appropriation for water maintenance of $1,500 for the purchase and installation of meters.

Laid on the table until later when Councilman Sandberg offered an order for that amount. Referred to Finance Committee.

THE VETERANS.

The survivors of the 39th Regiment, Massachusetts Vol., held their 47th annual reunion and celebrated the 51st anniversary of the regiments departure for the front on Saturday, and were the guests of Co. C of Medford.

A business session at eleven in the morning preceded the parade to the Lawrence Light Guard armory, where the comrades banqueted with wives, sons, daughters and friends. During the banquet there was speaking and music. More than 150 persons were present, including about 80 veterans of the regiment. Those present who inlisted from Quincy in Co. D of the regiment were: Luther Parrott, William J. Young and S. D. DeForest Sr. of Quincy, George A. Willett of Revere and Samuel Brown of Reading.

A committee was appointed to memorialize the Legislature to erect suitable monuments or tablets marking the camping grounds of the Massachusetts regiments at Readville and Lynnfield.

BUILDING PERMITS.

Inspector of Buildings Warren S. Parker reports the following building permits issued last week:

— Mary C. Joyce, alteration, Oakman road.

— A. L. Baker, alteration, Brockton avenue.

— Mrs. Robert Davis, alteration, Nut Island road.

— Andrew Johnson, stable, Gothland street.

— Frank A. MacDowd, alteration, Hancock street.

— George H. Field, alteration, Hancock street.

— Mrs. Alma Sten, dwelling, Glendale road.

— Ella Watts, alteration, East Square street.

— F. Favorite, dwelling, Granger street.

— J. B. Sutherland, two dwellings, Independence avenue.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

Benjamin F. Seeley, a former resident and son of Mrs. Mrs. James Chubbuck of Germantown, received fatal injuries in a fall from an electric light pole in Boston, Monday morning and died shortly after at the Boston City Hospital. He was 45 years of age and leaves a wife and family.

Seeley, who was employed by the Edison Electric Light Co., was at work on a pole at Harrison avenue and Eastus street, Roxbury, when he received a slight shock and it is believed lost his balance. He fell to the sidewalk, 20 feet below, fracturing his skull and died at the hospital where he was taken in the ambulance of station 9. One side of his face was burned. It is said that this was the third fatal accident on the pole within the past two years.

Seeley was employed as a lineman by the Quincy Electric Light and Power Co. and lived in this city up to a few months ago. He was popular among the other employees and was well known here.

FUNERAL OF MRS. AMET.

The funeral of Mrs. Emily Amet of West Quincy, widow of Charles N. Amet whose sudden death was a shock to many friends, was held Monday morning from her home on Willard street with a large attendance of relatives and friends. For two months Mrs. Amet suffered with diabetes and she never recovered from a sudden turn on Thursday. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Mary's church by Rev. F. William Kenan and burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mrs. Amet who had been married to Wm. E. LaBorde in 1885. She came to West Quincy in 1887, and afterward removed to Barre, Vt. She returned to Quincy two years ago and made her home on Willard street.

The pall bearers were Thomas Bouton, Felias Stone, Joseph Gosselin, Esrae Ladree. Among the street tributes were the wreath of a standing cross from Miss Sophie DeCoste, a large pillow from the employees of the Rice and Hutchins South Braintree factory, and a standing wreath from William J. McGinnies.

She is survived by three children, Mr. Otto M. Lewis, Miss Emma M. Amet and Joseph C. Amet.

JUNIOR MOOSE.

Councilman Duffy asked why the Committee on Ordinances had not reported on the ordinance relative to storing junk. The committee had been considering the matter since last May and it was time it reported.

Chairman Gilliatt replied that this matter involved a number of legal questions and had been referred to the legal department and the City Solicitor had not reported.

City Solicitor McNameary said the matter had slipped his mind. He had received a number of matters from the committee and supposed that he had reported on all of them. The hearing therefore for the delay was on him.

The committee were given further time.

VALUATION BOOKS.

The long expected but long delayed Valuation books of the assessed property of Quincy for 1912 are expected at City Hall this week or next. Only a limited number were ordered, an edition of 500, and may be exhausted. It is suggested that those interested in the subject of taxation should make early application in writing to the Assessors. Not since the city was incorporated in 1888 has the valuation list been printed, probably not since 1875. It is important that assessments should be equitable, and the books will be perused with interest.

LAW TAX RATE.

In the calendar the order establishing an ordinance regulating speaking on public streets and public parades took its second reading and was passed.

Adjourned at 9:20 until next Monday, Sept. 15.

During the meeting of the Council the Presidents platform resembled a large flower garden for George F. Eckcock had presented a large number of his 157 varieties of daffodils and they added a pretty bit of color to the scene. ## The Quincy Patriot

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1913

THIS WEEK'S FIRES.

The fire department had a hard time Wednesday in extinguishing a fire in the house of Charles A. Gridley at 59 Beach street, and it was not until after an hour and a half hard work that the fire was out and the recall sounded.

The fire started on the floor beneath a hot water heater, that had been enclosed in the wall. In this small closet were a lot of old stove rags and it is supposed that spontaneous combustion started the fire. It must have been smoldering a long time for the family detected the odor of smoke early this morning but were unable to discover any fire until shortly before 10 o'clock when it made its appearance.

An alarm was sounded from Box 57 at 9:55 bringing the apparatus from the Atlantic and Wollaston stations and the central station combination. The firemen found that the fire had crept along beneath the floors and up between the walls until it reached the roof where it broke out into flames.

This made it a most difficult fire to fight for the firemen were obliged to do considerable cutting and tearing away of the walls and flooring to get at the fire, and in this way followed it from floor to floor until the last spark had been extinguished. The only time the fire broke out however was when it reached the roof and this was quickly extinguished.

The damage therefore is largely due to the cutting that was necessary and the loss is estimated at $500.

Wednesday afternoon at 2:55 the department was summoned on an alarm from Box 36 for a fire in a hen house in the rear of John H. Gillis' bicycle store on Franklin street. The hen house set within a few feet of a large gasoline tank, but fortunately the gasoline tank was buried under ground and the fire did not reach it.

When the department arrived they tipped over the hen house, which fell to pieces, and a chemical stream quickly extinguished it. The fire is thought to have been started by some children playing with matches.

The alarm from Box 61 at 1:05 A. M. Thursday called the department to a bad fire in the store of R. J. Barry at the corner of Hancock and Squantum streets. The fire evidently started in a shed in the rear of and attached to the store and when the department arrived the fire had worked up the outside of the building to the roof, and had also worked in through the windows and into the store.

K. of C. MEETING.

A lecture on the "Church and her Institutions" by Charles J. O'Brien, district deputy of Jamaica Plain Council, Knights of Columbus and plans for an open meeting and lecture by John E. Gilman, past national commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic were part of the program at the meeting of Quincy Council, Knights of Columbus, in the New Colonial hall, Thursday evening.

Commander Gilman will deliver his "Reminiscences in the Civil War" in October and an invitation will be extended to Post 88, G. A. R. to attend in a body.

John E. Gilman is minus one arm which he forfeited in the battle of Gettysburg. He is one of the few in the 12th Massachusetts Infantry that left the field of battle and with him was George L. Phillips of this city.

The club will hold open hours in their room the Saturday night preceding Columbus Day and a barn party is being planned by Peter McAllister, Henry F. McGee, J. Lawrence, Katsos, Andrew M. Driscoll, Paul F. Avery and Joseph H. Eteck, the lecturer of the council.

A committee was appointed to draw up resolutions on the death of John Harkins, a trustee and long time member of the council, who died recently.

CONTRACT FOR SHIPYARD.

A dispatch from Washington announces that Secretary Daniels has awarded the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation the contract for one of the six torpedo boat destroyers, bids for which were opened some weeks ago. The bid of the Fore River corporation for one vessel was $861,000.

These vessels are to be the largest of their class yet designed. They will have the same high sustained sea speed that has proved so successful in previous boats of the same type, but they mark a decided advance in radius of action at a high speed. Increased space and weight has been assigned for the living accommodations of both crew and officers.

The destroyers will be 310 feet long, 29 feet 10 inches beam, 9 feet 3 inches draft and 1090 tons displacement. They will be oil burners exclusively and will be propelled by steam turbines.

The contracts for the other vessels of the same type were awarded as follows: the New York Shipbuilding Corporation gets two at $85,000 each, the William Cramp & Sons Shipbuilding Co. of Philadelphia, two at $881,000 each and the Bath, Me., Iron Works one at $884,000.

WOOLEY-DEMPTSTER.

Among those to arrive on the steamer Parisian Tuesday was Miss Alexandra Ellington, Ross Dempster of Scotland, who was met on her arrival by Ernest Leonard Wooley one of the drummers employed at the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation whose bride, she crossed the water to become. Mr. Wooley had already secured the necessary credentials to enable the ceremony to be performed, and the couple immediately repaired to the residence of Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott where they were unit in marriage. The ceremony took place at 7 o'clock the bridal couple being unattended. Immediately after the ceremony they left for their home at 86 Edison Park, where they were given an informal reception by their friends.

A special entertainment was given by the Ward Three committee after the business session of Gen. L. Gill, Rekabode Lodge Thursday evening. The program opened with the singing of America which was followed by the allegiance to the flag by Miss Ethel Fay and Miss Esther Gardner. Then came a recitation by Herbert Walker, of Norhampton, formerly of Quincy, "Marching Through Georgia" the Patriotic Alphabet and "Columbus, the gem of the ocean" by the company, reading by Mrs. Robert Welch and closing with the "Star Spangled Banner" by the company.

When the railroads get their steel car equipment, the engineers can go to sleep any time they feel like it.

Now that the Sunday schools have resumed their sessions, the boys will have a chance for thorough discussion of the baseball situation.

Now that every one has got back to work after having an outing, business seems to go nearly as smoothly as it did before vacation.

Oysters are a correct order now that September has come, but your best girl won't be satisfied with them until they sell so much cheaper than lobsters.

Six girls employed by a Paris dressmaker made a gown in 20 minutes. In this country the dressmakers compete to see who shall take the longest time to make a gown.

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES.

Many people are not aware perhaps of the monthly lists which are issued at the library on such subjects as "Boats and boating," "Panama canal," etc. The last, "Some resorts and historic places in Massachusetts" deserves special attention as it includes an annotated list of historic Quincy which answers many questions often asked at the desk. The previous list "Stories for girls" is especially adapted to school girls.

We would like also to draw the attention of our people to the quarterly index of new books added to the library. This list of new books is classified under such subjects as Sociology, Literature, Arts, History, Fiction, etc. also books added to the Children's room and should be of special value to the student who may see what has lately been added on his subject. All of these lists are for free distribution and the last ones may be taken from the rack under the bulletins board near the entrance door, the older ones may be had by applying at the desk. The books indexed in the later quarters are usually placed on the shelves near the delivery desk where patrons may see and handle them.

VISIT TELEPHONE EXCHANGE.

In response to an invitation of Mr. Weatherly, of the main office of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Co., who has been in Quincy for the past few weeks investigating the company as to poor telephone service, the special committee of the Board of Trade, together with several of its members accepted his invitation to visit the Quincy exchange on Merrymount road Thursday and see the working of the plant.

The visitors were taken all over the building, first going to the basement where the underground cables enter the building, then through the administration offices on the street floor, in the rear of which are located the ringing plant and the boards where the cables end. They then went to the operating room on the first floor where they had explained to them how calls were received and how connections of one line were made with another. They found a large number of operators busily at work answering calls and making connections, while back of them were several girls, who are known as supervisors. It is the duty of these supervisors to watch the work of the operators to see that they have no unnecessary talk with subscribers and they answer the calls and make connections promptly.

There is an entire absence of noise in the operating room for the fact that a subscriber is calling is made evident to the operator by a tiny electric light globe. The lines on these tiny globes tell the operator whether the party calling has an unlimited zone or a limited suburban service, or if it is a prepayment station. In fact the kind of service subscribers have is immediately communicated to the operator by the kind of marks on the others in the high school.

SCHOOL NOTES.

The superintendent called the grammar masters together Tuesday evening to discuss with him the provisions of the new child-labor law which went into effect September 1st. The enforcement of this law has not yet begun as the necessary blanks and instructions from the new Commission of Labor have not yet been received. The method of enforcement was discussed however and within a few days, the provisions of the law will be carried into effect. In brief, the conditions under the new law are as follows: All existing labor certificates, of whatever type are now null and void and are to be replaced at once with the new forms. A boy or girl between the ages of 14 and 16, must therefore be either at school or at work. Even if the child is to remain at home during these years, there must still be written permission from the school authorities based on evidence that the child is engaged in profitable work.

A child of 14 to secure a labor certificate must, first of all, obtain from the prospective employer a card certifying his intention to employ the child and stating the specific nature of the employment. The child must then obtain from a physician, either the school physician or the family physician, a certificate that upon examination, he appears physically able to perform work of the nature specified upon the employer's record. These two certificates are to be supplemented by a certificate of age to be obtained from the office of the city clerk in that city where he was born. He must then obtain from the principal of his school a certificate that he has completed the work of the fourth year in English and has attended school at least 120 days during the 12 months after his 13th year. The presentation of these four certificates to the attendance officer, Charles H. Johnson, will be necessary for the issuance of the employment certificate, which must be made out in duplicate. All papers connected with the certificate must be filed as records. Whenever the child leaves the place where employed, the employee is required by law to return the certificate to the attendance officer within two days. The child leaving employment must obtain a new employment or return to school. A new certificate is issued for each new employment and the return of the certificate to the attendance officer gives notice that the child is to be looked up at once and returned to school.

The employment certificates become void when the boy reaches the age of 14 and must be replaced at once with education certificates which are to be held by the employer between the ages of 16 and 21.

The effect of the new law will be to increase very materially the number of school children between the ages of 14 and 16, since it becomes much more difficult for them to secure employment, many occupations being closed to them. It will also increase very materially the duties of the attendance officer in making out the new certificates keeping his record full and complete and in looking up non-attendance between periods of employment.

The question of dissolving the class and joining the Waltham class brought forth a heated discussion and the motion to do so was overwhelmingly defeated.

Interesting reports were given by Harold Neal for the membership committee and William Bullock for the social committee. The treasurer reported the class in excellent financial condition.

After the business meeting, a Dutch supper of frankfurters, rolls and coffee was served by the members of Bullock and Drew.

The evening closed with a social hour and sing with the fellows gathered around the piano.

RAND CLASS OFFICERS.

With its annual meeting in the chapel of the Wollaston Baptist Church on Saturday evening the Rand class opened its season's activities and good times. The class will meet each Sunday noon for a religious service and that will be followed by a social hour and a half social on the half century mark.

Seventy-five members is the slogan this year and the enthusiasm shown at Wednesday's meeting promises to accomplish much in that direction. The membership is at present just over the half century mark.

The unanimous re-election of Charles M. Roach as president was the feature of the following list of officers elected:

Teacher—J. Arthur Sparrow.

Assistant Teacher—A. J. Luxton.

Vice President—Theodore Marceau.

Secretary—Fred Oxner.

Treasurer—C. Percival Foss.

QUINCY CHORAL SOCIETY.

The Executive Board of Quincy society met on Tuesday evening at the home of the secretary Mrs. Edith C. Page on Upland road. The new conductor Mr. George S. Dunham was present and a most attractive plan for the season's work was mapped out. Two concerts will be given, the second one, of more particular importance will come in the spring at which the Oratorio "Elijah" will be presented. This masterpiece is always attractive and the Quincy Choral Society won its first laurels by the name was Miss Etta Litchman, chairman; Miss Frances Carter and Miss Marion Litchman.

There is an entire absence of noise in the operating room for the fact that a subscriber is calling is made evident to the operator by a tiny electric light globe.

The lines on these tiny globes tell the operator whether the party calling has an unlimited zone or a limited suburban service, or if it is a prepayment station. In fact the kind of service subscribers have is immediately communicated to the operator by the kind of marks on the others in the high school.

The visitors were also shown how everything possible was being done to insure prompt and accurate service. How some mistakes were made were also explained, to the visitors.

TAX BOOK ISSUED.

The much talked of and anxiously waited for Assessors' valuation list for the year 1912 is out in book form. The book is one of 1189 pages and the issue of 400 volumes cost the city at the rate of about $4 per volume.

There have been many inquiries for copies of the books, but as the issue is limited care will be used in their distribution. The Assessors announced this morning that they had received many letters asking that copies be sent by mail, but that none would be delivered in this way. Any citizen who desires a copy must apply in person at the office of the Assessors at City Hall, and even then the applicant must be a property owner to be favored. In no event say the Assessors will copies be given to boys or children. A record is also kept of the persons to whom the copies are issued.

The book is in reality a transcript from the Assessors' valuation list of 1912. It gives first the name of the party assessed, what the real estate consists of and the valuation and tax on same, the personal estate and what it consists of and the tax on the same and the total tax.

The book is issued in accordance with an order passed by the City Council of 1912, which provides that a similar list shall be published every two years, beginning with the year 1912.

COMPLAINT DISMISSED.

The complaint of larceny against Samuel Hathaway was dismissed Thursday after Stephen W. North, the complainant testified that a paint mill taken by Hathaway had been returned before the arrest.

Both men were partners and North loaned the mill, according to the testimony of Hathaway who neglected to return it after a disagreement between them. Civil action will probably be taken by Mr. North.

Notes and Comments.

"Safety first" that's what the railroad managers and railroad newspapers are saying now; it's what they should have said—and seen to—along. Citizens who travel by rail prefer cleanliness to dirt, comfort to discomfort, but their chief concern is and always has been to reach the end of their journey alive and with whole bones. The swiftest and most luxuriously appointed train would not tempt a man of them if she knew that for him the terminal was to be the grave or the hospital—Hartford Courant.

—Some musicians who play at dances in Boston and elsewhere have taken strong ground against some of the modern dances. Bandmaster Sousa, however, takes the ground that the meeting was called to order and a recess was taken until the call of the President for lack of quorum. The meeting was called to order again at 7:55.

A communication was received from the Mayor stating that the bill for printing the Assessors valuation lists had been received. The amount of the bill was $2,088 or $588 in excess of the amount appropriated for the printing of the book. He asked that the Council make an additional appropriation to meet the bill. Referred to Finance Committee.

A petition was received from the Electric Light Co. for a location for poles on Abigail avenue. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Beaman offered an order for a public hearing. Oct. 6 which was adopted.

Petitions were received from the Telephone Co. for attachments on several streets. Granted.

The Street Railway Co. petitioned for a relocation of its pole at the junction of Washington and Coddington streets. Granted.

Several petitions for minor licenses were received and referred to the License Committee.

A public hearing was held at 8 o'clock on petition of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation for permission to store gasoline. No one appeared for or against. The hearing closed and the order was laid on the table until later when Councilman Gilliatt offered an order granting the license which was adopted.

Councilman Devaney made some objection as no one had appeared for the company. Several however spoke in favor, and on the question of adoption Councilman Devaney voted.

A public hearing was held at 8:10 on petition of Louis K. Badger for a license to keep gasoline. A letter was received from the petitioner asking to withdraw the petition as he desired to secure a new location.

The petitioner was then given leave to withdraw.

WATER METERS.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the order transferring $1,500 from water maintenance to the appropriation for water meters. Report accepted. Rules suspended and order passed.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the order appropriating $100 for Miscellaneous expenses of the Assessors. Order adopted.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the order appropriating $100 for Miscellaneous expenses of the Assessors. Order adopted.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the order appropriating $184 for extra clerical services of the Assessors. Order adopted.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the order appropriating $60 for office expenses of the Auditor. Order adopted.

SIDEWALK TRANSFER.

Councilman Thompson offered an order transferring the sum of $957.26 from the appropriation for permanent sidewalks for 1912 to the appropriation for permanent sidewalks of 1913. Referred to Finance Committee.

Councilman Little offered an order for a light on Hayden street. Referred to Executive.

CALENDAR.

The order granting the Gas Co. a location for mains took its second reading at the First Unitarian church, Quincy when Miss Gertrude King, daughter of Mr. Edgar A. King of Clay street, Wollaston and Mr. John Bovington of Seattle, Washington, son of Sidney Bovington, were married at the parish house of St. Anne's parish, Neponset on Sunday evening by Rev. Fr. McMann.

The bride was given away by her father and Miss Isabelle Doyle, her cousin, was bridesmaid. Alphonse B. Elcock, a brother of the groom was best man. The bride and bridesmaids were both dressed in blue broadcloth and wore pictures to match.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents which was attended only by the immediate relatives and friends. The decorations were the choicest specimens of dahlias from the gardens of George F. Elcock, father of the groom.

The groom's present to the bride was a solid gold bracelet and gold cuff links were given the best man. The couple were the recipients of many wedding presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Elcock will reside at 65 Templeton street, Ashton.

CITY COUNCIL.

A regular meeting of the City Council was held Monday evening. It was a short meeting however but for a recess to await the hour of a public hearing an adjournment would have been reached at 8:15. As it was the meeting adjourned at 8:22.

The only excitement during the evening was made by Timothy Moriarty who had evidently been looking on something stronger than water. He frequently interrupted the meeting by calling upon the councilmen to speak louder. President Whiton brought his gavel down hard and told Tim that he must keep quiet or leave the hall.

This did not quiet him however for he kept on. City Messenger Tirrell was then ordered to put him out of the hall. The City Messenger began to talk to Moriarty but it did no good. Chief of Police Burrell then came in and Moriarty was taken out and to the police station where he was locked up for drunkenness.

The absent members were Councilmen, Ericson, Bryant, Johnson, Richards and Farquharson.

The Finance Committee was in session when the meeting was called to order and a recess was taken until the call of the President for lack of quorum.

The meeting was called to order again at 7:55.

A communication was received from the Mayor stating that the bill for printing the Assessors valuation lists had been received. The amount of the bill was $2,088 or $588 in excess of the amount appropriated for the printing of the book.

The petitioner was then given leave to withdraw.

ELCOCK—GLYNN.

Ambrose G. W. Elcock, son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Elcock of West Quincy and Miss Mary V. Glynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin H. Glynn of Neponset were married at the parish house of St. Anne's parish, Neponset on Sunday evening by Rev. Fr. McMann.

The bride was given away by her father and Miss Isabelle Doyle, her cousin, was bridesmaid. Alphonse B. Elcock, a brother of the groom was best man. The bride and bridesmaids were both dressed in blue broadcloth and wore pictures to match.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents which was attended only by the immediate relatives and friends. The decorations were the choicest specimens of dahlias from the gardens of George F. Elcock, father of the groom.

The groom's present to the bride was a solid gold bracelet and gold cuff links were given the best man. The couple were the recipients of many wedding presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Elcock will reside at 65 Templeton street, Ashton.

BOYDING—KING.

A quiet wedding took place Saturday at the First Unitarian church, Quincy when Miss Gertrude King, daughter of Mr. Edgar A. King of Clay street, Wollaston and Mr. John Bovington of Seattle, Washington, son of Sidney Bovington, were married at the parish house of St. Anne's parish, Neponset on Sunday evening by Rev. Fr. McMann.

The bride was given away by her father and Miss Isabelle Doyle, her cousin, was bridesmaid. Alphonse B. Elcock, a brother of the groom was best man. The bride and bridesmaids were both dressed in blue broadcloth and wore pictures to match.

The groom's present to the bride was a solid gold bracelet and gold cuff links were given the best man. The couple were the recipients of many wedding presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Elcock will reside at 65 Templeton street, Ashton.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

The first service of the fall was conducted at the Wollaston Baptist church. The pastor chose for his subject "Scripture Teaching Concerning Example." The theme was developed on three lines: (1) Christ is the only perfect example, (2) Other people are examples to teach us; (3) We, whether or not so desire, are ourselves examples, 1 Tim. 4:12, 1 Cor. 11:1; It was sermon that could not fail to cause earnest heart searching.

Sunday school was held at 12:15 in the chapel with 256 present. The Junior Endeavor meeting at 3:30 in the chapel was in charge of Mrs. Joseph Walther. The Y. P. S. C. E. preparation prayer service was held at 5:45 and the regular meeting at 6:00. Subject: "Favorite Verses in the Gospels" Leader, Ernest Roberts. At the popular praise service at 7:00, in the auditorium there was a short sermon by the pastor. Subject: "A Six Fold Task for Every Christian."

Operated in connection with the country fair, was a most pretentious amusement resort called Joyland Park. The first meeting of the Wollaston Unitarian church club will be held Tuesday evening, Oct. 14, at 6:03 o'clock. This is the oldest church club in town, having been organized Oct. 23, 1909, and has had always a full membership and a waiting list.

At this point a recess was taken until 8:20.

At 8:20 a public hearing was held on petitions of the Electric Light Co. for a location for poles. Supt. Austin appeared in favor and one against. Hearing closed, after which Councilman Beaman offered an order granting the locations. Ordered to a second reading.

On motion of Councilman Gilliatt the application of Frederick A. Meyer for a license to run a hackney carriage was within from the committee. Councilman Gilliatt then offered an order granting licenses which was adopted.

President Whiton announces that they would appoint Councilman Sanderson as chairman of the Committee on Public Buildings to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Councilman Cunningham.

Miss King is secretary to Dean Huburt of Harvard University.

DALY—DEWURST.

Miss Hazel E. Dewhurst of Maple street and John Leo Daly of West Quincy were married Sunday evening by Rev. John J. Coan at the St. John's parish house. The ceremony was witnessed only by the immediate friends. Miss Dewhurst has been cashier at the Thompson Cafe for some time and the groom is employed as a motorman by the Bay State Street.

SAILED FOR INDIA.

Many of the friends of Miss Margaret Melcher were at the wharf of the Leyline line in Boston early Saturday morning to wish her bon voyage and success. She sailed at 8:30 on the S. S. Canadian for England, where she will attend a convention of the Young Women's Christian Association Oct. 2. Miss Melcher will sail from London for India where she will continue her studies at a student secretary of the Y. W. C. A. Her address will be 134 Corporation street, Calcutta, India.

About thirty friends assembled at the wharf including relatives, college chums, Quincy people, and others prominent in the Y. W. C. A. work. There were many floral gifts and several sealed letters not to be opened for several days.

NEW VOTERS.

The Registrar of Voters held a busy session at City Hall Friday evening and added 71 names to the voting lists. Of that number Ward Five contributed 30, which report says were largely Progressives. Ward Six came next with 14 and the Ward Four with 13, the number being largely of French nationality. The number of wards was as follows: Ward One, 9; Ward Three, 5; Ward Four, 15; Ward Five, 30; Ward Six, 14; Ward Two, the Quincy Point ward, was the only ward in which no names were added.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

What was intended to be a Dutch supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Breslyn of Merrymount road, Monday evening was turned into the celebration of the host and hostess tenth wedding anniversary.

Invitations had been received by a few friends to attend the Dutch supper. They later learned that the evening was also the tenth anniversary of their marriage. Quietly they worked together and when they arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Breslyn, they came loaded with quantities of tin ware which was presented to the hosts.

The dinner was off however on scheduled time and was greatly enjoyed by those fortunate enough to have been among the elect. The dinner over there were the usual amusements which included vocal solos by Alice Chamberlain and Arthur Tylee.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

CROWELL—JOSSELYN.

A steady old First church with its high mahogany pulpit simply decorated with golden rod and lavender asters was a fitting background for a wedding Saturday evening. The bride was Miss Helen Barstow Josselyn, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Josselyn. The groom was Samuel Crowell, Jr., of Manchester, New Hampshire, second son of Dr. Samuel Crowell of Dorchester.

Whilst the guests were gathering William Weston at the organ played continuously. Soon after 7:30 o'clock to the strains of Loehengin's wedding march the wedding party entered the church and were met at the altar by Rev. Adelbert Lathrop Hudson, pastor of Fairhaven, Ralph Hazen Hall of Wollaston, the organist, the groom, the bride and the organist.

That Wollaston contained so many gardens with such a variety of products was a large success in the annals of Wollaston enterprise.

All through Saturday afternoon and evening large crowds were present on the grounds attracted by the addition of live stock exhibits.

With such unequalled success shaking hands with them and so great interest manifested by Wollaston farmers the originators of the undertaking felt compelled to make this an annual event.

This is but the entering wedge of a series of country fairs whose growth will finally make those at Brockton seem like minor attractions" said Frederick H. Bishop, chairman of exhibits in presenting the exhibits.

"The people of Wollaston were caught unaware this year" he continued, "but nevertheless they responded nobly with a splendid display. The great success was due to the energy and knowledge of gardeners.

"The entertainment committee is planning a series of whist parties in the clubrooms during the coming month. The committee in charge of the Labor day picnic report great success in every way. Part of the income will be devoted to the building fund. The committee was discharged with a rising vote of thanks for services rendered."

The first prize for collections went to Joseph K. Barber who had a large variety of fruits, vegetables and flowers.

Frederick H. Bishop was awarded second place and Mrs. M. G. Berry received a special prize for her collection.

The judges were Mrs. H. H. Kitson, Mrs. Charles R. Saunderson and William J. Patterson.

The Sunday school reopen Oct. 5.

During September the pastor will preach on Religion and Democracy, and Religion and Business taking for subjects the lawyer, the public official, the newspaper, etc., and their influence.

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL.

A large audience greeted the pastor Rev. Dr. Sneath, who spoke upon the topic "The Greatest Need." He said: "This age needs more than anything else Jesus Christ. The trend to selfishness must be overcome by the spirit of Christ. He must dominate the commercial, social and spiritual life."

The organist, W. C. Rogers, presided for the last time, as he will leave Quincy to take charge of the music in a State Normal school in Slippery Spring, Penn. Mr. Rogers has given the largest satisfaction and will be missed.

The audience room of the church has been redecorated and otherwise improved, making it more attractive than ever.

The sabbath school and Y. P. S. C. E. opened with a large attendance at each. The school has adopted the Pilgrim graded lessons.

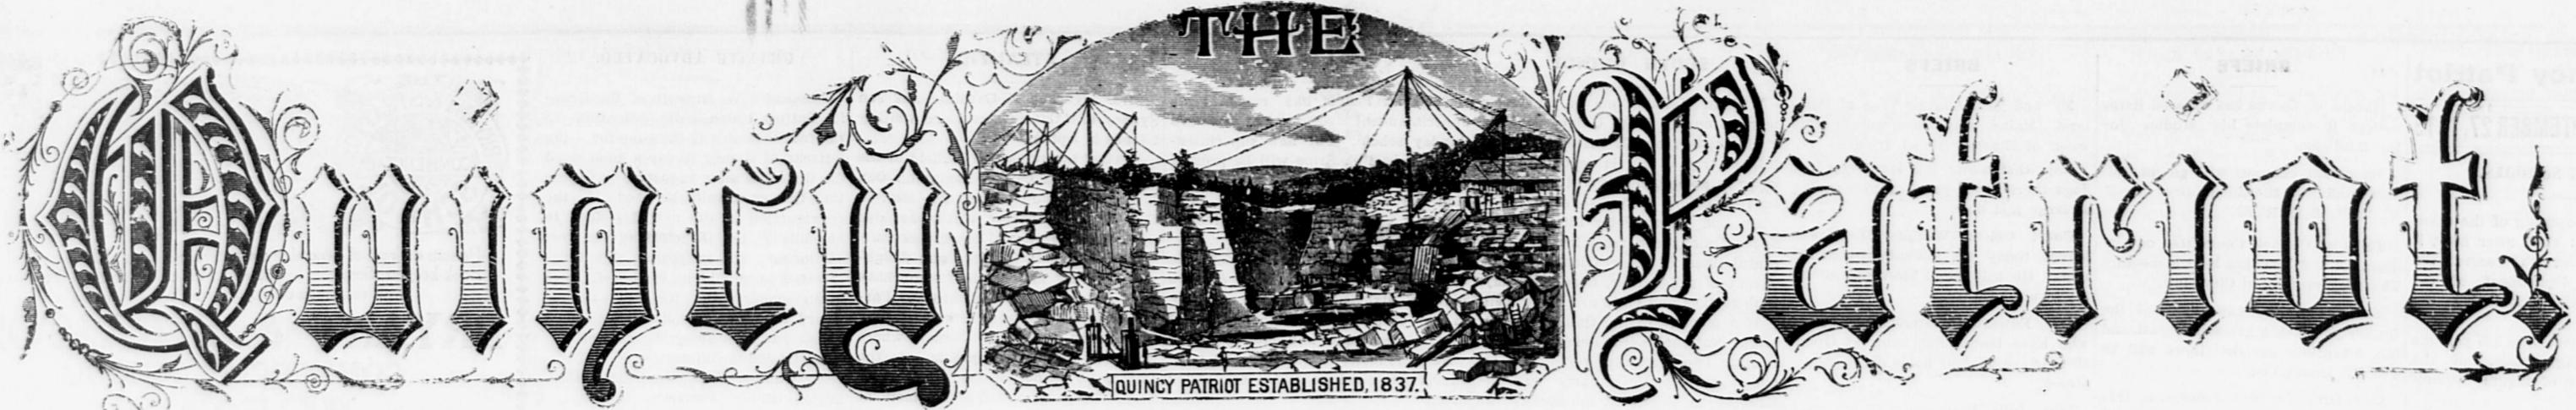

Leon Randall left this week for Dartmouth, Clifford Backus for the University of Maine and Sewall Sayward for Worcester academy. Miss Gladys Bain returns to Wellesley, Miss Helen S. Steavey to Mount Holyoke Miss Mary Broughton will enter Wheaton. Miss Mary Murray has accepted a position as instructor in physical culture in the Y. W. C. A. of Boston.

The quantity of beautiful gifts in silver, cut glass, china, etc., attest to the wide circle of friends of the young people. The bride is a graduate of Vassar, '08 and the groom Mr. Crowell of Harvard.

EVENING SCHOOLS.

In view of the opening of the evening school system week after next, it will be of interest to record the growth of that department of the School Committee's work during the past four years.

In 1908, there were only 325 persons enrolled in evening classes, and the aggregate number of nights attendance was 364.

In 1909, the enrolment rose to 356, with an aggregate attendance of 4956.

In 1910, the enrolment was 577, and the aggregate nights attendance was 869.

In 1911, the enrolment reached 690, with an aggregate nights attendance of 952.

Last year, the enrolment totaled 916, while the aggregate attendance rose to 14410. In four years time therefore, the evening school attendance of the city has quadrupled, and this increase has been shown in every department—grade classes, commercial classes and schools for the non-English speaking people.

In this last department, the School Committee is looking for a healthy increase this year, and will use one or two more rooms in both the Adams and the Willard buildings for that purpose. The employment of teachers in each building last year who knew the language of the dominant nationality in attendance had much to do with an increased enrolment and attendance, and the School Committee will undoubtedly go farther in this policy this year, as it results in a wider interest and enables the school to do more in the way of broader instruction.

It is planned this year, in addition to the instruction in the rudiments of English which constitutes the bulk of the evening school work, to give brief talks once a week through the interpreters on the government of the city, state and nation, the history and laws of the country, the desirability, profit and requisites of naturalization, and some of the fundamental facts of hygiene and sanitation.

In view of the scattered but frequent disturbances that arise among people who do not know our laws and customs, and yet are with us permanently, it is desired that the facts be brought home to them that the law is at once the servant and the master of the people of the country, and that all persons stand equal before the law. The recent enforcement of the Sunday amusement law in the city enables this latter statement to be given to these people without danger of arousing cynical mirth.

Instruction of the type proposed, will be new to our evening schools, and where properly and intelligently given, ought to arouse thought among the hearers which ultimately would lead to intelligent action. The experiment will be watched with much interest and hope by all who look for civic betterment.

HALF-TIME SCHOOLS.

The half-time industrial school is now in operation on its second week, and the number of boys thus far registered is above 60. The new employment law hit the parents of the school hard, as many boys were placed in training to enter the school who now wait until they are 16. New boys were taken on place of those who were barred from employment. The way this law is working out makes it imperative that the committee, as soon as possible, devise some form of school which will take care of the boys from 14 to 16, who cannot get work and must go to school but who are dissatisfied with the school of an academic type.

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES.

The Thomas Crane public library now has an exhibition in the art gallery, the most attractive collection of tinted photographs ever seen. These pictures, many of which are reproductions of famous paintings, are by Wallace Nutting, a modern artist who has already become famous by his paintings. The collection includes old-fashioned houses and groups which are colored in the most harmonious tints.

Dainty Colonial maidens in delicate blue and pink gowns are pictured in most appropriate settings such as: white Colonial doorways, wainscoted rooms and attractive open fireplaces.

Fire places and brick ovens of the sixteenth century coaches and quilted gowns of the seventeenth century, while even ladies in the hoop skirts and fashionable bonnets of the eighteenth century are shown gossiping, shopping and many times accompanied by Colonial gentlemen in bright red coats with powdered queues. Life and beauty are the sentiments expressed by the artist through all the pictures and the landscapes are symbolic of spring with their green verdure and dainty pink apple blossoms. This collection is easily appreciated not only by art connoisseurs but by the general public.

CENTURY MAGAZINE.

Among the excellent fiction features of the October Century Magazine stands out the first quarter of a full-length novel entitled, "Home," by an anonymous writer. If this is a first book it is a most extraordinarily fine one; if it was written by a woman, she has the mind of a man. Other writers represented in this number are: Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, John Burroughs, Eleanor Hallowell Abbott, author of "Molly Make-Believe." Theodore Dreiser and Ellis Parker Butler.

Whatever may be the reader's political convictions, "The Progressive Party," by Theodore Roosevelt, is a contribution that few men or women can afford to miss. The article sums up the work of the young party and points the way to the future.

SPECIAL PERMIT.

The trip of Chief Burrell and Sergt. Larkin in the police auto to Squantum on Thursday to arrest two men who were supposed to be seining for smelts off Thompsons Island, proved to be a useless trip. With some difficulty the police managed to get the two ashore, and were about to place them under arrest when one of them fished a special permit to seine fish for the aquarium at Franklin park. It appeared that the two men were engaged in getting certain specimens of fish for the aquarium, and there was nothing for the police to do but let them go.
